THE INEVITABLE RESULT.

A PROMINENT eastern journal complains of the prominence given to "Mormonism" by the opposition to its immigration, and by such measures as the Edmunds law, and declares that these "give to Mormonism a greater opportunity for growth than it before had."

This is what we have repeatedly pointed out. It seems strange that thoughtful minds among the opponents of this system had not perceived it long ago. It ought to be plain to those who watch the progress of events, that this work profits by all the great efforts made for its overthrow. If they could only comprehend that and keep down the desire to do something extraordinary in this direction, they would accomplish a thousandfold more towards effecting their purpose than they have ever done yet.

The more they assail "Mormonism" the livelier it will be; and the more falsehoods they tell about it, the more noise they make over it, and the more they legislate against it, the more they advertise it and aid in its promulgation. If they could only let it alone its progress would be less rapid and extensive. But they cannot. Influences are at work provoking them to play the fool over it, and the advantages every time accrue to the system they are ever striving to suppress.

Persecution and violence will not and cannot prevail against this work, but the future will prove like the past, that opposition enlarges its vitality, and force only stimulates it to greater victories. When will statesmen and social scientists profit by the lessons of history?

THE RAVINGS OF TALMAGE.

The Rev. (?) De Witt Talmage is the pious "Christian" who advocated the solving of the "Mormon problem" by getting all the leaders of the Church and the teachers of the system into the Tabernacle and blowing them into eternity by United States artillery. His righteous soul has been exercised quite recently over the landing and passage to Utah of the company of "Mormons" from Europe, whose detension and return were desired by Consul Mason.

Before proceeding to quote further from the sayings of the fantastic Talmage, we will refer to the statements made by Consul Mason about the emigration companies at Basle. He declared that the Swiss "Mormon" emigrants were paupers shipped by the Communes at the public expense as the cheapest way of getting rid of the burden of supporting them. Also that three principal emigrating companies at Basle had refused to convey them. We have learned the facts in regard to these companies. They declined taking charge of "Mormon" emigrants because they had been notified not to do so by the very authorities which Consul Mason says paid the passage of the emigrants.

We supposed that these companies had failed to obtain the contract to convey our emigrants, through demanding excessive rates, but we learn that they were forbidden to make any such contract, and therefore other means had to be adopted for the passage of our people to Liverpool than the usual method through an emigration company.

Dr. Talmage exaggerated the number of the emigrants from 400 odd to 800. He felt quite exasperated about their arrival. Said he: "The law of the land neither touched them when they landed nor put upon their shoulder the hand of arrest when they departed." He then proceeded to inveigh against the law and the government, and is thus answered by the New York World:

> Dr. Talmage is sorely exercised over the Mormon question. In his Friday night discourse at the Tabernacle he opened the vial of his wrath against the "twin relic" and against the government which "sits idiotically in the presence of this evil" and does nothing to eradicate it.
> Brother Talmage has made a discovery which will be startling to the politicians. Mormonism, he says, is not only dominant in Utah, but holds a balance of power in the states and territories, and "is powerfully entrenched in and overshadows the national capital." Good gracious! Does the reverend doctor mean to imply that we are all getting to be polygamists, and that the present moral and high-toned administration is a convert to the institution? Really, now, the fiery exhorter of the Tabernacle should remember that June is upon us, that the dog-pound is open and that excitement in hot weather is hazardous to health.
>
> Dr. Talmage's indignation has thus arisen to fever heat because "eight hundred captives of Mormondom, under the care of their captors, were allowed on the Sabbath to pass through New York," and no one "put upon their shoulders the hand of arrest as they departed."
>
> Terrible picture! But, alas! there is a concise document known as the Constitution, which protects every man's liberty and every man's conscience, and women are included. If any "hand of arrest" had been "put upon the shoulders of these Mormons," the same hand would probably soon afterwards have been put down into its owner's pockets to hand out an amount of damages for false imprisonment.
>
> In fact, law is an actuality in this land of liberty as well as Mormonism, and the people who think more of law than of the "twin relic," would have been highly indignant at any attempt to treat these "eight hundred captives" as criminals and deprive them of the right of free judgment without warrant.
>
> It will be found that those who are the most vehement against the "Mormons" because of alleged infraction of the law, are themselves advocates of lawlessness. For instance here is Dr. Talmage endeavoring to stir up the people to destroy "Mormonism" in an utterly lawless manner. Said he:
>
> "In my opinion nothing but a great national revolution will ever touch it. The days for the peaceful solution of this question are past. By the year, by the month, by the hour Mormonism is gathering momentum. A few batteries on the hills around Salt Lake City might once have put a quietus on this great outrage, but not now. God only knows by what mode or through what national exhaustion the curse is to be extirpated. But go it must."
>
> We wonder whether these professed disciples of the Redeemer ever think of the peculiar position in which they place themselves before the world, when, in assuming the role of ministers of salvation, they advocate the slaughter of the "Mormons" for believing and practising a creed at variance with orthodoxy. The utterances of such men as Talmage are more suitable for the lips of wholesale assassins, and men who revel in human butchery, than of professing "Christians." But the antics of such religious montebanks, we are happy to say, only produce upon the public mind a similar impression to that made by the gambols of the painted clown and the tricks of the common juggler. Attention may be attracted by their peculiarities, but their value is nought and their effect is no more than the fluttering of a red rag in the wind.

