

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Salt Lake City.—At their home on Thursday evening, Prof. and Mrs. Byron Cummings entertained their friends with two large telescopes, through which observations of the eclipses were made. The rough, mottled surface of the moon could be distinctly seen. During the eclipse the planets Saturn and Jupiter were viewed through the telescope, which showed plainly the rings around Saturn, and four of Jupiter's satellites. Before going home the guests were served refreshments in the diningroom. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Bradford, Dr. and Mrs. Orson Howard, Prof. Milton Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McGhie, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Dallis, Supervisor Thomson, Mr. Peterson, Miss Brinton, Miss Youngberg and Miss Birch.

The telescopes were manipulated by Mr. H. C. Williams, who made them himself. He is a resident of this city, and has given much attention to the study of optics and astronomy.

On Wednesday Dr. R. H. Bradford and his classes in metallurgy visited the Germania smelter at Murray to make a study of "roasting furnaces."

Almost every student is wearing a tag upon which is pointed "Ship me to sophomore hall, Museum building, U. of U., Friday, Oct. 24."

At a meeting of the student body on Wednesday an athletic council was appointed. This council is to represent the university in settling all disputes regarding intercollegiate games. The members are J. C. Kiser, president of student body, James Wade, coach Holmes, P. E. Christensen, Prof. Cummings and President Kingsbury. This council was adopted at the suggestion of the board of regents.

At a meeting of the Debaters on Wednesday Oscar W. Carlson was elected president of the club and T. M. Reese was made secretary. The standing committees are Burgess Young, Fred J. Pack, Dan Alexander and Prof. Roylance.

Miss Geneva Coleman was elected class historian for the fourth year normal on Monday.

There are now 180 students registered in chemistry. In order to accommodate this excess of students several new balances have been ordered from Germany and a new complement of apparatus from New York.

Prof. Babcock has organized three basketball teams and daily practices are held.

Prof. G. M. Marshall of the English department has accepted the invitation to deliver a series of lectures before the Utah County Teachers' association. The subjects treated will consist of the fundamentals of literary study and will be illustrated by readings and studies from representative specimens of English literature. The lectures will be delivered at Provo on the fourth Saturday of each month during the school year.

SALT LAKE CITY SCHOOLS.

A meeting of the teachers of the city will be held in the assembly room of the west side high school on Saturday, Oct. 25, at 10 o'clock. Superintendent Christensen will speak on "School organization and discipline."

A visitor who examined the work in the sewing branch of the domestic arts department under the direction of Miss Corbett, at the Bryant high school, was impressed with the capability and enthusiasm of the teacher and the interest and zeal shown by the pupils. Her work is progressing most favorably.

BRANCH NORMAL.

Federal City, Oct. 17.—The registration at the Branch Normal is now 189. Of these not more than 20 are in the preparatory classes. Some classrooms are already taxed, and every day the assembly room is filled during chapel exercises, more students being in attendance now than at any one time before.

Another order for reference books, especially for use in the domestic science and history classes, was sent this week. The librarian will soon need more shelves.

