THE EVENING NEWS.

Saturday, - - Jan. 30, 1875.

Chandler, the Outgoing Michigan Senator.

The editor of the Detroit Post calls us a blackguard for putting in circulation that truthful narrative of Senator Chandler sitting on a baby in a hack.

But we forgive the editor, and do so mainly because he is the friend of the great Michigander. We want our Chandler returned to us. Newman's gone, Mullett's gone, Grant is going, and what will we do when bereft of our Chandler? We may as well hang up our fiddle and our bow, and it is not a long bow either, so far as our Zachariah is concerned. He carries, as we have said before, so little drapery about his base, and he makes such an exhibit of the singular fact, that we never tire calling attention to the ludicrous circumstance, for it is funny in a senator. And then the senator does his absurdities in such a public manner:

Ever when on a spree,
Zachariah he,
Doth climb a tree
In a high old state of inebriety,
Which all the people laugh to see.

Jesting aside for once: Senator Chandler is a wealthy man who has a fancy to be senator. Now, although he has not the first qualification for the place, there is no reason why he should not be a senator if the people of Michigan are willing. He is a kind-hearted, good-natured, coarse man. He has not the remotest idea of the duties pertaining to the position he fills. He is as ignorant of political science as a horse, but in this he is not alone among senators. But he must not attempt to secure this place through false pretenses. He must not claim to be a sober model of propriety at home, and reserve his sprees for us in Washington. Our readers are well aware that we never meddle with an official's private short-comings or failings so long as he keeps them private. But when such office-holder makes an open scandal of his dissipated habits they become public property and are fit subjects of criticism. It is well then that the people of Michigan should know that, for lo these many years they have appeared here senatorially in a way to make the wicked laugh and the judicious grieve. As we belong to the wicked, we rather enjoy it; and then the big, unwieldy, impulsive senator is always committing such delicious blunders. — Washington Capital.

Senator Chandler is now on his third term, and has had all the honor his character and his talents entitle him to—and, in the estimation of very many people, more too. But his greed for power would not allow him to yield even for the good of the republican party. What lobbying, and dragooning, and coaxing, and threatening could do was done to bring the seven republicans into the traces. And one—Mr. Garfield—was whipped in and made a very miserable shewing when he came to vote for Chandler, by trying to apologize, in saying, "Contrary to my own convictions, but in obedience to the wishes of four hundred of my constituents who have petitioned me to do so, and at the demand of the largest lobby that ever subjected a member to pressure, I vote for Mr. Chandler."

Unquestionably there were many among the Republicans who felt forced to vote for Chandler who rejoice at the result. The fact is, Chandler has been political lord and master of Michigan for years. He has been dictator as to the offices, and no man had a ghost of a chance, politically, unless he threw up his hat for Chandler. It is well the spell has been broken, for the taint has rested long enough upon Michigan Republicans, that Chandler's money was omnipotent. —Cleveland Herald.

The defeat of old Zach. Chandler for senator in Michigan, gives the most complete satisfaction to the entire country. For eighteen years he has held Michigan in his grasp by the aid of his money and federal office-holders. At the last November election seven independent republicans were elected who could not be bought, threatened or coaxed into voting for Chandler. With these independent republicans the democratic members finally united, and selected an honest and conservative republican. A dispatch to the Associated Press thus gives the antecedents of Isaac P. Christiancy, the senator elect: He has been for seventeen years one of the judges of the Supreme Court and part of the time Chief Justice. He has been elected to his position twice by the unanimous vote of both parties. In politics he was originally a Democrat, then a Free Soiler, and then a Republican. He is 63 years of age and a resident of Lansing. He is understood to be hard money and revenue tariff, conservative on constitutional questions and a man of marked ability. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TESTIMONIAL.

Editor Deseret News:

I had a son who appeared to be in ill health, being in a pining condition. I was unable to determine the nature of the disease which affected him. A few days since I placed him under the treatment of Dr. Plant, who, within a few hours, and without pain or inconvenience to the lad, freed the patient of a tape-worm about forty feet long, since which time the boy has been improving. I wish you to publish this circumstance, as much for the benefit of people afflicted similarly to my boy, as to award credit to Dr. Plant, whose skill in that line of complaints can be relied on, besides his charges are moderate.
