PEOPLE'S TERRITORIAL CONVENTION.

HEADQUARTERS PEOPLE'S TERRITORIAL CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 10, 1884.

A Territorial Convention of the People's Party is hereby called to convene at the City Hall, Salt Lake City, on Wednesday the 8th day of October, 1884, at 12 m., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for delegate to the Forty-ninth Congress.

The number of delegates to compose the Convention has been appointed to the several counties as follows to wit:

COUNTY.	NO. DELEGATES.	NO. COUNTEES.
Beaver	3	1
Box Elder	2	1
Cache	2	1
Carson	2	1
Idaho	2	1
Garfield	2	1
Iron	2	1
Utah	2	1
Wasatch	2	1
Washington	2	1
Yuba	2	1
Total.	20	10

The County Central Committees are requested to take immediate steps in their respective counties for the election of delegates to the Territorial Convention.

By order of the People's Territorial Central Committee.

JOHN SHARP, Chairman.
THOMAS MCKEAN, Secretary.

The immigrants—A dispatch received this morning from Hon. James H. Hart states that the Wyoming company in charge of Elder Benjamin Bennett has landed. The passengers were to leave this afternoon and were all well.

Dangerous.—The following is handed in to-day:

We wish to call the attention of the road superintendent to a fact that should be looked after at once. The bridge crossing the river Jordan, known as the Sixth Ward bridge, is in very bad repair. There are three holes through the planks large enough to allow a horse's hoof to pass through, which fact makes it very dangerous of passage for teams.

A Matter of Mandamus.—Judge Zane heard a case in chambers yesterday, in which Tuttle and Nystrom, as complainants, figured vs. A. H. Raleigh, Justice of the Peace of the Third Precinct. Tuttle & Nystrom had recovered a judgment before Justice Raleigh against Louis Orvitt, from which an appeal had been taken. Plaintiffs asked for an execution on the ground that the case was one in which the statute did not allow of an appeal, but the Justice refused to grant such execution. An alternative writ of mandamus was issued from the Third District Court, calling upon Justice Raleigh to show cause why he should not be compelled to issue execution as demanded, and not appearing to show cause, an application was made to have a peremptory writ issued. Judge Zane held the judgment was not an appealable one, and ordered the peremptory writ to issue, and also ordered that plaintiffs recover from the Justice, costs amounting to $22.50.

"In the Banks."—As anticipated, the Theatre last evening was packed from pit to ceiling, with $1,100 in box office receipts to show for it. The play went off with a rush and racket characteristic of sensational dramas of this class, and though it was well on to midnight when the curtain fell on the last of its six acts, the performance was to be largely enjoyed by the mammoth and hilarious audience. The applause was uproarious, and at times ear-splitting and painful. It was a regular "Hurrah" house, well suited to the character of the piece, and the actors seemed to enjoy it quite as much as anyone.

"In the Banks" is just such another piece as "Lights of London," "Romany Rye," and others of that order, and depends mainly for success on rapid action, exciting situations, fine scenery and marvelous mechanical effects. All these it has in plentiful profusion. The scenery is magnificent, and accurately illustrates natural and artificial aspects on the other side of the water. The marvelous shifting of scenes, whole stage settings moving off bodily to make way for others on the reverse of the flat, is a feature of the performance.

The cast was big enough to divide among the children of Israel. No less than forty-one characters are designated in the programme, leaving out the supernumeraries, the best acting was done by Mr. Buckley as "Ned Drayton," Mr. Fisher as "Joe Buzzard," and Miss Potter as "Ruth Buzard."

Mr. Kilday made a vigorous, though jerky, "Gideon Blake," the villain of the piece, as the same in "Secret Service" was well and ably done by Mr. White. The other characters too numerous to name, filled in well. There were no patches or stage waits; everything went off with a vim and a whirl, whenever the curtain was up. "In the Banks" will be repeated to-night.

CITY COUNCIL.

Proceedings of the City Council, Tuesday evening, Sept. 9th, 1884.

Mayor Sharp presiding:

A number of copies of the "Gazetteer of Utah" were forwarded to the Mayor, and a communication from Sloan and Dunbar, publishers, was read, closing with a complimentary and exhaustive notice of the city purchase as many copies as they deemed necessary to supply city officers. Referred to committee on finance.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

John Young, who fell down a mine shaft in Thistle some days ago, has since died.

Sweeping changes on the U. P. are expected from the new management under Mr. Callaway.

A son of Amos Carter of Provo, was thrown from a horse on Monday last, receiving a severe scalp wound.

There is a rumor that the new Riggs of Salt Lake is to have charge of the District School at Nephi next term.

Alfred Bennett of Benning, and 7, had his thigh bone broken last Friday through being run over by a wagon.

There is quite a bear scare in Summit County since the killing of the herder Stevens some days ago. Several parties have been organized to pursue the "varmint," but none report success so far.

A 14-year-old boy named York, living in Benning, while hunting for the cat on the other day, and the right hand terribly shattered by the unexpected discharge of his gun, across the muzzle of which he had laid his arm.

It is claimed that the circus which recently went through Sanpete and Sevier counties abducted two girls from Mant. The concern was followed by the sheriff to Richfield, where it was found that the girls had been left at Gunnison.

A 14-year-old boy working as a shepherd in Elkhorn Cañon, Summit County, was chased by a large female cinnamon bear last Friday afternoon. The angry bear was just at his heels when he stumbled over a log, and dislocated his elbow, and by the time she had turned around the terrified boy had escaped through the brush.

Last Sunday a brakeman attempted to put three trunks of the train near Granger, Wyoming. He succeeded, but one of them shot at him, the ball entering the side of his head, and he passed out near the back. The train then went on afoot, while the conductor summoned a Deputy Sheriff, who started in pursuit. Coming up with the three, the officer, from a description previously given him, singled out the shooter and told him he was his prisoner. The train stopped an effort to draw his gun, when the pursuer shot him through the head, killing him instantly.

A NEAT CAPTURE.

A BURGLAR MAKES AN ENTRANCE INTO A HOTEL, AND GETS A WARM RECEPTION.

Last Saturday evening, about 11:30, while the cook of the Chamberlain House, Mr. Lambert, was enjoying his well-earned slumber, he was aroused by a noise at the window immediately adjoining his bed. Walking patiently he was rewarded by seeing the shadow slowly and easily go up, and the appearance of an individual taking a careful view of his surroundings.

Without any hesitation Lambert sent out a right-hander, and although in a misty place, the shadow was reflected credit upon Boston's far-famed slinger, for the burglar staggered back with a fall upon his back.

Lambert immediately hastened on with his clothes, at the same time calling on Mr. Schaeffer, the clerk of the hotel to assist in the capture of the housebreaker. Mr. Schaeffer immediately responded. While this was passing, the burglar, who was a man of considerable size, and was dressed in a dark suit, and was wearing a hat, made tracks, and scolded himself in an adjoining outhouse. Lambert and Mr. Schaeffer, however, had not been long in the position where the burglar could not pass without being captured by the latter, when the burglar, who was a man of considerable size, and was dressed in a dark suit, and was wearing a hat, made tracks, and scolded himself in an adjoining outhouse.