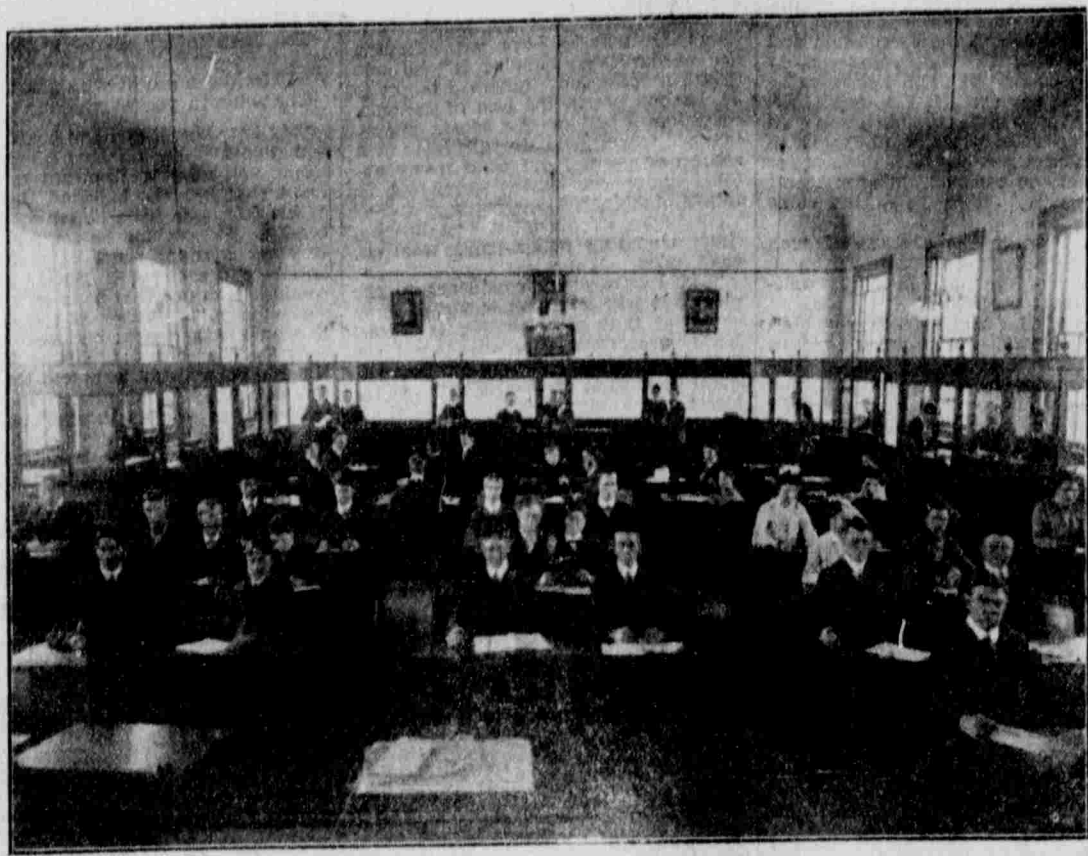

The program at Students' Society last night had for its theme: "Our National Music." Patriotic and other favorable auspices yet in the history of the institution. Great strength has been added to the faculty and the many improvements and enlargements about the buildings and grounds mark an epoch in the college history. The following changes and additions to the faculty average a considerable gain.

A splendid acquisition is that of Prof. A. H. Upham of Eaton, O., who comes to the institution fresh from the graduating class of Harvard. Before entering Harvard, however, the professor did under-graduate work at Miami, Oxford, Ohio, where, for three years, he also taught Latin and Greek. The professor takes the chair of English left vacant by the resignation of Prof. E. J. McEwan.

Another splendid acquisition to the faculty is that of Prof. William N. Hutt, who has recently assumed the duties of horticulturist, to succeed Prof. Wright, who resigned in June. Prof. Hutt comes from Ontario, Canada, heartily supported and recommended.

Prof. D. Earle Burchell of New York has assumed the duties of director of the school of commerce, to succeed Prof. Harris, who resigned to accept the principalship of the academy at Pocat-

BANKING DEPARTMENT OF LATTER-DAY SAINTS' BUSINESS COLLEGE.

The modern revolution in educational methods consists mainly of learning to do by doing; and the rapid progress in all lines of business education is especially gratifying when it is seen that our Church schools are keeping up with the times. The Latter-day Saints' Business college of this city reflects the practical and business-like spirit of modern commercial centers.

The accompanying cut shows the counting-house room of this branch of the Latter-day Saints' University. It has just been fully equipped for banking and business practice work. This is believed to be one of the best furnished and equipped departments of its kind in the United States. It is a room of accounting and of the work of the bookkeeper. He first acquires a thorough understanding of the principles of accounting and the uses of commercial papers. Then he enters this room and receives practical experience in the latest and shortest methods of bookkeeping as applied in special lines of business. The student is then to go through the various offices employed in large manufacturing concerns, is fully covered. These are represented in the picture behind the oak banking counter, with plate glass and bronze fittings. In the rear, such improved labor-saving devices as the Macey Cabinet or Card Ledger System, the impression copying book, and books with special ruling, such as the 19-column journal, are used by the student as he successively takes up the various lines of business.

