New Modern Structure to Be Erected On College Avenue for Benefit Of Young People.

Quietly and without ceremony work was begun this morning which will lead to the destruction of another of the old historic buildings in Utah, and to the replacement in its stead of a large modern structure.

In order to make way for the splendid L. D. S. university gymnasium building, for which the plans are now ready, the old Church stables and re pair shops in the Tithing yard, must be razed to the ground, and with them will go another of the fast disappearing remains of President Brigham Young's handiwork. For half a century, this old stable, with its two foot adobe wall and its rought pine timbers mortised and bound with wooden pegs, has been the home of the driving horses that have been used for two general purposes, that of the higher Church authorities, the first presidency and the presiding bishops, and also by the unfortunate poor when in need of such. The old sheds, now in a delapidated condition poor old sheds, now in a delapidated condition, with the handmarks of many a patch-work, have been used for all kinds of general repair work, and have also for many years housed the vehicles that one day have carried a leading elder of the Church and another have borne a grave of a husband or father. O. H. Worthington, who has worked about the stables for 18 years, and who has been in general overcharge for eight years, has perhaps felt more sen-timent than anyone else over the ap-proaching tear-down work.

WORK STARTS TODAY.

This morning temporary stables and sheds for the horses and buggies were erected at the north rear of the tithing office. Later this week the actual work of demolishing the old landmarks will begin, and the work of construction begin, and the work of construction will immediately follow. The gymnasium building will face on College avenue, toward the L. D. S. university buildings, and it will con-stitute one-half of the large structure to be known as the Young Men's Mutu-al Improvement building, to face on South Temple street. This completing half will not be undertaken immediate-ly.

The old "Church Stables" have The old "Church Stables" have gone through an evolutionary process of change, quite common to most of the more substantial structures of early days. Added to, remodelled, and fine-finished by Bishop Preston, they now are not only in every way most modern for the handling of horses and hay, but the exterior, es-pecially the front view on College av-enue, is quite in pleasing harmony enue, is quite in pleasing harmony with the buildings of the L. This tearing down and building up process, the going of the old and the coming of the new. is a movement which always attracts the passing in-terest of both the retrospective aged and the prospective youth. It will not he many years before nearly all of the old landmarks of pioneer days will become but traditions of the past.

Commencing in the ranks of the party. he quickly attained to the chairman-ship of the state organization. In every intermediate position up to that point he acquitted himself, not only with credit to himself, but with advantage to the success of the party at the polls. "Mr. Christensen is a lawyer of ex-ceptional standing at the bar of the state. He has twice held official posi-tion of both bar and people, only lear-ing the office to be a candidate for the position to which he now aspires. Bryan has been defeated twice in the presidential race, and this third trip will finish him sure. Republican politicians fear Johnson, but it is not believed he will be nominated, and that Bryan will be made the nominee. Mr. Cosgriff calls attention to the fact that Bryan cannot possibly carry New York where the World is fighting him, and with 38 elec-toral votes of the Empire state lost, the situation cannot but look dismal for Democratic success.

Ruby Dickman, Paramour of Charles Barnett, a Waiter, Dies of Morphine Poisoning.

Ruby Dickman, 21 years of age, killed herself yesterday afternoon by taking morphine, Hereditary suicidal mania has been assigned as the cause of her action. In addition, her health has been poor for some time and this is taken as a secondary cause. The girl's mother killed herself 18 months ago and her sister, Mrs. Mabel Oakley, now of Boise, tried to commit suicide about five years ago in this city. Miss Dickman was living with a waiter named Charles Barnett in the Imperial hotel in south State street, having registered as his wife when the pair took apartments at the hotel about one week ago.

Saturday afternoon Miss Dickman and Barnett returned to the hotel after a long walk shortly before 8 o'clock, at which time Barnett went to work on the night shift at Burns & Rogers' The fight shift at burns & hogens is restaurant in Commercial street. About 11 o'clock he called the hotel on the telephone and asked Fred Poulsen, night clerk, to go to his room to see if Miss Dickman was all right. Poulsen knocked at the door but received no response. He went again at the request of Barnett at about 1 o'clock and again at 2 o'clock. This time, receiving no response. Havnett fold Poulsen to enter the room to see what was the matter. Poulsen went into the room and found Miss Dickman face down on her bed. Beside the bed was an empty bottle which had contained a half-onnee of morphine. The girl was in a stupor from which she could not be aroused. Dr. E. S. Wright was called and worked heroically over the girl, trying to revive her. Then Barnett appeared and asked that Dr. C. M. Benedict be called. Dr. Benedict had been altending the girl for some time and Barnett though that he would be better able to revive her. Both doctors worked without avail, however, and at 3:20 p. m. vestenday she died restaurant in Commercial street. About yesterday she died. The girl was roused at times suf-ficently to answer "yes" and "no" to questions, but could give no light upon the real cause for her act. Barnett was grief stricken and sobbed bitterly while the physicians were working over her and utterly collapsed after her death. The girl's body was taken to the un-dertaking establishment of Joseph E. Tavlor. Through sickness the girl's body has become wasted and her face shows that she has suffered a great Taylor. cures in the political field this fall. Jake Raleigh, the peeriess patriot without a stain, may now be buried be-neath a load of his own dirt. The Raleigh-Harmon contracting firm had a chance to repent after the report that city teams excavated a West Tem-ple cellar a year ago, under the plea that the dirt was needed on the Ninth South canal to stop a flood. However the whitewashing given the Hon. Jake at that time seems to have worn off, and he is due to come before Mayor Bransford for another.

Bransford for another. Speaking of paving stones and Jake Raleigh's home, the "News" once pub-lished pictures of the front and rear elevations, just to show what Raleigh would do. In that case Pat Moran's foreman was made responsible for a "gift" of paving stones to Jake, and the pile of cobble rock from the streets was there just out of Jake's philanthro-ple interest in getting the rock off the street. Of course if you wanted to buy a load, and simply couldn't find a place, why then Jake-out of his goodness of heart-but what's the use talking about it. Jake was whitewashed.

Pretty soon it will come to pass that be who hopes for wealth beyond the dreams of avarice, will wish to possess himself with so large a sum as the city's overdraft.

Utah now has at least enough candi-dates out for state offices to make it possible to discuss the offerings. To the announcements concerning the governorship, the auditorship, and the treasurership, must now be aded a con-gressional name. Parley P. Christen-sen (niends again to contest with Jos. Howell of Cache, for the honor of rep-resenting Utah in Congress. Mr. Christensen, who was a candidate for pomination as delegates to Congress, two years ago, has this year emerged again "from the hands of his friends" as an active candidate. He has de-clared an intention to work hard and put up the best campaign that is in him. There is a quarrel over the size of Salt Lake's overdraft. But it is only whether it totals $445,000 or $467,000, and the public can take its choice. Either figure is a pretty substantial argument in favor of bonds to the householder who has to decide upon loading the debt upon his children or paying it up himself in increased tax-es. Both alternatives are always con-current symptoms of a "spoils system" administration. administration.
