

SALT LAKE CITY SCHOOLS.

A beautiful bouquet of flowers was this week presented to Superintendent Webster by Principal Nelson, who represented the Salt Lake City schools in this contest.

Principal Nelson, recognizing that the best results may be obtained by having teachers of any one school visit other teachers, has inaugurated a system of visiting teachers, in which each teacher will be given the opportunity of visiting other schools. This is in line with a suggestion of Hugh Christensen, and is expected that there will be some good results from this plan.

The Howe and Kelly Football League is a recent organization. Its members are a group of the eighth grade, who are anxious to play for the prize cup valued at $100.00.

The Lowell teachers' class of Thursday, at Miss Folsom's, discussed the book "The Round Table" series.

The Rescoe, supervisor of drawing of Salt Lake City, was an interested visitor at the Fremont last week.

The Wasatch is now equipped with new cases in its library room.

Principal Barrett calls attention of Salt Lake City to their manual training class, which should be called for at the Fremont at once.

The Salt Lake County Teachers will be addressed at their session next Saturday, by Mr. Barrett of the local corps.

Ed. D. H. Christensen has advanced all his opinions on the duties of principals towards the weak teacher. He considered that one might expect to find in a principal those qualities which are also found in a teacher.

The superintendent's schedule shows following meetings this coming week: Salt Lake, Tuesday, 4:15 p. m. Fremont, Mr. Barrett, 4:15 p. m. Fremont, Mr. Barrett, 4:15 p. m. Fremont, Mr. Barrett, 4:15 p. m. Fremont, Mr. Barrett, 4:15 p. m.

The West Side High school held its annual assembly of the year last Friday evening. The program was well prepared and the "tooling" during Saturday's football game.

L. D. S. UNIVERSITY.

About 100 students have registered for shorthand and typewriting since Sept. 12.

F. W. Osterstrom, a former student, took a good position in the operating department of the R. U. W. railway last week.

Miss Weaver of the Van Arden School of Portland at Omaha, recently visited the shorthand department. She spoke in commendatory terms of our work, and was especially pleased with the methods for beginners in both shorthand and typewriting.

During the past three weeks, it has been impossible to supply the demand for stenographers, and there have been a number of calls for expert bookkeepers. Several of our students are securing the positions.

The teacher who furnishes these letters, Instructor C. Larsen, has been to have his work to write the items. President Paul therefore called upon the fourth year English class to do so, with the result that the items following and many others were submitted.

Instructor Caldwell is taking a trip to Idaho. During his absence, Instructor Glenn, a graduate of the U. of U., is conducting the geology class—Ina Aron.

Some of the boys work at carpentry on Saturday and at spare times during the day over in the chemical laboratory. It will soon be a most comfortable room, and convenient in every way—Stella Paul.

Brother Ramsey, our artist, has, it seems, become tired of a bachelor's life, and has taken upon himself a wife. He has much joy and continued happiness in his undertaking—James West.

While Prof. Stephens' singing class was singing, "God Speed the Right," he called some disturbing boys to order. He was election day. The professor smiled and said, "God Speed the Right"—Ray Gledhill.

The business college students deserve to be complimented on the energetic manner in which they have worked. They worked hard and went to the top of the class. While they did not get as far as they desired, they were far from the bottom of the class. Several of the students have been promoted to the next class. We wonder what is coming next. As the class time for lunch at 3 p. m. is now, it is going on now, but the lunch hour is not as usual. It is a most unusual case of a mental nature—R. H. C. Marchant.

The fourth year class held a meeting at the home of Miss Laura Young on Saturday evening. The following program was rendered: Piano selection, reading, Mrs. Laura Young; comic, Mrs. Laura Young; song, Mrs. Laura Young; piano solo, Mrs. Mary Cannon. After the meeting various games were played, while delicious refreshments were served—Wanda Neely.

A great deal of class spirit was shown last week in the students' election. The officers elected are: Ray Gledhill, president; Lauretta Jones, vice president; Inez Hines, secretary; John W. Bailey, treasurer. The students are unanimous in wishing the officers success in their positions—Charlotte Wetzel.

The girls' basketball team of the State School for the Deaf, dumb and blind of Ogden issued a challenge for Monday, Oct. 17, to the girls' basketball team of the L. D. S. University. The challenge was accepted, and the game will be played on Monday. There are already two second year teams practicing, and it is the intention to organize a first-year and a third-year team. From a selection of the best players, a senior team will be made up. Miss Rena Anderson has been appointed manager and it is expected that there will be some good athletic work done by our girls this year—Vera Neill.

