

VISIT OF NOTED PROHIBITIONIST

Judge Dan R. Shean of Peoria, Ill., the Guest of Dr. Stiehl.

FOUGHT LIQUOR 33 YEARS

Declares Amendment of Constitution Necessary Before Traffic Can Be Stopped.

Judge Dan R. Shean of Peoria, Ill., one of the most noted prohibitionists in the United States, is a visitor in this city, a guest of Dr. and Mrs. F. G. Stiehl, at the Bransford apartments. Since 1876 Judge Shean has been an avowed prohibitionist and has fought the evil but not by unreasonable or radical measures. He does not believe in the torch or drastic legislation to accomplish the desired result, but rather in the purchase of the liquor interest.

Judge Shean was elected to the Illinois legislature in 1904 on the prohibition ticket from Peoria county. Last year he ran for governor on the same ticket.

"The fight for prohibition will never end until there is an amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting the manufacture of alcoholic liquors, the same as we prohibit slavery," said Judge Shean. "Of course, alcohol and its mixtures, considered as a drug, is all right. It must be placed on the same plane as morphine, opium, etc."

"Beer and wine are not drugs and should be utterly forbidden. Brandy, for instance, is necessary as a drug, but should be as rigidly controlled as opium and its products."

"We have learned that it is useless to fight the saloon and the distillery and brewery go on turning out the poison. Stop the source and the saloon will do a natural death. But we begin in the saloon as the first thing within our reach. In the next step we have closed the saloon and the breweries and distilleries. The next step is through the federal control of interstate commerce. We want a national law forbidding the transportation of liquor from one state into any state that objects to liquor. This will control the fight on those states that remain open. Close a two-thirds majority of the states to liquor and then it will be possible to get the constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture, importation or use of alcoholic liquors as a beverage."

TIME CHANGES CONDITIONS.

"We hold that as civilization advances, one thing after another that may be useful and necessary at one stage of development becomes harmful. Slavery, for instance, under certain conditions, is perhaps necessary. One time the conqueror must keep the conquered as slaves. But as things go on this becomes unnecessary and harmful till at last slavery has no reason for being, and we throw it aside. Gambling is another case. Fifty years ago gambling was legal practically everywhere; today it is prohibited everywhere in the United States. Even the mails were closed against it. Close the mails against the mails against liquor and it will be where gambling is today. We intend to treat the big breweries just as we did the big lotteries."

"Some radicals are in favor of simply closing up the saloons and breweries and distilleries and letting the consequences be what they may. This is hardly right, either. Many men thousands of them, do not see liquor with our eyes. We think it wrong; they think it right, and hence have invested many millions in the business under the protection of the law. What the law allows must be treated as not only legal, but entitled to all legal protection. Hence we are in favor of buying the liquor interests but then closing them up. If this had been done in regard to the slaves they might not have been a terrible civil war."

WOULD PAY THE NATION.

"As a business proposition this financial move would pay the nation well. The liquor manufacturing interests earn about $1,250,000,000 a year. It would require $300,000,000 to run the various city, state and national governments in taxes. Sixty-three million goes in labor and $100,000,000 goes to the farmers for grain and other products. The difference between $700,000,000 and $900,000,000 goes in profits to the liquor dealers. The labor of all these men is lost to the nation. All business pay an equal profit in the long run, and the work of these men and the capital invested would, if used in other lines, say iron, railroading and other lines of manufacturing, of course, yield a $250,000,000 in wealth that would be of benefit to the nation instead of in bottles and kegs which today costs the nation fully another $1,250,000,000 in police measures, hospitals, prisons and all kinds of crimes and destitution due to liquor. Hence we figure that to buy out the liquor interests and close them up would yield a yearly profit of at least $2,500,000,000. This is two billion five hundred millions a year. Leaving

TYSON SAYS SIX MONTHS

The medical term for "kidney trouble" is Nephritis. Medical works agree that it is curable during the acute or early stage and that it is incurable in the second or chronic stage. When is the line crossed? One of the latest authorities, James Tyson, M.D., Prof. of Medicine in the University of Penn. says in his late work, page 121, that the changes have been observed as early as the tenth week and are probably established in all cases by the sixth month.

The name Nephritis means inflammation of the kidneys and the books having nothing to do with the kidneys have been helpless (the deaths have grown to 170 daily), and Prof. Tyson plainly says: Page 166 as to curative measures to restore the kidney to its normal condition, "I BELIEVE THERE ARE NONE."

The inevitable logic of this situation is that as Fulton's Renal Compound is the only thing known that reduces inflammation of the kidneys after it has become chronic, it is the only thing in the world that people can look to for recovery who have had kidney trouble longer than six months.

(Note—In fact, it is the only thing that sells directly to the kidneys at any stage, first or last, but it naturally reduces it more quickly before than after it becomes chronic.)

USING THE INSIDE OF THE BIG CITY BLOCKS

After traversing out beautiful streets with their rows of delightful shade trees and streams of crystal water, visitors can, as a rule, find but one fault—our blocks are too large, so much so in fact that much of the interior of the city's squares can never be properly utilized. This is the cursory view of the tourist; but the progressive methods of the Salt Lake Security Trust company have overcome the difficulty in a plan that is at once pleasing, profitable, and unique.

