While making some inquiries about the bill. Mr. Pettigrew declared that the United States was holding Porto Rico as a colony-"a crown colony, at that"--which had shown its ability to nanage its own affairs "better than people of Ohio manage their af-

Mr. Spooner pointed out that the theory of the law was that the United States was acting merely as an agent matter of fact, it was not one of the chief purposes of the pending proposi-tion to provide for the sale of the pub-lic lands before the Filipino people had any opportunity to have a voice and any operation of the sale, "Precisely so," replied Mr. Caffery, "and if the Filipinos ever come into their own they will discover that they have no public lands. They will all have been alienated."

HOAR IS SARCASTIC. "The leading bold proposal here," said Mr. Hoar. "Is that public lands and franchises of 12.000,000 of people shall be sold by Americans to Amerishall be sold by Americans to Americans as upon the whole, the best means of pacification. The best means of pacifying a man," continued Mr. Hoar, sarcastically, "is for one foreigner to take and sell his prop-erty to another foreigner. And this is the method by which we are to teach

Mr. Caffery, who followed, was say-ing there was no precedent for "this wild and comprehensive grant of pow-er," when he was interrupted by Mr. Mallory of Florida, who inquired if it would not be better for our government to proceed along present lines than for Congress to adopt the pend-

MR. RAWLINS' POSITION.

Mr. Rawlins made an extended argument against the grant of a power "unlimited and illimitable." He declared it would be of advantage only to those who wished to advance their personal interests in the Philippines. They were, he declared, a band of public plunderers and thieves. If given the opportunity to fasten themselves upon the islands they would hold the lands and mines and franchises ac-quired by them to the detriment of the interests of both the people of the Philippines and those of the United States

Woman's greatest gift is the power to inspire admiration. respect, and love. There is a beauty in health which is more attractive to men than mere regularity of features.

The snap and spirit which health gives to the eye, the movement, and the speech are full of magnetism. Sickly women can't understand this.

They only know that they are miserable, and their efforts to be attractive are languid and weak.

Woman's influence in the world is limited by her strength, and the strength of health is real strength.

It brings with it beauty and grace and loveliness of disposition.

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband, should be a woman's constant study. If she would be all she may, she must guard well against the signs of ill health.

Regular and painless menstruation is absolutely necessary. The help which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gives to women who are attacked by any disorder of the feminine organism is real, permanent help. It cures all weaknesses of the organs and makes it possible for women to retain their health and beauty to mature years.

by great speculative enterprises. Mr. Morgan spoke for two hours and then stated that tomorrow he would take up the question of the right of Congress to delegate or abdicate its powers, and after that would discuss the Cuban branch of the subject.

At 10:15 Mr. Morgan's colleague from Alabama, Mr. Pettus, moved an adjournment, but on the yea and nay vote the motion was defeated. The enate's refusal to adjourn compelled Mr. Morgan to go on with his speech." As he resumed he referred with some feeling to the apparent effort to dra-goon this measure through, despite all the proprieties. After an arduous and lengthy ses-sion, beginning at 11 o'clock this morn-ing, Mr. Morgan said, the Senate had determined to force an old man to go on with his speech and in effect had served him with notice that he would go on until he had closed. "But," he added, speaking with impressive deliberation, "I would rather leave this cham-ber a dead man than to leave it a coward." It would be plain abandon-ment of duty, he said, if he should skulk because of his age or the late-XXXXXX ness of th hour, Mr. Spooner tried to gain recognition to ask Mr. Morgan as to his plans, but the venerable senator waved him. off and caustically declined to yield. At 11:20 p. m. Mr. Morgan yielded to Mr. Spooner for a motion to adjourn, and the long session came to a close.
