The bill rang for the first roll call at two minutes past 3 o'clock and a vote was taken on the amendments suggested by the committee on foreign relations. They were adopted. The first of the amendments adds the words "which is hereby superseded" after the words "Clayton-Bulwer convention," in the preamble to article 2, making it read as follows:

"The high contracting parties, desiring to preserve and maintain the 'general principle' of neutralization established in Article 3 of the Clayton-Bulwer convention, which is hereby superseded, adopt as the basis of such neutralization the following rules, substantially as embodied in the convention between Great Britain and certain other powers, signed at Constantinople on October 3, 1888, for the free navigation of the Suez Maritime canal. The second amendment adopted by the committee strikes out Article 3 of the treaty, which is as follows: "The high contracting parties will, immediately upon the exchange of ratifications of this convention, bring it to the notice of the other powers and invite them to adhere to it." Compelled a Young Man at the Point of a Revolver to Conduct Him to a Rooming House.

A bad man who evidently thought it a difficult undertaking to obtain a night's lodging here, came to town last night, accompanied by an ugly looking gun of the 41 caliber persuasion. The man with the gun was ambulating along on Seventh South near Fourth East, when a young fellow named J. E. Simpkins, had the misfortune to meet him. The stranger suddenly approached Simpkins, and thrusting his "41" into the young man's face, volunteered the information that if he (Simpkins) did not at once conduct him to a place where he could obtain a room for the night, he would make his "hide" look like a honey comb. The young man was only too pleased to conduct the gentleman to the desired place, especially under conditions so pleasant and refreshing.

KIDNAPPERS GET $25,000 RANSOM

Gold is Paid to Secure the Return of Edward Cudahy Jr., the Millionaire Packer's Son.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 20.—The Boe, in an extra edition, says that twenty-five thousand dollars in gold was the price paid for Edward A. Cudahy, Jr., who was abducted by a gang of kidnapers last Tuesday night.

Yesterday about noon and several hours after the letter had been left in the front yard at the Cudahy residence another missive was delivered to Mr. Cudahy at his residence. It came through the mail and contained a proposition to return the boy, safe and unharmed, provided the sum of $25,000 was paid that night. In the letter were full directions as to where the money was to be sent, and the assurance was given that the missing boy would be allowed to return home within a few hours of the time the cash was received. A consultation was held at once, and the matter went over to the day after tomorrow. Plans were discussed for capturing the bandits, when they should make their appearance at the rendezvous designated, but one after another they were dropped as being impracticable.

Finally, impelled by the strain under which the entire household was laboring, Mr. Cudahy decided to comply with the terms offered, and ransom his son. The money was secured by a trusted messenger, who was sworn to secrecy, and was brought to the Cudahy residence. It was all in gold. After dinner Mr. Cudahy had one of his horses harnessed to a light buggy, and taking the money in it with him, left for the designated place, at which it had been stipulated it should be left. In his buggy he carried a red lantern and was quite alone. Leaving the house he drove five miles west of town, on the Sherman avenue road, until he came to a white lantern that was hanging on a short stick by the side of the road. This was the place where the ransom was to be left, and nightfall was upon him. He deposited the sack close by the stick bearing the white light. Then, without seeing anyone, he returned to his home.

In the meantime the captors of the boy had seen the red light coming up the road, and as soon as the buggy disappeared a red lantern was seen from which it had come, they visited the spot, took away the money, and officers, to the City Council, to be passed upon by them. To expedite matters he has decided to withhold the roll of all officers or employees receiving a regular stated monthly salary from the Council and pay them without reference upon a stated day each month. The payroll of the laborer however, will have to be reserved for the action of the Council.

SALT LAKE POSTOFFICE.
Nine Substitute Letter Carriers Named—Butcher Appointed.

[SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS."] Washington, D. C., Dec. 20.—R. G. L. Brandley, Samuel R. Randolph, Chas. E. Wood, John M. Hosenbeck, Niel O. Trout, Sidney F. Bowman, Abner C. Harrington and Nelson E.

prepared to keep faith with the father of the boy. The lad was brought to a hack and set down close by his father's house about 1 o'clock this morning. Where he had been he could not say, but as nearly as he could estimate by the few observations he was able to make out, he thought he had been taken about five miles south of Omaha. The cunning of the gang who had the boy in keeping, and their thorough knowledge of the geography of the city, are evidenced in the plans they laid. Close by the place where Mr. Cudahy was directed to leave the ransom for his son, the river approaches the road and it is supposed that the men were on the watch for the millionaire and saw his red light from a boat. As soon as he had driven away, and they had satisfied themselves that no others were lurking near, they probably clambered up the bank, obtained the sack of gold that had been left for them, made their way to the river again, and escaped without leaving any telltale footprints.

