

TRAFFIC CHANGES ON THE SHORT LINE

Director J. C. Stubbs Coming Here
To Look Over the Lineup
This Week.

T. M. SCHUMACHER RESIGNS.

Popular Railroad Official to Leave Salt
Lake for New York and United Fruit Co.

Following the resignation of T. M. Schumacher, traffic manager for the Oregon Short Line, there will be a number of promotions involving possibly half a dozen well known officials of the road. Traffic Director J. C. Stubbs of the Harriman line is expected to arrive in Salt Lake at the end of the week when the official announcements of the changes will follow.

It is stated that for the present, at least, Mr. Schumacher's position will be abolished and the traffic end of the Short Line will fall upon the combined shoulders of the General Passenger and General Freight Agents. Under the changes proposed J. A. Reeves in the logical man to take the place of the freight agent. His title, it is rumored, is to be changed to that of general freight agent, with two assistant general freight agents under him. One of these is to be D. R. Gray, at present the district freight and passenger agent with headquarters here. Just who the other will be is not known at this time. The moving up of Mr. Gray and another official will cause vacancies to be filled and it is anticipated that "everybody" will be promoted.

Among those involved in the promotions will in all probability be H. O. Wilson and F. H. Plaisant, district freight and passenger agent at Butte and Boise respectively. D. R. Taggart, contracting freight agent here, Orvin Morris, chief clerk of the freight department, and Harry Clark.

Mr. Schumacher will remain here until the matter is settled and then leave for the east in time to enter upon his new duties as traffic manager of the United Fruit company in New York, October 1.

MR. SCHUMACHER'S NEW BERTIL.

The news of the resignation of Mr. Schumacher arrived in Salt Lake shortly after 4 p. m. and was understood to be a dispatch from Boston to the effect that his appointment had been passed upon at the meeting of the directors of the Oregon Short Line. At the time the news was received, it was generally believed that the resignation was a foregone conclusion.

On all sides were heard sentiments of regret that the broad-minded railroad official was to leave Salt Lake, and during the four years he has been at the head of the traffic affairs of the Oregon Short Line he has been exceedingly popular and has won the respect and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. Mr. Schumacher has hundreds of friends in social and business circles here, and as one man put it this morning, "he was not made a single enemy, and that is going some for a railroad man."

The United Fruit company, comprising as it does the United Fruit and Shiping company and the United Fruit Dispatch company, with a fleet of 50 ships, a line of private cars, several big banana plantations and operating an annual tonnage of 4,000,000, certainly is one of the largest concerns in the world. Its steamers, carrying cargoes of fruit and passengers, ply between Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, San Francisco, India, Central and South America, England and Germany. The headquarters of the company is in New York and there Mr. Schumacher will be in his home. Needless to say a considerable advance of salary accompanies the change.

Mr. Schumacher started in the railroad service in 1879 as telegraph operator on the Atlantic & Great Western. He first went to the Union Pacific in 1888 as chief clerk of its department office in St. Louis. With the exception of one year when he was connected with the Continental Fruit express as vice president and general manager, he has been with the Harriman roads all the time since. He was general agent for the Pacific coast at San Francisco at the time he came to Salt Lake, Aug. 27, 1901, as acting traffic manager of the Oregon Short Line.

WANT A LOOP.

Wellsville and Hyrum Seek to Have
S. L. Branch Extended.

Logan, Sept. 17.—The citizens of Wellsville and Hyrum have been active during the week in their efforts to induce the Oregon Short Line people to continue the branch line from Wellsville to Mendon, thus completing the loop around the south end of the valley. Congressmen for the district and right of way have been made and it is believed that the line will be built. The line to Wellsville will be completed in about 30 days.

SANPETE VALLEY.

Work Starts on Sugar Factory Spur
Near Moroni.

The San Pete Valley has commenced work on the branch which is to be built from the main line to the new sugar factory near Moroni. Surveyors started last week and several carloads of ties are being sent to the front. Col. Moore, the veteran engineer of this city, has charge of the work. The spur leaves the main line about one mile south of Moroni and parallels the county road through the low hills to swing around the foothills east from that point to the factory.

MYSTERIOUS TRIP.

Believed to be Foreman of Another
Idaho Branch.

Considerable speculation is following the mysterious visit of Vice President W. H. Bunker and General Superintendent E. Buckingham of the Oregon Short Line to Montpelier, Ida., last week. From that point they traveled by train over the west side of the valley as far as Garden City. They were met at the depot by Mr. Jesse Hodge, who escorted them on their trip and on returning they boarded the train and once steamed out for home. As Mr. Bunker is not fond of taking dusty 60-mile drives just to view the scenery, the general supposition is that the Oregon Short Line is planning on another branch line in Idaho. Behind this trip are rumors of another sugar factory and the development of Bear Lake.

WESTERN PACIFIC.

Outlook for Starting Work This Week
Looks Very Bright.

San Francisco, Sept. 15.—Vice President Wattle of the Utah Construction company, that has the contract for building the major portion of the Western Pacific, has left for Salt Lake City, where he will confer with President Jeffrey regarding the building of the line. Copies of the annual report of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad company have been received here. In it the president makes the first official statement to the effect that the Denver & Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western railroad companies are the owners of the Western Pacific company.

