FRAGMENTS.

STEAM is to be used on the Ogden street railway.

IT is desired that all the members of the Tabernacle Choir be in attendance at the afternoon services tomorrow.

A TOPIC that is absorbing considerable attention is the eclipse of the sun next Tuesday afternoon. In Salt Lake nearly 12 digits of the sun's face will be obscured.

AT the dance at Clawson's, six miles above town, on Christmas night, a young fellow, on a dollar wager, swallowed a live fish about five inches long.—Boise (Idaho) Statesman.

TOMORROW, in the Seventeenth Ward Sabbath school, prizes will be distributed to the younger children. The parents of those who attend the school are invited to be present tomorrow forenoon.

LEROY HOBBS, builder of the Mackintosh smelter, and of the addition to the Hanauer Concentrating Works, at the mouth of Bingham Cañon, came in today. He reports business in that line flourishing and everybody looking forward to a prosperous new year.

MAYOR ARMSTRONG will leave for the East in a few days, to inspect the workings of the various systems of street railways—electric, cable, steam and horse—in different parts of the country, with a view to make the Salt Lake street car service equal to the best.

THE "Bohemian Girl" will be given on Tuesday afternoon and evening, by the Stephens Opera Company, when the Salt Lake public will enjoy a musical treat. Miss Lizzie Thomas, who assumes the role of "Arline" for the first time, has developed ability beyond the anticipations of her most sanguine friends.

Arrests.

Andrew Nielsen and Andrew Poulsen, of Richfield, have been arrested on the charge of unlawful cohabitation, and placed under bonds to await the action of the grand jury.

Pure Honey.

Wm. G. Adamson, of South Cottonwood, Salt Lake County, is placing on the market an excellent quality of honey, from his own apiary. This year he has been quite successful with his bees, and has put up a large quantity of the honey, in one pound cans and upwards, for disposal.

Police Notes.

Leopold Broschinski was fined $6 in the Police Court, today, for having been drunk.

John Whitt, who stole a lot of dressed chickens on Christmas, was sentenced to pay a fine of $90 and be imprisoned for three months.

Michael Kelly, who is accused of battery, pleaded not guilty, and his trial was set for four o'clock this afternoon.

Bursted Pipe.

The water pipe at the spill near the corner of East Temple and South Temple streets, burst about 1 o'clock this afternoon. The place of the break is about eight feet above the ground, and a stream of water was thrown to a height of about 40 feet. Those who passed in the street this afternoon were subjected to a shower bath. The water was turned off as soon as it could be done.

Fine Carp.

Today George O. Noble, Esq., of North Point, drove to this office in a buggy, which contained a tank in which were a number of lively German carp of various ages. Some that were only one year old weighed from three to four and a half pounds each; one that was two years old weighed six pounds, and another, three years old, weighed eight pounds. These weights are actual and not estimated.

This is a fish which, with other varieties, A. M. Musser, Esq., of this city, has for several years labored assiduously to introduce into Utah.

100 Tons of Coal for the Poor.

The D. & R. G. W. Railway, the Pleasant Valley Coal Company and A. L. Williams, Esq. its agent, have united in making a munificent gift to the poor of this city, without regard to sect or party, of one hundred tons of coal, or a cash value of about $600. It is not often that such generosity is displayed, and the genuine gratitude of the beneficiaries in this instance, and the appreciation of the public at large will be extended to the parties who thus administer to the wants of the poor.

The officers of the various benevolent organizations of the city, the Bishops of the several wards, and the ministers of the various churches are invited to call at Mr. Williams' office with lists of persons whose circumstances are such as to entitle them to share in this gift. It is of course necessary to guard against imposition, and to take steps to reach the really destitute; the co-operation of the individuals referred to is invited to secure these results. The officers of charitable organizations Bishops and ministers will be informed upon calling upon Mr. Williams, of the details respecting the distribution of the coal.

RAILWAY ITEMS.

Dismissing Employes.—A Moving River.—Heavy Taxes, Etc.