There is absolutely no clue to the identity of the men who spirited the young man away, although the police have been working incessantly on the matter ever since it was first reported. Whether he will be able to give the police any information that will lead to the capture of the outlaws who held him prisoner for over twenty-four hours, remains to be seen later on. The boy says that he was seized on the street by two men who told him he was a fugitive from justice, and that he was a fugitive from justice, and that they were deputy sheriffs from another county. They placed him in a closed carriage and threw a heavy cloth over his head. They then took him, according to his best recollection, to a lonely cottage west of South Omaha, where he was chained to the floor and there kept a prisoner until put in a hack and returned to his home this morning. At the cottage he was guarded by two men and provided with sufficient food.

When a representative of the Associated Press called on Mr. Cudahy today to secure his statement, Melville Sears, the attorney of Mr. Cudahy, met him at the door with the statement that Cudahy, Sr., had nothing to say at the time, but that he gave out a brief statement during the day.

Maryette, have all been appointed substitute letter carriers in the postoffice at Salt Lake. M. C. Fitzgerald of Yankton, S. D., has been appointed a butcher at the United States Indian agency at a salary of $80 per month.

JETTER ON TRIAL.

Judge Timmony's time was pretty well occupied today. In the case of John W. Jetter, a June man, accused of purchasing stolen brass, knowing it to be stolen property. The defendant was represented by Attorney Sullivan who demanded a jury trial. Accordingly, a jury composed of W. F. Hills, O. C. Brown, W. L. Pickard and J. T. Lynch was sworn to try the case. Assistant County Attorney W. T. Custer prosecuted the case. About fourteen boys, ranging in age from 12 to 16 years, testified that they stole some brass boxings from the Oregon Short Line and sold them to Jetter. Almost without exception they swore that they informed the defendant that the brass was stolen, and that Jetter told them to "be careful and not get caught," and that he would "buy all they could get." Attorney Sullivan tried very hard to shake the testimony of the boys, but his efforts along that line were futile. The case was taken up at 10 o'clock this morning and the prosecution had not rested at a late hour this afternoon.

AMUSEMENTS.

Nearly everyone's thoughts are now centered on Christmas, and this has its effect on both places and people. At the Grand even the heavy advertising done for the big Orpheum show did not succeed in filling the house. Those who came, however, had a rare evening's entertainment, witnessing the work of the various specialty artists. All are of the highest degree of cleverness and Schaffer, the equilibrist, who came in the musical team, etc., all had big receptions. The matinee this afternoon and tonight's performance close the engagement.

"The Belle of New York" will be seen for the last time at the Theater tonight. The attendance last evening was fair.

The Theater has been tendered Mr. Brigham for his lecture tomorrow night and the advertising his first lecture received will be a great help in drawing a good attendance to the second. At the close of the lecture he will render two Indian songs and two Spanish ballads. Popular prices will be the rule.

A charming musical event is booked at the New Grand for the night of Jan. 2nd, 1901, Wednesday. The combined city orchestra under the direction of Walter Coleman, assisted by prominent local artists, will render a choice program of popular and classical music. Twenty-five are being carefully rehearsed for the event. The brilliant and captivating Mosech's piano concerto so successfully played by Prof. McCollan at his debut a short time ago, will be repeated, the accompanying being done by the entire orchestra. Prof. Goldard will render two solos, accompanied by the orchestra, while Miss Harrington of Ogden, one of our best young singers, is also booked. Manager Mulvey has, with characteristic courtesy, donated the Grand for the event, as he did for the first one, given on the 8th inst. The Elks will attend in a body.

Little Miss June Mathis, who gained such a reputation as a child eloquist, in Salt Lake, two or three years ago, will make her first professional appearance at the Columbia Theater, San Francisco, this evening. The young lady, who is the daughter of Doc Mathis, the Salt Lake druggist and stock broker, has been attending the San Francisco school of acting for some time, and will graduate from that institution April next.
