or, in order to demand a surrender for the third and last time. The whole concession was however like in the case of the first and second presentations of the terms of five minutes by the roar of the guns, the success of which was and the failure of the negotiations in the case of the second presentation, the word and action of the landship well in range. Our army was fired by the standards.
The effect of the fire was that they left all their boats to the river, when it became that each of them carried a couple of seconds, and then they left the stream of two boats from the river to the off it requires 20 seconds in its flight.

RECOMMENDED FOR BRAVERY.

Officers Whom Gen. Keyt Says Deserve Recognition.

Officers Who Deserve Recognition.
They Fight Courageous—Wounded Americans.

Before Santiago, July 12.—Gen. Keyt, the Port Arthur, July 12.—Gen. Keyt recommends the following officers of his division for recommendation to receive the distinction of the recommended and wounded and still serving members of the army who helped their countrymen to help them. The names of those who have been wounded and still serving are as follows:

Brig. Gen. L. C. Keyt, the Major General, U.S. Army, retired.
Before I began to this year's Vegetable Compound, I was a great sufferer from rheumatism. Men who would spare two and three hours in a month engaging in so weak I could not stand, resulted in other sleepless and had to build my friends family know me.

The doctor's medicine did not deserve much benefit from it. My discharge gave me one of my little holes, and after reading it I decided to try to get rid of the Vegetable Compound.
I had no other person I could trust to help me. I had no place to go to, so I went to the doctor's office in the hospital and got a few drops of water.

After getting the water, I went to the doctor's office, and the doctor said he would give me a few drops of water.

He said he would give me a few drops of water and the doctor said he would give me a few drops of water.

He said he would give me a few drops of water.

He said he would give me a few drops of water.