The principal departments are: Commercial and savings banking, wholesaling, jobbing, commission, real estate, insurance, railroading, and recording. Some students specialize and take advanced courses in one or more of these lines.

The motto of the school, "Think and Work," is in harmony with the requirements of the course, in which the greatest possible care must be exercised by the student. Each one conducts a separate business, must work intelligently and carefully, and must practice accuracy, neatness, and perfect order. The student is thus trained for actual work, and business men look to these institutions as the source from which to secure qualified help in their affairs. Young men and women competent to fill positions of trust and responsibility, are a regular product of this skillfully devised machinery for the training of practical accountants and bookkeepers.

desirability and necessity of giving to music its legitimate function in the daily curriculum, and making an earnest plea for active, energetic work to the end that high achievements may be the result.

Visitors at the Union during the week were Messdames E. S. Wright, B. A. Beattie, A. L. Levy, Groesbeck, Williams and Hyde. Teachers from the Lincoln school were Mrs. Whitaker and Miss Arnold.

Teachers and pupils of the Lowell are well pleased with the manner in which Miss Corbett conducts her classes and are looking forward to excellent results. She is especially adapted to her work and is very much in demand.

The Literary society of the Wasatch eighth grade, Friday afternoon, rendered the following program:

WEST SIDE HIGH SCHOOL.

Among the visitors of the past week were the members of State Supt. Nelson, who was shown through the various departments by Principal Eaton.

In the senior meeting on Monday afternoon Fairchild Sherman resigned as president of the class. The vacancy has not yet been filled.

A most profitable talk was given the boys of the school on Thursday afternoon by Principal Eaton. The speaker admonished the boys along ethical lines, and expressed the desire to have the school continue on a strictly high moral basis.

In a match between boys and girls of Mr. Bancroft's geometry class on Wednesday, the girls came off victors.

Miss Orlow's classes are now wrestling with the subjunctive mood.

Miss E. M. Dukes visited the English classes in the Bryant high school on Monday.

Nearly 50 pupils are taking advantage of the course offered in painting and modeling.

The drawing by Miss Brooks, the young lady who successfully competed for first prize at the recent state fair, have been placed at the front.

Miss Bond's present address is 958 east First South street.

The class in physics is discussing Newton's laws of motion.

Mr. Travis is continuing his lectures on British government. His United States history class is discussing the colonial period.

The members of the elvies class are taking work in reading Brow's American commonwealth, with reference to elections and appointments.

The Utah artist, Mr. Hafen, has kindly placed three of his fine productions in the corridors where they are attracting the attention of lovers of art.

BRYANT HIGH SCHOOL.

For the purpose of facilitating a uniform movement of classes, electric bells have been placed in the disposal of teachers. A telephone has been placed in the principal's office, which will be a great convenience.

Assistant Principal Gillman of the west side High school was a visitor on Thursday.

songs were sung, various national airs rendered by the brass band, and on the piano, and sketches giving the history of the development of music in America were given, making altogether a very pleasant and instructive time.

The athletes—all the boys, in fact—are to be seen on the campus every evening. Various games have been arranged for and different sports are carried on. Erastus Milne is directing the work.

The annual "handshake," or teachers' reception to the students, is to be given tonight. A lively program has been planned, in which every teacher is to take a part. Refreshments in the way of "Dixie" grapes, apples and almonds, together with punch, are to be served.

L. D. S. UNIVERSITY.

Nearly 900 students is the enrollment to date.

A night class for German students who desire to learn English more perfectly, will begin next Monday night in the business college building.

A fine tellurion globe and map were presented to the school this week by Mr. G. W. Willis of this city. He has the thanks of the institution. The gift is a useful acquisition.

At the students' meeting on Wednesday, President Horace Clark presided. Miss Elizabeth Cannon was elected temporary vice president and Mervin Benfion secretary. The election for permanent officers will be held on the 25th.