Mr. Wattle arrived in Ogden yesterday, when he announced that a corps of engineers would leave Salt Lake today for Garfield and Kane counties, the cross sectioning prior to starting out the construction gangs at his end of the line.

Word comes from Orville, Cal., that a portion of the road between Orville and Marysville has been subject to the Pacific Construction company. Other portions will be subject.

A large number of men and two immense steam shovels arrived at Bickwith yesterday.

John Taylor, superintendent of construction for the Utah company, arrived in Orville last week to arrange for the beginning of the work. The Utah Construction company will take charge of wagon and road building up the river.

In the connection Mr. Wattle says that it will be necessary to build about 70 miles of wagon road, mainly through the Feather River canyon. The largest cut tunnel on the proposed route will be about one and one-half miles in length and will be known as the Spring Garden tunnel. In order to overcome the grade near this tunnel, the tracks will form a complete loop. At other points the route could be materially shortened by tunneling, but this is not for the fact that the matter of grade had to be figured with making a much longer mileage necessary.

According to prices reported the Utah Construction company, now being shown by the company to sub-contractors, who are daily going over the line, the route is as follows:

Starting from Garfield, the grade runs west passing about six miles from Orville. It strikes northwest after coming to the mouth of the Feather River, the lake, and runs to the topographic feature known as "Hogback." From there it runs to Low pass, crosses the South end of the mountain range, to the south end of the "X" desert range. It crosses the Steptoe valley, passes through Flower Lake, runs into Clover Valley, and down through the valley to Wells, on the Southern Pacific.

OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED.

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—It was announced today that Thomas J. Wyche, until recently resident engineer of the Utah Construction company, had been appointed supervising engineer of the Western Pacific company, and will have charge of the construction work from Salt Lake City, 250 miles westward.

This was announced in the "News" three weeks ago at the time it was stated that the engineering department of the Western Pacific would open offices on the fifth floor of the Atlas block. Mr. Wyche was in charge of the general engineering of the Oregon Pacific five years ago, when the company spent millions in rectifying the main line through Wyoming.

DIFFERENT VIEW POINTS.

Catholic Priests and Unitarian Pastor
Do Not See Eye to Eye.

Rev. Frank Fay Eddy of the Unitarian church preached yesterday morning on "Forest Meditations," when he said in part:

"The editor of a certain Catholic paper finds in the titles of his series of after vacation sermons an indication of the general decadence of the Protestant pulpit. He seems to think that preaching is being sacrificed to a series of after-up-to-date topics and he asserts that: 'The people who are thirsting after Christian doctrine will find the Protestant pulpit a fountain gone dry.' Our Catholic friend has a perfect right to his opinion, but he ought to realize that he is speaking from a peculiar point of view. What seems to him a sign of decadence appears to me as indication of a new and stirring. Happily, or at least, so I think, the notes of a broader gospel are being sounded from the Protestant pulpit. From Catholicism, that little is heard, little is ever heard. The greatness of Catholicism does not lie in the preaching ability of its priests. Its greatness is in that an institution, a machine, an organism. The church as an institution so dominates its friends that their individuality is sacrificed. But Protestantism has never had preachers, men who were makers and moulders of their various sects."

"It is not true that this influx of new subjects to the Protestant pulpit is mere catering to a desire for novelty in the pews. It is a sign of the dawning recognition that the gospel of the Almighty has an infinite number of sides. I thank heaven that there has been a reaction against the old style of doctrinal preaching with all its narrowness and bigotry."

"As for these after-vacation sermons, I have no apology on account of the unorthodox character of the character of the Bible contains only a small part of the gospel of the infinite God. To understand the gospel that is in the Bible one must have some sympathetic comprehension of large things of nature and the deep things of human life."

"To suggest some of the inspirations that are to be found in the phenomena of nature all about us have been the object of these sermons. It is the gospel of the infinite God that lives and moves in His creation. The lessons of the sea, of the desert, the mood of the mountains and inspirations of the forest are all manifestations of the gospel of the living God. Our human lives, weak, limited and questioning, need the succoring strength of this part of the gospel of the infinite God as much as that part which is written in the pages of sacred volumes, coming to us with the prestige of old custom and churchly authority."

AMUSEMENTS.

It is some years since the Salt Lake Opera company made its first bow to the amusement-seeking public. Its premier appearance was an announcement of the fact that it had pleased and captured its audience. Its last performance at the Theater on Saturday night was a reminder that it has lost none of its power to hold and entertain. The personnel of its principals may change and new singers take the place of old in the chorus, but the organization is there to meet and excite in all directions whenever it takes the boards. For weeks theater-goers have been waiting anxiously for another opportunity to see and hear the Salt Lake Opera company. Accordingly the house was filled to overflowing, on both Saturday afternoon and night. From the moment that Director Spencer, with his manager, orchestra, by a graceful wave of his baton, started the music, it was apparent that there was to be no disappointment, and with the curtain rising the picturesque flower market scene with its pretty dancing and singing girls there was an old time demonstration of the theater's power to hold and entertain. The hearty reception that was accorded Miss Gates as her entrance in the part of Yvonne evoked little into all ovation. When she interposed the ever-popular and difficult "Pearl of Brazil," it is doubtful if Miss Gates appeared to better advantage or ever more gracefully.