The private car of President Moffatt, of the Denver & Rio Grande, is expected to arrive this afternoon from Colorado.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company pays in taxes in California this year over $909,000. During the seven years from 1831 to 1887, California collected from this railway corporation alone more than $3,000,000 in taxes.

Notice has been given to the superintendent of the Southern Pacific Company's repair shops that all men not actually required for the repairing work of the company should be dismissed from the service on January 1. This means the discharge of 200 men, which will make a total of dismissals for the whole month over 1000.

Albany, Or., Dec. 26.—About 200 laborers on the Oregon Pacific Railroad, who have been thrown out of employment by the recent failure of the contractors, Jacobs & Neugass, are in this city without money. They have time-checks on the contractors who failed, but of course cannot secure money on their paper. Many of them had not even sufficent money to purchase a meal, and the City Council this morning provided those without money with breakfast at the hotels. Many of them left today for Corvallis, where a committee from the laborers waited upon Vice-President Wells Nash. They were told that the Oregon Pacific Company paid Jacobs & Neugass last week $15,000, but that the pay for December work is still due. This amount will probably cover the $8000 due the men.

A letter from the City of Mexico states that the survey of the Mexican Southern road has been made as far as the city of Pueblo, where the new line is to connect with the Interoceanic and Mexican and Vera Cruz lines. Grading will be commenced next month. There is believed to be plenty of money behind the scheme, which is one of the most important ever undertaken in the republic. It will open up one of the richest sections of Mexico, from which in ancient times the Aztec emperors derived their rich stores of gold and the fame of which induced Cortez to select his estates, which are still held by his heirs. Beside gold, silver, copper and lead, there are immense bodies of iron and coal. By the completion of this line the time from Europe and New York to San Francisco by sea and rail will be shortened about four days.

Early last spring the Pueblo, Gunnison and Pacific Railway Company was organized at Pueblo by Pueblo capitalists, the intention being to construct a line from Pueblo west to Mosco Pass, skirting the foot hills and taking in the mountain towns en route, crossing the range into the San Luis and Saguache Valleys, thence across the range to Gunnison City via Sand Pass, and thence on to the Pacific Coast, entering Utah in San Juan County, thence westward through Piute or Garfield Counties, passing through Iron County midway between Parowan and Beaver, and thence into Nevada. The capital stock of the company was placed at $1,500,000. Three months ago $10,000 was appropriated and set aside for making a preliminary survey. This work has just been completed and the route is not only reported to be a feasible one, but one that will tap a very rich and productive section. It is said that the building of the road will be commenced early in 1889.

The Atlantic and Pacific has begun work on the big piers which are to support the new iron bridge of the company across the Colorado River, on the boundary line between California and Arizona. The history of the fight of the railroad people with the river is an interesting one. The bridge now being built is the third one that has been constructed for the railroad crossing. The first built by the Southern Pacific Company was washed away. The bridge now in use has a large draw, which was put in for the accommodation of the Arizona Navigation Company which runs steamers on the river. As the channel is constantly changing, the river is wearing against the embankment approaches of the bridge. In a short time it shifted so that the channel was not under the draw, which then hung idly above a great sand bar, and the company had to pay the steamboat owners $500 a month because of the obstruction, a transfer of freight from a boat below the bridge to one above, or vice versa, having to be made. Near The Needles long dykes have had to be built to protect the railroad from the river in its reckless meanderings over the country, but its channel has shifted so as to eat into the railroad banks and render them rather unsafe at times. There is a constant exchange of territory going on between California and Arizona on account of these changes in the position of the river, as it constitutes the boundary line between the two. Last summer, the railroad people say, California gained over 3000 feet of new territory, the river having swung that far out into Arizona, but in other places there has been a loss to the state by the same process. By building about ten miles of new railroad on the California side and crossing the river at a new point where it runs between high rocky banks, the Atlantic & Pacific people think they will fully solve the problem of the shifting channel. The old line from the Sacramento Wash to The Needles will be abandoned and an entirely new route will be built upon.

