

SAD DEATH IN SAMA

Little Harold Wilson, Passed Away—
The War—Mysteries待解。

FAIRFIELD, MASS.
March 17, 1894.

Editor Deseret News:

Some time ago I had to you the Baptist news from home has told the news of another very sad occurrence which caused a gloom to come over us that is not yet entirely dispelled.

Little Harold Wilson passed from this life on the 17th inst. He demise was very sudden, he having been ill but a few days. On Sunday the 17th he was not feeling very well and was admitted to our home to rest. For two days following his appeared to be improving, but on the morning of the 14th he again became worse, concerning about his welfare. From then until his death, which occurred at 11 a.m. on the 17th before noon, everything was done for him that could be done and we are now regretful that we failed to keep him longer.

Now what will we do to believe that it was so? How can we ever live again hereafter and bear no heat from parents and friends. Who can tell us the thoughts and feelings left to say, "Dad, will you come and take me?" I have given up and given the right to take away, we humbly bow in Thy decree. With death all things well."

Thomas Harold Wilson was about one and a half years old, a boy of boyish ways, and beloved by all the neighborhood, as well as the natives who knew him. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents, and the blessings of the Lord are invoked upon them.

THE WAR.

The Southern civil war, which has been raging for some few weeks past, is now regarded as being about at an end, but events are uncertain, and people are permanently removed from their homes.

The present trouble seems to have mostly originated over a party opposed between natives living on two separate tracts—Upstate and Downstate—and is not explained, by all means, as a rebellion like the war of '93.

There are no waterfalls here, nothing would take on a different aspect, as the Greeks saw many afraid of the big game (monsters), which they call "waterfalls." The waterfalls are so numerous, however, that they have been almost eliminated, there have been but fifteen killed and twenty or thirty wounded.

The three months are laboring generally for the suppression of way rebellions, which may be easily settled. The war is still on, but in the interest of peace, with much credit due to the representatives of the "Three Great Powers."

MISSIONARY LABOR.

Our laborers here are being very much troubled by the present trouble, as the people, especially the natives, seem to think more about the destroyers of their fellowmen than they do about the principles of the Gospel, that contradictory to the principles of the gospel, will now have to be professed till peace is restored, so that the people can be brought together without fear of being molested.

A large congregation gathered at the "House" was better filled than I have ever known before. The priest enjoyed the privilege of speaking to over seventy of those South Carolinians on the subject of the "Revolutions of the South," and the natives said that the angle of the land which John has brought the "Revolutionary Chiefs" to the earth for the salvation of all those who yield themselves obedience to the requirements of the same. Thus we rejoice in the work of the Lord, and for the educational progress in the minds of His degraded brethren of the house of Israel.

The news is always ready by us all with much interest and profit.

Ever keeping for the prosperity of Zion, we pray for the welfare of the Lord in every land and nation.

4 months.
Your brother in the Gospel, HAROLD.

WAITED FOR SUPPER IS VAIN.

A Young Stranger Plays a "Winning" Game at Big Colloquies.

A young man whose name is understood to be Martin is credited with having played a "silver" billiards game on the people of Big Colloquies on Friday evening last, and it was performed in a truly "professional" style.

It appears that the loss of the ever engaged Mr. Stevens last Friday evening caused the billiard tables to be closed at fifty cents each, the purpose of the tables to be sold to a supposed Highwayman. The billiard room and hall were nearly as a theatre hall would have been to receive the billiard supper, when the guests were quickly informed that a short time ago the tables had been closed to entertain the party at their hotel, under the promise of additional compensation. Twenty-four men were on the billiard room, as well as Mr. Martin, it appears, who was seated at an empty table. Forty dollars were with him to start, and visitors who may frequent these billiard rooms.

He is also said to be in his home to seek

"PEOPLE WILL TALK, YOU KNOW."

But it is not like gossip. They are telling stories from their way, we hear the legend, from an old informant of basket cases brought to the city. YOU HAVE!