Correspondence.

MARSHALL PASS,
State of Colorado,
June 6th, 1883.

Editor Deseret News:

At an elevation of 10,857 feet, where snow is to be found many hundred feet below us, I remember you. For the last two hours we have been circling around the tops of these beautiful, verdant and heavily timbered mountains. From where I now sit I see a tank that has been in view from the moving train that has appeared to circle around it, at different angles for the last 70 minutes. Passengers complain it is with difficulty they breathe.

We have now left the waters that flow into the Pacific—through the Gunnison, Grand and Colorado rivers, and have commenced our descent leaving the head waters of the Arkansas river as they speed on their way to the Atlantic, through the great Mississippi.

The engineering skill—displayed in laying out this road and in the construction of these massive Locomotives, with eight driving wheels, drawing immence trains of loaded cars around curves at angles so very acute, (as to cause an engineer, it is said to whistle "down breaks" on one occasion, when he became a little confused, thinking he was about to collide with another train—when, lo! he had mistaken the rear end of his own train for that of another,) over a grade of 270 feet to the mile, is something very remarkable, to say the least, while the thrilling sensation experienced by the traveler as he passes through the "Castle Gate," whose massive pillars tower 400 feet above the Pass, the Castle Valley and "Black Canyon," present most romantic views, with rocky heights reaching 2,600 feet above the rapidly flowing Gunnison.

President Woodruff is now seated near me and excitedly exclaims, "If I could spare time to follow that stream for ten miles, I could supply my family with trout for a year." It appears that he got on the train at Price, Emery County, and reports to have traveled 80 miles by wagon in the last four days over Castle Valley, mostly of clay formation, very barren, as it seldom snows in winter, and rains in summer are not to be relied upon. Five meetings were held at Orangeville, where the people of the Stake assembled in Conference, under the presidency of C. G. Larsen, also one at Castledale and one at Huntington, where a good spirit prevailed amongst the Saints, and much good instruction was imparted.

In the latter place Bishop Elias Cox resigned, and Chas. Pulsipher was ordained Bishop in his stead, and two Counselors, and two High Counselors were selected and set apart to fill vacancies. The people are busy putting in crops, making ditches, etc. The five streams on the west side of the valley are quite high, the smallest of which contains as much water as Little Cottonwood, and the largest as much as the Jordan. They are known as Price, Huntington, Cottonwood, Farren and Muddy.

The Stake is prosperous and numbers over 1,800—over one-third of whom are under eight years of age.

While much of the scenery on this route is magnificent, we have seen no game, with the exception of a prairie dog or two to-day.

I am just reminded by a person sitting near me that there is other game in the country as he has heard of panthers being in the mountains, and he himself and two other persons were traveling from Heber City, Wasatch Co., through the country extending south a distance of 200 miles, where their provisions gave out, and they were without food for two or three days, but they luckily found a huge porcupine, so large and fat he says it took all three of them to get it upon their pack animal. (I presume they were not as strong as the porcupine, inasmuch as they were all grown men, and they could eat little else than the soup). Upon this they subsisted two days until they reached a settlement. He, however, says game is much more plentiful in these parts, than it was then, inasmuch as the Indians do not hunt it as much and it is eight years since he passed through such a strait.

I have just met our townsman John W. Snell, who reports that he has marketed in Colorado and vicinity over 1,800 bushels of Utah potatoes, in the last 30 days.

Terrible Tragedy.

VINCENNES, Ind., 11.—A horrible tragedy occurred in the house of Joseph Pollock, a wealthy Miller and influential citizen. Shortly after midnight on Saturday night his son Charles Pollock, who was married to Clara Clendenning six months ago, came home, bade his father and mother good night, saying he was going away. He then went to his wife's bedroom, disrobed, and in half an hour shot her through the breast and himself in the right side. She ran to the end of the hall, where she fell dead. He lived about 20 minutes but neither spoke a word. Pollock was partly intoxicated when he came home. There was no known trouble between him and his wife.

