EFFICIENCY AND RECOMPENSE

Length of Service Solely, Said the Lecturer, Should Not be an Element In Increased Stipend.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Jan. 4 .- Thursday evening marked the culmination of a lively two days of business and pleasure in Ogden. Townspeople and visiting teachers alike gathered in the opera house in the evening to listen to Supt. Cooley, who spoke on a subject of vital importance to all the teachers. It was on the relationship of salaries to efficlency and the opera house was packed despite the fact that the teachers were late in returning from a trip to the Lucin cut-off, and the speaker had spent the afternoon in Ogden canyon. Supt. Cooley declared for progressive scholarship as a feature in making up scholarship as a feature in making up salary schedules as promotions. He spoke as follows: "There is gome confusion in the minds of civilized men today as to what is the proper basis on which to estimate the remuneration granted individuals for services. Attempts have been made to justify the giving of an equal share to each man, regardless of the value of the services rendered. Some-times it has been proposed to reward each man according to his wants, some-times it has been proposed to reward each man according to his labor, on the basis of time spent, without special regard to the value of the product. Mankind generally, however, acts on the principle that each member of so-ciety should be remunerated in pro-portion to the value of the services rendered by him. VALUE OF SERVICES.

VALUE OF SERVICES.

VALUE OF SERVICES. "If the schools are to be carried on in the interest of the children, they must be governed, in fixing the teach-rest salarles, by an estimate of the value of the services rendered by the value of the service services ficiency. An increase of salary based upon length of service can be defended only in so far as it can be shown that length of service conduces to greater officiency in the work of the school next the service conduces to greater of the service conduces to greater the so far as it can be shown that length of service conduces to greater officiency in the work of the school next an be defended only by showing that sex is a factor that must be con-sitered in estimating the efficiency of the scholarship must alike be tested by the criterion of efficiency. "Many of our large cities have adopt-d schedules of salaries, making add service. Some, however, are taking into consideration, as well as length of service, progressive scholarship. We oubt whether length of service is al-vays an element in efficiency. Some-tion the school and its work. SCHEDULE RECOMMENDED.

SCHEDULE RECOMMENDED. "I would recommend a schedule of sal-

"I would recommend a schedule of sal-arles by making provision for advances yearly for a period of four or five years. At the end of this period, if a teacher did not give evidence of increase in efficiency, in professional zeal and stu-dent habits, she would be stopped and not allowed to go further. I believe that scholarship and habits of study are factors that must be considered in estimating the efficiency of a teacher. I am convinced that no teacher can long of a problem demanding solution, who lacks the power of expressing herself definitely and accurately, is in a degree unfitted for the work she is attempting to do. An examination will test this.

"CRAMMING" DEFENDED.

"CRAMMING" DEFENDED. "We hear a good deal today about 'cramming' for examination. Study as a preparation for an examination is called 'cram' by persons who wish to condemn what they do not approve of. I believe that the man or woman who has the ability to prepare ready and thoroughly for an examination has in him the right sort of stuff to make a teacher of. The teacher must possess the power to go to the right place for material and to use this material when she gats it. 'Cramming' means simply ability to go to the sources of infor-mation and select the proper material for the situation. The power to cram is the power tor so than the teacher who must prepare for every lesson every day of her life. WHERE AN EXAM. FALLS DOWN.

WHERE AN EXAM. FALLS DOWN.

WHERE AN EXAM. FALLS DOWN. "Examination, however, does compar-atively little to test the moral quali-ties. They do not accurately test such qualities as diligence, patience, sense of duty, or interest in the work we are doing, although they do so to a degree. An examination will not test the sym-pathy, the power of working with or in-fluencing others; in other words, an examination cannot be a complete test. Somehow we are compelled to estimate the power of people, whether by written Somehow we are competited to estimate the power of people, whether by written examination or by personal estimates. Physiognomy, phrenology, social stand-ing, good clothes, personality come into play here, but in the last analysis we shall consider very narrowly what the person knows and what we believe the person can do. "The problem of estimating fairly the efficiency of tachers in the scholenoom

"The problem of estimating fairly the efficiency of teachers in the schoolroom has never been satisfactorily solved. The teacher may be so much interested in study that she forgets her school room. The ambitious teacher may get up so much energy to study that her health suffers as well as her school room work room work.

HIGHER STANDARDS.

"Teachers, however much they may criticize any scheme for securing great-er efficiency, are everywhere in favor of higher standards. The teachers rec-ognize, as well as the public does, that the schools are conducted in the interests of the children. We realize that the schools do not belong to the teachers, that they do not exist to fur-nish positions for teachers. "I believe that encouraging a profes-sional spirit is the best policy and that we can trust to the final judgment of the people as to the value of our work. I believe that we can trust to the gen-erosity of the American people, who have always appreciated the worth of the public school as a remedy for our civic ills." 'Teachers, however much they may am convinced that no teacher can long remain really efficient who is not a su-dent. It is only by continuing to be a student that she can avoid the depres-sing effect of constant association with immature minds and ideals and contin-Immature minds and ideals and contin-ue to grow in efficiency as long as she continues to teach. I insist that abil-ity to utilize sources of information, either in books or laboratories, or in ex-perience outside of the school room, is vitally connected with the value of the teacher's service in the school. "The proposition that teachers be permitted to advance from the mini-mum selary naid to the bichest selary.

permitted to advance from the mini-mum salary paid to the highest salary fixed by the board of education without let, hindrance or interruption, except that they continue efficient enough to avoid dismissal, is demoralizing. Such an arrangement absolutely ig-nores the real purpose for which the schools exist and looks at the school system from the standpoint of the job. Such an arrangement suggests mak-ing the necessary effort to get into the system and then letting the clock work.

FEAR OF DISMISSAL.

"There is a fundamental objection to the proposition that we ought to rely upon fear of dismissal to keep teach-ers up to the mark. Fear of punish-ment is the most ignoble of all motives which are not positively malevolent of our school systems, e chances of removal till death or paysical disabil-ity are exceedingly small. We should frame every recommendation in such a way as to encourage work and growth. "We hear today a good deal of com-plaint about examinations. We all know that many things cannot be de-termined by an examination. We all know that an examination. We all recognize that an examination is not an entirely satisfactory agent for se-lecting or promoting teachers. We use examinations, however, as an auxiliary in this work, and there seems to be no special reason why they are less ef-fective in the work of selecting or pro-moting teachers than in selecting or promoting other public servants. TEST FOR ACCURACY.

You can find out from a set of papers "whether a man knows his own mind or net." It seems fair to assume that there is some relation be-tween knowledge and power. We un-consciously assume that the man who finows is the man who can do, and we believe the only reason why people necd to know is that they may be able to do.