The Grismer-Davies Troupe.

JOS. R. GRISMER and PHOEBE DAVIES will appear at the Salt Lake Theatre, next Thursday, January 3d. They are supported by a strong company. The opening play will be "Forgiven," concerning which the San Francisco Call says:

"The new play, 'Forgiven,' was welcomed with effusiveness, and received the stamp of public approval. The play is made up of those strikingly dramatic and emotional materials, an abundant supply of which the author, Mr. Clay M. Greene, has always on hand—a gambler, a false friend, a Mexican, a tramp, and a young girl who falls desperately in love with the sport. Mr. Greene drew his inspiration from Bret Harte in the first place, and has been supplied from the same source for much of his subsequent dramatic efforts. John Diamond runs through the play with a degree of human and emotional interest not to be expected of such a character. In his chivalric nature, his romantic character, and noble-heartedness, he is a new dramatic creation."

A dispatch to Mr. Kilday, dated Pueblo, today, from Peter McCourt, manager of the Tabor Opera House, Denver, says that the Grismer-Davies troupe did the largest business ever done on the Denver circuit.

Old Folks' Entertainment.

On Monday afternoon, at the Theatre, the opera of "The Bohemian Girl" will be performed for the entertainment of the old folks, widows, orphans and deaf mutes.

The Old Folks' Committee are aware that many of the aged, the widows, orphans and deaf mutes do not read the newspapers, and lest any of them should be forgotten, the Bishops and ministers are particularly requested to interest themselves in their behalf.

Those who have not yet got the tickets, can obtain them on Monday from 10 to 12 o'clock at, C. R. Savage's Art Bazar.

Doors will open at 1 o'clock and the performance will commence punctually at two. The old folks should not forget their badges.

Omaha, Dec. 26.—A Bee special from Nebraska City, Neb., says: "A farm house seven miles southeast of here, occupied by Ashbury Bryan, his wife and six children, was destroyed by fire about 2 o'clock this morning. John Bryan, a young man about 21 years of age, perished in the flames. The family was awakened by the cries of one of the children and had just time to escape from the building. All except one little girl got out together. John returned and rescued her at the peril of his life, and then, as his mother and the children were standing in the snow barefooted and in their night dresses, went back again to get some more clothes for them. While in the burning building he was overpowered by the heat, and his body was found this morning just inside a door burned to a crisp. Mrs. Bryan waded four miles through the snow in her bare feet before securing help.

Eagle Rock Sunday School.

"Sunday School Teacher" writes from Eagle Rock, Idaho, Dec. 26, as follows:

The Eagle Rock Sunday School had a visit from Santa Claus on Christmas eve. All had a present, both young and old. We have a good Sunday school with an average attendance of sixty scholars. Our young men's meetings are well attended; also our ward meetings. We have some attending that don't belong to the Church at present. We have baptized one, and some others we have re-baptized.

The Primary are going to have a picnic on New Year's day and the children like this. They are learning pieces, songs, etc., for the occasion.

Pertaining to the Indians.

Dr. H. Schmidt-Wartenberg, teacher of languages at the Deseret University, is engaged by the Smithsonian Institute, of Washington, D. C., to ascertain for it all the information he can possibly glean concerning the languages of the different tribes of Indians located in this western section. For this purpose he has already visited the headquarters of some of the tribes. He will pursue his investigations and studies in this direction as opportunities present, and will in this interest visit various portions of this inter-mountain region. In seeking to attain the object in view we trust that Dr. Schmidt-Wartenberg will be afforded every possible facility by those in a position to assist him in his researches. The Smithsonian Institute is a worthy scientific organization, and its representatives or agents should be afforded full opportunities to enable them to aid in attaining its aim—the accumulation of useful knowledge.

A Substantial Enterprise.

On Thursday last there appeared in the NEWS a lengthy and detailed description of the flour mill lately erected in North Salt Lake by the Salt Lake Mill & Elevator Company. The establishing of such enterprises as this is the correct way to "boom" this region. They furnish employment for labor, and a market for a staple product, and are the means of bringing money into the community from abroad in exchange for what the people here produce. Any man of intelligence can see that this is the best if not the only method of making a section of country permanently prosperous.