Prof. John T. Miller's donation this week of his library of physical, mental, and moral hygiene, amounted to 89 choice volumes and he expects to add to the collection from time to time. A case containing this library is to be placed in Barratt Hall.

A large number of beginning students have completed the first budget and are now transferred to the department of higher accounting. Both departments present a very animated appearance.

Theology seems to be a popular study with the students of the business department this year. All are enrolled excepting three. The Life of Christ is the subject, and the New Testament is the text book.

All the offices in the office and banking departments are now occupied by students at work. There has not been, in the past, a sufficient number of advanced students to commence this work until Christmas time. Practical bookkeepers are invited to visit this department.

A new class in business arithmetic has been organized to accommodate a large number of new students who could not be provided for in the sections already organized. There are now three sections in the business college work in commercial calculations.

Some of the students of the shorthand class who started the first of the term are almost ready for dictation. One hundred and nineteen students are enrolled in this department, exclusive of the students attending night school.

Wednesday morning the regular theology meeting was conducted in the Barratt Hall. Miss Judith Anderson favored the school with three beautiful solos. The by-laws and constitutions of the following societies were read by the secretary of each: The Students' society, the Columbian society, and the Rho Beta Pi.

The Athletic association was organized with the following officers: John E. Hicks, president; Louis J. Bayle, vice president; Roy Mulliner, secretary; J. E. Openshaw, treasurer. The board of directors is: John U. Hicks, Roy Mulliner, Clarence Openshaw, Wm. Murdoch and Horace Clark.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Logan, Oct. 18.—The Agricultural college opened this year under the most tello. The college was fortunate in procuring the labors of Prof. Burchell. He has had training in the Spencerian Business college, Oswego Normal school and Columbia university, and added to his splendid preparation has had experience as a professor in a business college three years, as public accountant in New York and Philadelphia three years, and as professor and vice principal in the Oswego State normal for seven years.

The professor on animal biology has been selected to succeed Prof. Gowans, who resigned in June to practice medicine in the southern part of the state. The name of the new professor is withheld for final acceptance, but he is a man of unquestioned ability and experience for so important a department in this institution.

Mr. George P. Campbell, a graduate of Harvard, and a brother of the captain of the Harvard team of last year. He has accepted the position of physical director and teacher of physical hygiene. He is an able instructor and an enthusiastic director in athletics, inspiring his men with the right spirit for success.

Prof. L. A. Osteln, who has this year been added to the mathematical staff, is a fine scholar and a teacher of wide experience.

Mr. Edwin A. Williams has been secured as foreman in forging in the mechanic arts work. Mr. Williams has spent several years as foreman of the Boston and Maine railroad shops and has had apprentice work for the government in ship building. Prof. Jensen, in charge of the department, is very much pleased with Mr. Williams' work and feels assured that the forging will be a strong feature of the course.

Mr. Henry L. Sturtevant has taken the place of Miss Louise Richards as instructor in drawing. Miss Richards is spending the year in Paris for advanced study. Mr. Sturtevant is a Salt Lake City man, but has spent the last three years in New York doing extensive study in fine art.

Mr. Robert Stewart, a recent graduate of the college, has taken the position as station assistant in chemistry. Mr. Stewart is an earnest worker and most efficient co-operator in station work.

Marie S. Morrell has been added to the faculty as assistant in household science.