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY.

Provo, Oct. 20.—Last Sunday evening College hall was well filled with students who listened attentively to an excellent address delivered by Apostle Smoot.

The Lulu Gates concert which has been so long looked forward to, came off on Monday evening with all the triumph which had been expected for it. The students were forced upon them that friends, visited school. She addressed the students in devotional in a very charming manner. She also favored them with two musical selections. The truth which President Brigham has so often tried to impress upon the students was forced upon them that morning. It is that students staying away from devotional always miss something good. That fact was appreciated that morning could be seen by the noticeable peeping in at doors during Miss Gates' singing.

The secretary is busy answering communications concerning the mid-winter semester, which begins the 15th of next month and continues till the 15th of March. There will evidently be a large number enter for this period.

Librarian Cope sent about three dozen books to Salt Lake last week to be bound.

Monday, Mr. Harris from Mexico and Mr. Moore from Utah visited school. They came to help us celebrate founders' day, not having heard of its postponement. Both visitors were among the first graduates of the institution. They related some interesting incidents of their school days. Miss Y. Gates, another visitor, told of the first music department in the school, of which she had charge.

The students appreciate the privileges afforded them by teachers' regular consultation hours, which have been arranged. The first month's examinations are now over. There are a few downcast countenances, but most of the students came out with moderately cheerful faces. No doubt Uncle Sam will be a great late bearer the next week. He will carry home the students' monthly reports.

We have the promise of a visit from one of our constant visitors next Friday, Capt. Willard Young.

W. K. Driggs, a student in painting A, is making a very interesting study of the life of a pioneer. A collection of still life is placed in his shadow box together with the Book of Mormon; the Bible, opened to the writings of Ezekiel, some pieces of Peruvian pottery, one of the Egyptian idea of cornucopia; and a model of a decided Egyptian form, like the water bottle. In the background is placed a basket made by the Indians of New Mexico, upon which is a figure of a god, unique in symbolism, and shows that something of the same idealism has been involved by the craftsman forefather of Lehi.

The class in painting A expects to do some illustration of scenes from the Book of Mormon in the near future. Work in charcoal, landscape and still life is being given with an academic aim now. Soon pose work will be introduced and following the pose will be placed with landscape or in the picture of illustration.

President Brigham went to Salt Lake Wednesday with his son Wells, who left for a foreign mission.

Preparations are being made for a very interesting celebration of founders' day. The new building will then be ready for occupation.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Logan.—The Commercial club of the college has invited the Hon. Moses Thatcher to deliver a lecture next week before its members on the value of a commercial education.

The Sorosis club initiated three new members the past week. The special work of the club this year is the study of the history of art.

Prof. and Mrs. Merrill left this week for a three weeks' visit in St. Louis.

Dr. W. H. Reel, assistant editor of the Experiment Station Record, has just made his annual visit to the college to inspect its work and accounts.

The reception given at the college Thursday evening by the Agricultural College Women's club to the visiting club was one of the most brilliant social events of the college year. Thanks to the good taste and able direction of Prof. Studdard of the art department, the library was transformed into a charmingly decorated salon where the guests were received. Music was furnished by Thatcher's orchestra, a buffet lunch was served, Miss Riddle Ormsby and Miss Carry McAllister had charge of the serving of the punch and the whole evening was a pleasant indication of the cordial relations existing between the college and the various state clubs.

Director Whitcomb went Friday to Des Moines to be present at a meeting of the agricultural colleges and experiment stations of the United States. He will visit the St. Louis fair before his return to Logan.

Several students have registered for the advanced work in English and the modern languages. The courses in Anglo-Saxon and in second year Spanish are given for the first time in several years.

Chapel the past week has been in charge of Prof. Arnold, Hall and Merrill. The other two days the students were addressed by the Rev. Mr. Clemens and by Dr. Macintosh, the president of the Presbyterian Theological seminary at San Francisco. Dr. Macintosh's address was one of the most finished and scholarly that have ever been given at the college.

LEAVES FROM OLD ALBUMS.

GEORGE DENFORD, THE PIONEER MERCHANT.