An inspection of this mill leads to the opinion that it is first class in every respect, and that its construction and equipment have been directed by men who thoroughly understand the milling business. The air of scrupulous neatness and cleanliness which prevails throughout the building, and the manner in which the machinery is finished and encased, give the interior a very handsome appearance. We are reliably informed that tests made of the flour products of this mill have been highly satisfactory.

News Notes.

An old man named White fell into the mud on a San Francisco street on Christmas night, and being unable to extricate himself was smothered to death. Two morgue officials narrowly escaped a similar fate in getting the body out.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 26.—Last night while the west-bound passenger train was running 30 miles an hour, about 10 miles east of here, John J. Foster, advance agent for Harry E. Dixey, picked up his grip, remarked to a fellow passenger that "he guessed he'd get off here," walked to the platform and stepped off. The train was stopped and run back. Mr. Foster was found unconscious at the foot of a steep embankment badly bruised and cut about the head and face. He was brought here and is able to be about today. He said he was subject to fits of epilepsy and under the influence of one jumped off unconscious of what he was doing.

SHOCK OF EARTHQUAKE.

REMARKABLE EFFECTS PRODUCED BY EARTHQUAKES AS OBSERVED BY PROF. MILNE.

In the last issue of the "Transaction of the Seismological Society of Japan," Prof. Milne, the well-known student of volcanic phenomena, discuses the effects of earthquakes on animals. The records of most great earthquakes refer to the consternation of dogs, horses, cattle, and other domestic animals. Fish also are frequently affected. In the London earthquake of 1849 roach and other fish in a canal showed evident signs of confusion and fright, and sometimes after an earthquake fish rise to the surface dead and dying.

During the Tokio earthquake of 1880 cats inside a house ran about trying to escape, foxes barked, and horses tried to kick down the boards confining them to their stables. There can, therefore, be no doubt that animals know something unusual and terrifying is taking place. More interesting than these are the observations showing that animals are agitated just before an earthquake. Ponies have been known to prance about their stalls, pheasants to scream, and frogs to cease croaking suddenly a little time before a shock, as if aware of its coming. The Japanese say that moles show their agitation by burrowing. Geese, pigs, and dogs appear more sensitive in this respect than other animals. After the great Calabian earthquake it is said that the neighing of a horse, the braying of an ass, or the cackle of a goose was sufficient to cause the inhabitants to fly from their houses in expectation of a shock. Many birds are said to show their uneasiness before an earthquake by hiding their heads under their wings and behaving in an unusual manner. At the time of the Calabrian shock little fish like sand eels (cirriceli), which are usually buried in the sand, came to the top and were caught in multitudes. In South America certains quadrupeds, such as dogs, cats, and jerboss, are believed by the people to give warning of coming danger by their restlessness; sometimes immense flocks of sea birds fly inland before an earthquake, as if alarmed by the commencement of some subocean ic disturbance. Before the shock of 1832 in Chili all the dogs are said to have escaped from the city of Talcahuano.

The explanation offered by Prof. Milne of this apparent presciences is that some animals are sensitive to the small tremors which precede nearly all earthquakes. He has himself felt them some seconds before the actual earthquake came. The alarm of intelligent animals would then be the result of their own experience, which has taught them that small tremors are premonitory of movements more alarming. Signs of alarm days before an earthquake are probably accidental; but sometimes in volcanic districts gases have emanated from the ground prior to earthquakes and have poisoned animals. In one case large numbers of fish were killed in this way in the Tiber, and at Follonica on the morning of April 6, 1874, "the streets and roads were covered with dead rats and mice. In fact, it seemed as if it had rained rats. The only explanation of the phenomena was that these animals had been destroyed by emanations of carbon dioxide."—London Times.

THE RED MAN'S ARGUMENT.

