FOR THE BEST MEN.

Politics, up to the present time, does not seem to be worrying the people very much. Both parties have held meetings and each seems to be satis-fied with the result of the same. A great many of the people express themlves to the effect-that they intend to for the best men, without so much regard to their party affiliations.

The beet harvest is going on finely, and notwithstanding the dry season, some of the fields are turning out a good yield.

Thatcher, Ariz., Sept. 29 .- For the last three days, Thatcher has been the scene of no small amount of interest. The first county fair brought together a collection of many interesting things and a large number of visitors. On Saturday Professors Forbes and True of the experiment station and State University, of Tuscon and Phoenix, lectured before the Farmers' institute.

The first speaker disclosed the findings of a year's experiment on sugar beet culture in our valley, while the latter told us all about improved stock, etc. These gentlemen were the judges of our farm products and stock, and awarded the prizes. The enterprise of our Latter-day Saints' Academy is forging it to the front. Professor Emil Maeser, assisted by the faculty and pupils, gavo a fair some months since, which proved a great success. The people in other towns were so well pleased they ex-pressed themselves that "The first "The first county fair belongs to Thatcher."

fersor Masser, as chairman of the Farmers' institute and the head of our academy, took the initiative, the people responded moderately well. The fair was held in the large assembly hall and was held in the large assembly hall and surrounding grounds. Though small in dimensions, and number of displays, we desire it distinctly understood that the various articles were not small. Twen-ty ounce apples, 1% pound pears, 4% pound sweet botatoes, 16 foot corn stocks with two ears on, ten feet from the ground, pumpkins 5 feet 10 inches, in circumference, 40 pound watermelons, sugar best best high and sugar bests sugar cane 10 feet high and sugar beets up to the average. CURIO DEPARTMENT Many curios from the old ruins of anclent mounds and caves formed an at-tractive feature of the fair, among which is a piece of cedar, a part of the lintel of a window, dug out from con-siderable depth in the earth and supoosed to be at least one thousand years old; a center post of a house also, shows the marks of a cutting tool; four san-dals for the feet, were found recently in a cave. They were made of some form of cactus plant, and are in a state of good preservation; a stone bust of a man's face natural size and almost erfect in form. An Ola was found on Ushop J. E. D. Zundel's farm in Thatcher filled with human bones, and among the reptiles stuffed is a gila monster about fifteen inches long with chipmonk in his mouth just as he

Our meineral display was composed principally of a present made to the academy by the Arizona Copper Co., showing the copper in all its phases from the rude ore to the copper In mar-ket form including the many changes through which it passes in the course of preparation.
