Prof. Robert C. French, the new educational director of the Y. M. C. It is his purpose to supply the missing educational links, and his long and successful experience as a practical educator in Oregon, brings him to see just what is needed in a boy, and how to supply that need. Prof. French is not a theoretician, but a practical educator, and he is going to see that the Y. M. C. A. is a place where a boy can get the education he needs, and not only how to get it, but also how to use it. He holds that interesting a boy so that he will not forget the things he learns, is a great desideratum in education. He holds that a boy should be given a practical education, and not a theoretical one. He holds that a boy should be given a practical education, and not a theoretical one.