AN INCIDENT OF THE MEETING BETWEEN GENERAL HARRISON AND TECUMSEH.

General Harrison had fears that Tecumseh, who was visiting the Indian tribes along the valleys of the Wabash and Illinois river in 1810, was stirring them up to war, and conceived that Vincennes would be the first point of attack. Desirous of averting any such danger, General Harrison sent a messenger to Tecumseh at Prophet's Town inviting him to a council to be held in Vincennes. Fearing treachery, General Harrison stationed armed men in close proximity to the Harrison mansion, yet standing just north of the Ohio and Mississippi railroad near the bridge. Mr. Bouchie relates this conversation as it has been told in his family ever since. He says it is not exactly as the histories relate the circumstances, but he says the histories are not exactly right.

Joseph Barron and Pierre La Plante, Mr. Bouchie went on to say, were the interpreters. Tecumseh told Barron to tell his Big Man to bring a bench, that he wanted to talk sitting on it. "What do you want that for?" General Harrison asked him through the interpreter, who understood the Shawnee language quite well. "To sit down by him," answered Tecumseh.

There was no bench accessible save the rude puncheon benches in the Catholic church. One of these was procured, and the men sat down on it. Harrison and all present were not a little curious to know what Tecumseh could do on a treaty with the bench. When they sat down together Tecumseh sat close to Harrison, even crowding him. Harrison moved away a little, but Tecumseh followed him up and still crowded him. Not a word was said while this was going on. At last Harrison reached the end of the seat, and he said to the interpreter: "Tell him he is about to crowd me off." This was Tecumseh's opportunity, and he straightened up in his seat, saying to the interpreter: "Eh! ugh! ask the Big Man how he would like for me to crowd him clear off. Ask him how he would like for me to crowd him clear out of the country, as he is crowding me and my people. Tell him that we once were to the sea on the east, but we have been crowded back and off. Tell him that all the earth—the hills and the valleys, the forests and the streams and all the fullness thereof were ours one time, but now the pale face has crowded us back until only the space toward the setting sun is ours."

The proud and bold warrior had made his point, and it was a forcible argument, such as was felt by all present. It was an impeachment of the methods used by the white people to acquire their lands. General Harrison replied that he had dealt honestly and fairly with them, always having regard for justice and right. To this Tecumseh said: "Tell the Big Man he is a liar." Harrison said: "We bought our lands from the chiefs that occupied them." "Tell him he is a liar," insisted Tecumseh. "I am the chief. No one has a right to dispose of the earth."

This heated controversy broke off the treaty for two or three days. There were some who wanted to kill Tecumseh and end the whole matter, but Harrison threatened to bind the one in chains who would dare do such a deed of violence to his invited guest.

The treaty, however, was not accomplished at all, and Tecumseh started south.—Vincennes (Ind.) Commercial.

A Scrap of Paper Saves her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, and she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. MARRIAGE LICENSES.

TO MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF the lately-enacted Territorial law, providing for a marriage license being issued by the Clerk of the Probate Court of the county in which the intended bride resides before a marriage can be legally performed, there has been issued from the press at this office a supply of licenses of approved form, which Probate Clerks will do well to avail themselves of. The law also requires that the person performing the ceremony return with the license, within thirty days after the marriage, a certificate over his own signature and countersigned by two or more witnesses present at the ceremony stating the date and place of the marriage. These certificates, suitable for either a civil officer or an Elder of the Church to use, can be had at this office in any quantity, and Probate Clerks ought to keep some of them on hand also, so that if necessary they could supply the person applying for a marriage license with a certificate. Also, to provide against the possibility of the person who officiates in performing the ceremony s having one to furnish them with.

The dry, cold weather of the early winter months is productive of a great deal of croup among children. Mothers should be on the look out for it and be prepared to arrest it as soon as the first symptoms appear. True croup never comes without warning; a day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse, and that symptom is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as this hoarseness or cough appears, all danger and anxiety may be avoided; it has never failed, even in the most severe cases. There is no danger in giving the remedy, for it contains no injurious substance.