The many friends of the late George Denford will easily recognize his features in the above engraving. Mr. Denford was one of Salt Lake's pioneer merchants. His first and only establishment on Main street was among the best known of our first mercantile houses. Mr. Denford died some years ago and left a large family, among his children being Mrs. Lydia D. Alder, and Dr. A. B. Denford.

WEBER STAKE ACADEMY.

Ogden.—Our choir is now taking on choruses in connection with their school work. We are sure to have a pleasant treat some of these meetings.

Prof. Hollantyne occupied the time at devotional Monday morning in a very interesting talk on music.

The boys' dramatic room is undergoing repairs. The carpenter is building a dressing cabinet for their accommodation.

Night school opened Monday evening under very auspicious circumstances. About 25 students, fully half of them young men, are enrolled for instruction during the week. Not one of these is a non-graduate student. The instructors are, when they join the school, the professors will have their hands full, as to quantity anyway.

Prof. Hollantyne presides at the organ every morning for five minutes preceding the hour for commencing school. The beautiful music practices in the heart of each student the spirit of devotion, and makes an ideal preparation for our excellent devotional exercises that follow. Truly does the student who fails to participate in our devotional each morning go through the work of the day handicapped.

The members of the faculty and their families were entertained at dinner Thursday afternoon by Prof. and Mrs. Van Z. Terry.

Some of our students have transferred their "digging" facilities from the school room to the back porch, and have arranged with the professors to keep in touch with their lessons by having the assignments made by mail.

A convention of the primary and kindergarten workers in the Sunday schools of Weber Stake commenced a series of four sessions Friday at 4 p. m. at the Weber Stake academy, and closed this afternoon. The exercises were presided over by Principal Mr. Kay. A very profitable and enjoyable time was reported by a goodly number of those in attendance. Such a movement cannot but result in much good to the Sabbath schools.

Classes in the night school have been organized in the following subjects: Theology: Life of Christ and Book of Mormon; English: grammar and literature; Mathematics: arithmetic, algebra and geometry. In addition to these a German class was organized Thursday evening, the required number having applied. Principal Mr. Kay and Prof. McConville had charge of all the classes except drama, which is conducted by Prof. Thos. E. McKay.

At a meeting of the student body held in the Assembly hall Thursday, the following students were elected to look after the interests of the school paper this year:

Chas. Brown, business manager; James Wood, first assistant business manager; Earl Emmett, second assistant business manager; Corinda Wood, editor in chief; Estella Hollantyne, general business; William Manning, local; Wilford Shurtliff, cartoonist; Lila McQuarrie, Brian S. Jacobs, exchange; Frank Beckett, May Higgins, bottom, athletic; Marion Belknap, miscellaneous; Chas. Lyon, Geo. Dorsey, circulation and subscription; Lizzie McKay, alumni.

The proceedings of the meeting were lively, and while many of the contests were unattended, the best of feeling prevailed. Last year's staff of the Acorn, was tendered a hearty vote of thanks. Things look for the paper this year.

CEDAR CITY BRANCH NORMAL.

Cedar City, Utah, Oct. 20, 1904.—The Branch Normal continues to grow and a gratifying feature of the registration is, most of the students are in the high classes. The outlook is that we shall have about the same number as last year. Had the typhoid scare not happened, an increase would undoubtedly have occurred.

Mr. Milne has had the boys out playing basketball this week. The girls and boys are working together in the regular physical culture class this week.

Considerable interest seems to be taken in German. The class is increasing daily.

Mr. Webb has his business course classes well under way. The full course is given. Not so many students, however, have registered as heretofore. The normal and engineering courses are being preferred.

In chapel this week Mr. Hansen has given several good talks on "Broad-mindedness."

There are two things, among others, that Principal Decker is particularly interested in—the health of the students and the auxiliary organizations of the school. He has been moving things with his characteristic energy so that we have the musical, the library and the chess organizations under way and full of enthusiasm.

Assistant Principal Driggs has been appointed by State Rep. Nelson to assist him in the selection of a library for the public schools of the state. The work is being pushed with such rapidity as to be complete by November. It is hoped to have the list ready by Nov. 1. The subject of books for children has been a hobby with Mr. Driggs ever since he entered the work in English. During the summer just past he spent about a month in the libraries and bookstores in the north looking into the situation. At present he is working over a choice selection sent him by various publishing houses.
