Rest, Coosa County, Alabama, we glean a few items concerning his experience as a missionary in those parts: He had recently baptized two persons, and the prospects were fair for more converts. He was meeting with much opposition from "Christian" ministers, who warned the people not to permit him to associate with them, and were even willing to head a mob to drive him out of the county. Brother Millard had of the county. Brother Millard had visited the region east of the Coosa River since Elder Moroni Pickett left, and the prospects were then very unpromising. He hoped for a favorable turn, however. The Sunday before writing he held a meeting in a church eight miles from his Celebrated "Wheeler" Mowers and present location, and left appointments for three Sundays in June.
The weather had been very warm since the last of December, 1879, and was still so, with prospects of being much warms of these popular management was still so, with prospects of being much warms. much warmer.

Non-suit Granted. - Yesterday Judge Hunter delivered a decision on the motion for a non-suit in the case of the London Bank of Utah vs. Wells, Fargo & Co. The motion was granted, the reasons therefor being stated in general terms in the
