EVENING NEWS.

Monday, Sept. 25, 1882.

NIGHT SCHOOLS AND OTHER EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS FOR THE WINTER.

Our esteemed correspondent "Mac," has handed in the following on a reasonable subject:

The season of long evenings is approaching, the time when a large majority of people, old and young, have more leisure hours than the long working days afford. The increased leisure time is usually devoted to social enjoyments or study. Unfortunately the number who spend time, money, and frequently health in such amusements is much greater than that of those who choose to devote their spare moments to mental improvement. It is a matter of regret that the opportunities for gratifying the desire for culture of the mind are not as numerous as those provided for indulgence in simple pleasures and trifling amusements. While, excepting the occasional meetings of Mutual Improvement Associations, our public halls or residences are seldom open in the evening for the purpose of instruction. This is a matter that calls for reform.

If half as much attention were given to providing efficient means for educating the many who are in instruction and who need it, as there is to the matter of getting up parties, etc., the health, wealth and morals of the community would be greatly benefited. In our public halls, libraries, reading rooms and night schools should be open eight months every week during eight months of the year in every ward of this city and Territory. If the people of the several wards feel too poor to erect suitable buildings for the purposes specified, the existing school and meeting houses might be suitably used. If each ward cannot afford to erect suitable buildings for lecture halls, etc., several, or all, should unite in putting up, at least, one large office of the kind, in some convenient central location. Bishops, Elders, leading men and all fathers and mothers in Zion should join heartily in this enterprise. Such places, because of the great moral benefit they would prove to the hundreds of young and old who would frequent them, should not be immediately practicable, but the last named is something that need not be delayed in its execution. There is no ward but can easily provide night schools, if the trustees or others who should interest themselves in the matter, will make a little effort to do so.

Tuition in three or four of the rudimentary branches is all that is needed in the evening schools, for the reason that classes could be taught in the regular Ward meeting rooms, only about three nights weekly, an extensive range of least and thorough instruction during the one and a half or two hours that could be employed each night; besides, the great majority of persons who would attend in those whose opportunities for receiving even an ordinary scholastic education have been limited, therefore the primary branches would be the most useful.

Teachers capable of imparting instruction in orthography, writing and arithmetic are numerous, and their services can be secured at two dollars per night, or less. The expenses for lighting, heating and salary of teachers, for three nights weekly, may reasonably be estimated at ten dollars. Fifty scholars at twenty cents each per week would pay this amount, but a tuition fee placed at this low sum would doubtless attract many more than that number, and the result would be, therefore, the trustees, or whoever interested themselves in the matter, need have no hesitancy about assuming the responsibility of inaugurating such a plan. With the aid of the Bishops, a little energy manifested in securing pupils would insure financial success.

In regard to the benefits to be derived from the establishment of night schools there can be no question. The result would be, therefore, that simply giving our young people something of a useful character to occupy their time and attention during the long evenings, keeping them from the streets or from straying into places and among with society hurtful to their moral welfare, the community would be immensely benefited. If the body is not occupied in healthful pursuits, it is very apt to become diseased, and so with the intellectual faculties; if the naturally active mind is not engaged in matters tending to the healthy development it will most likely be vitiated.

It is not assumed that lecture halls, libraries, reading rooms and night schools are the panacea for all the evils inherent in humanity, but emphatically asserted that they will prove valuable in assisting to overcome many of those evils, and materially aid in the good work of progress and redemption, in which all ought to take an active part.

Let us have night schools started immediately; they will awaken more intense interest in educational affairs, and before another year rolls around, we may see the other named pieces established.

NOTICE

THE CASE

Ahead of all Other Competitors!

Dear Sir—The Agitator Separator and Woodbury Pump that we bought of you last season is the best machine we ever saw or used; it will thresh more grain and thresh it better and cleaner than any other machine we have ever used and we can confidently recommend it to any persons wishing to purchase a good Thresher.

Dear Sir—Our machine, Agitator, is doing excellent work. Clearer than the best and thrashes faster than any Thresher we ever saw.

Dear Sir—As our opinions have often been asked about the merits of the Agitator Threshing Machine we purchased from you last fall, we take pleasure in sending you the following as our experience with it. To answer the numerous inquiries, and perhaps others who would like to know, we recommend the following points of superiority over all other machines we are acquainted with—

1st.—Lightness of draft. Our team of five span of average native oxen and mules, being fully equipped to the work, and without crowding or hurrying them, they gave us all the speed and power we needed.

Editor Dear Sir—

How strange that many people would suffer long, believing they were recovering by scientific skill, when they are cured of rheumatism for instance, by common sense and Dr. Jacob's Oil.