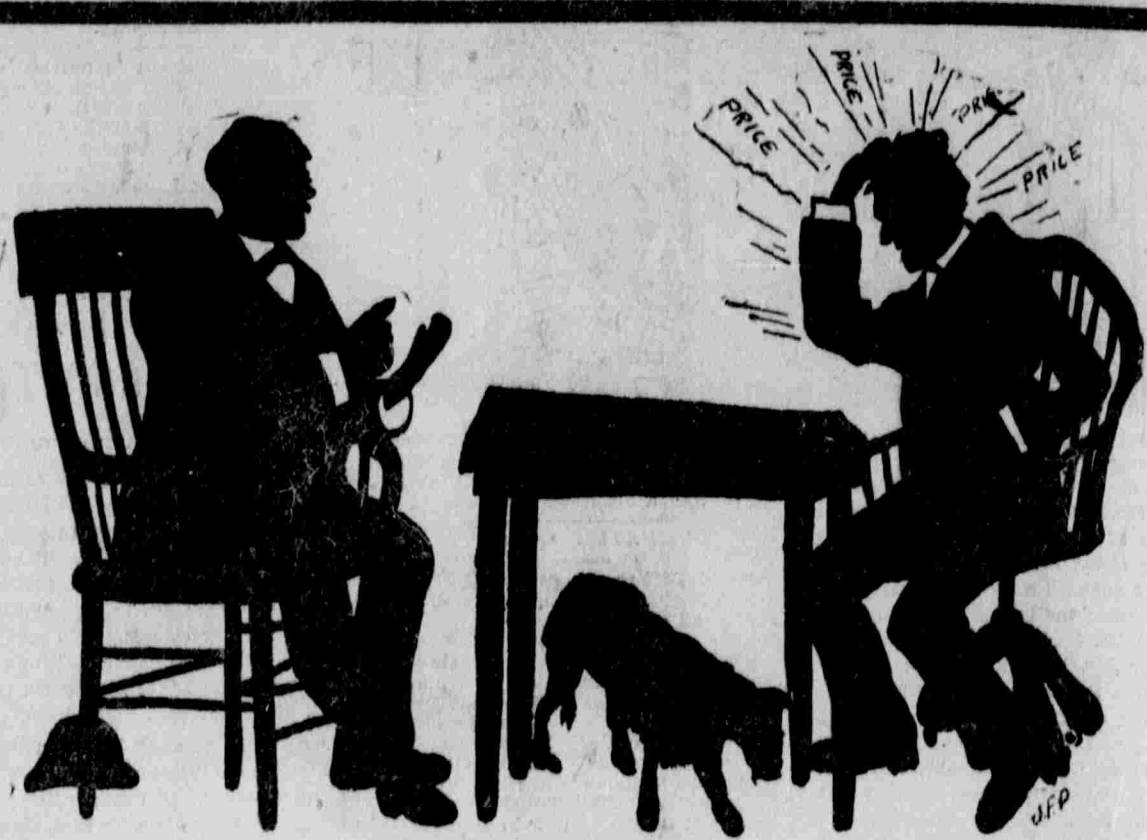

Mr. David Stevens, a graduate from the commercial department last year, occupies the position as private secretary to President Kerr, succeeding Mr. Norton. Mr. Stevens also assists in the commercial department as teacher of stenography.

Mr. W. A. Jensen of this city has taken charge of the courses in stenography. Mr. Jensen comes back to the college with additional experience of a summer in law and real estate offices in Butte, Mont.

Mr. John H. Bankhead, a graduate of the college, and who has spent two years in the missionary field, and in the last two years has been employed in the First National bank, is another valuable addition to the commercial department. He teaches commercial calculations and assists in the regular work of the department.

Miss Ella Maughan, formerly assistant secretary in the office, has left this year for teaching in the typewriting department, and her place in the secretary's office is being filled by Miss Carrie McAllister, daughter of J. A. McAllister of this city.

The faculty of the Agricultural college have been reorganized for the year, with the following officers: Mrs. W. J. Kerr, president; Mrs. A. M. Fleming, vice president; Mrs. J. F. Engle, secretary; Mrs. G. L. Swenson, treasurer.

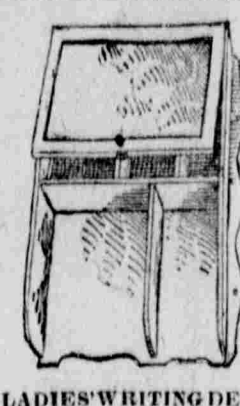

Does the Price Worry You?

If it does, it's a sure indication that you haven't been to FREED'S. We have the largest and most complete line of Furniture and House Furnishings to be found in the west, and at prices that won't worry you in the least. Our terms, too, are liberal, and if you wish, you can arrange to furnish a room or a home completely by paying a little down and the rest to suit your convenience.