The picture above shows what is being done with the block which lies between Ninth and Tenth East and Fifth and Sixth South; and so rapidly is the work progressing that before we are aware of it a new system of city improvement will have had a successful beginning.

A new street to be known as Residence avenue has been cut through the block diagonally from the southwest to the northeast. On each side of this street have been erected eight pretty cottages through Mountain Meadows, thus adding to the beauty of the locality.

City water will be furnished, sewers are being put in, concrete sidewalks are being built, and with the coming of fall, additional trees will be planted, so that the locality, already attractive, will be even more pleasant for residential purposes than at present. The ground slopes gently to the south and west so that the occupants of the upper houses overlook their neighbors, and there is nothing about the place suggestive of the court or cheap residence locality. At the foot of the hill the Jordan canal will be bridged with a handsome concrete structure and bordered with trees and shrubbery, thus adding to the beauty of the locality.

Homes in this location will be especially desirable in price for those people who have moderate incomes. Street car service on the Ashton Avenue line, close by on Ninth East, will bring the home within easy access of the business section. Homes are now on the market, and it is expected that they will sell rapidly.

TWO HUNDRED MILES OVER WILD COY TRY

Salt Laker Undergo Strenuous Experiences in Southern Utah and Northern Arizona.

One somewhat crippled and both showing the effects of a hard mountain trip, A. W. North of the University club and Carr B. Neel of the Country club, have just returned from a venturesome journey through southern Utah and into northern Arizona. Three weeks ago, being desirous of a strenuous out-of-door vacation, the two left Salt Lake City by the Salt Lake route and at Modena took the southern stage. After passing through Mountain Meadows and visiting St. George, they set forth on a 200-mile pedestrian trip through Dixie and into Arizona.

Overcome by severe storms, they crossed the Virgin river just ahead of a high flood and in Arizona were continually menaced by rushing waters. Indeed, they were compelled to ford one swollen stream eight times in a single day and when crossing the Kanab near its junction with the Grand Canyon met with disaster. Here, North who was in the lead, was swept off his feet by the swift current and barely made the further shore by stout swimming. His carbine was carried away, his camera and his pocket watch broken and his watch and revolver filled with muddy water. At a second fording his right leg, laid open by a sharp rock, compelled a two days' halt for amateur surgery. To add to these misfortunes Neel was overtaken by a low fever brought on by drinking bad water.

Despite accidents, however, the two men completed their examinations of the Kanab canyon and its western tributaries, then re-entered the settlements at Fredonia, Ariz. From there, they started to Moen Valley, then taking the Rio Grande for Salt Lake City, thus completing a 200-mile "seeing Utah tour."

"We cannot speak too highly of the hospitality of the people in that section of the country," said Mr. North yesterday. "They treated us royally, and anything they had was ours for the asking. In that section of country far from the railroad, people rely on their own efforts more than people of other sections of the country better favored by cobbles, their own shoes, make their own molasses and sugar and in many ways are independent of outside agencies."

"The excessive rains with which that usually dry section of country has been favored during the past summer means that the ranges will grow plenty of grass for the support of the thousands of cattle that roam the ranges. This spells prosperity for the cattlemen of that country."

"One of the things that appealed to me strongly was the fact that there have been no additions to the geographical report of the Powell & DeLancey expedition about 30 years ago. There is one canyon that I know of that has not been jotted down in the topographical map of that country. Two great canyons are tributary to the Kanab, the Grand and the Hacks. It is one of these two that has no place in the topographical report. As a fellow of the American Geographical society, I am greatly interested in this section of country. The traveler will find much in southern Utah and northern Arizona to occupy his time."

"It is a lesson in natural resources for one to visit Dixie land."

Mr. North, "the Kolob Plateau is a mass of coal, in the Virgin valley there are oil wells and wherever water is put upon the soil the corn is immediately at hand. For instance, a little hamlet by the Virgin, we found orchards not four years old laden with the most wonderful peaches."

RHEUMATIC FOLKS

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidneys is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't dally with "uric acid rheumatism." You might go on till doomsday with them but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cure the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is a Salt Lake City testimony to prove it.

Mrs. A. D. McNichols, living at 328 West First South St., Salt Lake City, Utah, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills were used in my family some five years ago and the best of result were received. When we first started using them, one of my children was annoyed with a weakness of the kidney. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at J. J. Hill's drug store and they cured the trouble. About two years ago my son suffered an attack of rheumatism but he took Doan's Kidney Pills and they very soon cured up his system and banished that tick. I have also used them and think there is no better remedy on the market today. I have advised many people to try them and they have received satisfactory results from their use."

RUSSIAN COUNTS HERE.

Members of Nobility Studying Western Methods of Irrigation.

Count Paul Gorske and Count Gottlieb Korolenko, two Russian noblemen, arrived in Salt Lake yesterday to study irrigation here on their trip around the world. They will remain here about two weeks and then go to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition.

Count Gorske is one of the Russian farmer counts. He owns a farm of about 50,000 acres, and makes his home in Poltava, a city nearby. He introduced irrigation on his farm several years ago and it has increased the production wonderfully. The court employs about 90 men and their families. In addition to their board and lodging, the men earn 15 rubles a month, or $9 in United States money. The women who do the milking and lighter work, earn 10 rubles a month.

Count Korolenko is a Russian officer in the cadet corps. He is a brother of Count Gorske.