Prairie Fires.

CHICAGO, 11.—A Fort Bowie, Arizona special says: A report was received from Major Biddle's command to the effect that the extensive prairie fires which have recently shot across Southern Arizona, originated in Mexico, and are thought to be the work of Indians returning north. Scouting parties returned to camp on Saturday, after being out a week, being everywhere met by fires. Biddle's troops will form a junction with the Fourth Cavalry under Forsythe, which has been ordered to Guadalupe Canyon from New Mexico.

Irish Protestants.

At a meeting of a number of prominent Irish-Americans in this city, last night, it was decided to call a mass-meeting to be held next Saturday to protest against Papal interference with affairs of Ireland.

The Coming Event.

ST. LOUIS, 11.—The whereabouts of ex-Judge Chester H. Krum is now known. Mrs. Krum was notified yesterday by G. H. Thiel, manager of Thiel's private detective agency, that her husband was on board a Central Pacific train bound west, and would breakfast at Ogden this morning. Krum has a ticket for Salt Lake City only. It appears that Krum on nearing St. Louis, April 26th, went to Chicago, then to New York, he was then driven to the Pacific mail steamer which sailed for Panama whence he proceeded to San Francisco. He was recognized on the train.

Investigating Hill.

WASHINGTON, 11.—In committee to investigate the charges made against the administration of the supervising architect's office of the Treasury Department to-day, Coleman, counsel for Murch, stated that he had prepared specific charges which he expected to prove, under the contracts already in evidence before the committee. He also stated that he had recently been retained as counsel for Manley and Cooper, Justin McLathro and several others who desired to prefer charges against Hill, and that he would in a few days, formulate charges to cover their several grounds of complaint. Coleman then read charges and specifications which set forth fraud and extravagance in connection with the purchase and dressing of stone for public buildings of the United States. Stivemetz, expert, then took the stand and resumed his statement relative to the cost of granite used in the construction of public buildings at Philadelphia.

Tornado in Massachusetts.

NORTH VERNON, Mass., 11.—This place was visited by a cyclone last night about half-past seven o'clock. It passed through the southern part of the town, destroyed five or six houses, one brick church, and the rest dwellings. No one was injured as far as known. A train of 10 cars on the O. & M. Railroad was blown from the track about seven miles east of North Vernon. No one injured. Further up the O. & M. Railroad, at Osgood several houses were blown down, and two persons are reported killed. The cloud was funnel-shaped and moving westward.

Trial for Treason.

LONDON, 11.—The trial of dynamite conspirators, Dr. Gallagher, Barnard Gallagher, Ansburgh Curtin, Whitehead and Wilson, charged with treason and felony, began this morning.

"The Preceptor."—This is the title of a very useful little work of sixty-four pages, by Elder John Nicholson, being "A simple system for enabling young men to acquire a knowledge of the doctrines of the Gospel and the ability to preach them."

The theory of the work is based on practical experience in teaching the principles it conveys. Its main object is to acquaint the student with what are termed the "first principles of the Gospel." With this purpose in view, and to avoid the expenditure of time in searching the scriptures for suitable passages, a large number have been collated and are given in full on the following subjects—Faith and Works; Repentance; The essentiality, mode and object of Baptism; organization and officers of the Church; The preaching of the Gospel to and Administration of the Ordinance of Baptism for the Dead; The Universal Apostasy from the true order and spirit of the Gospel as established by Christ; The necessity of Divine Authority; The Restoration of the Gospel in the latter-days.

While the book will be found useful to all individuals who wish to familiarize their minds with the scriptural evidences which sustain some of the prominent doctrines believed in and practised by the Latter-day Saints, it is specially designed for use in theological classes whose object is to prepare young men for the ministry abroad. The author explains a method of organizing and conducting classes of this nature, having himself proved the practicability and utility of the system, which, while it puts the student in possession of the necessary scriptural evidences, makes him familiar with the general views of sectarian religionists on the several subjects, and gives him practice, in a class capacity, in preaching. Some useful hints are given upon the subject of preaching, showing some of the causes of failure, which can fraquently be avoided. All the principal Scripture passages sustaining plural marriage are also given in full, not with a view to the student preaching that doctrine abroad, should he be called to the missionary field, but that he may be in a position to defend it from a Bible standpoint, if occasion should require.

The price of the book is, in stiff paper covers, 25 cents; cloth, 30 cents. It can be had from the author, at the News Office; from the Deseret News Office, and the several booksellers of the city. Mailed post free, on receipt of price, in cash, to any address.
