FRAGMENTS.

"THE RAJAH" at the Opera House to-night.

Hay-mowing is going on in Davis County.

Fireman's picnic at Fuller's on Thursday.

Marion Critchlow is alive but still unconscious.

"DEVIL'S AUCTION" at the Theatre to-morrow night.

The Madison Square dramatic company arrived to-day.

The Supreme Court will announce several decisions to-morrow.

Jacob Moritz is marshal of the day for the coming celebration of July 4th.

Provo river has cut into its west bank largely and overturned the farm lands near the city.

The case of Provo City against Shurtliff is going on in the Supreme Court this afternoon.

Home Missionary meeting in the Social Hall, to-morrow (Wednesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The leg of N. McCarthy, of Ogden, who was run over, was yesterday amputated by Dr. Benedict.

The account of U. S. Commissioner Johnson, $22.94, was to-day approved by the Supreme Court.

The extension of the San Pete Valley Railroad is talked of, as far as Marysville, Platte County.

The 4th of July committee will meet to-morrow evening to consider further the subject of the coming celebration.

Cole's Circus is having trouble in Montana. The people up there are not trained to stand as much as those in Utah.

Bainard and Sons, music publishers, are already out with "Hillman's Grand March." But where's the "Logan Polka?"

The dairy farming camps on the Sand Ridge and the uplands of Davis County, were never more promising than this season.

The case of the D. & R. G. W. Railway Co., et al., vs. the D. & R. G. Railway Co., was submitted to-day in the District Court, the arguments having concluded.

A power of attorney document lost by A. B. Hill of Waller's Cattle Co., in this city, some time last October, can be heard of by the owner at N. P. Gray's Main St., or from Deputy Marshal S. L. Sprague.

Dan Smith was fined $50 and costs yesterday for drawing a deadly weapon, etc. He appeared to the District Court. The other matter of turning his horses into Heath's hay-field is yet to be heard. Mr. S. A. Kenner is prosecuting for Mr. Heath, Judge Boren represents the defendant.

LOCAL NEWS.

Ladies' Conference.—Owing to the fourteenth Ward Assembly Rooms undergoing repairs the Ladies' Conference on Friday and Saturday will be held in the Social Hall instead.

The Jordan.—Last evening the News stated that the Jordan levee had broken in two places, letting the water flood the farm of Hon. George Q. Cannon. We are pleased to learn that the breaks have since been repaired. The water is slightly higher than yesterday.

Immigrants.—By telegram from Hon. James H. Hays, at New York, to President John Taylor, we learn that the Company of Saints per S. S. Arizona, in charge of Elder E. H. Nye, arrived at New York, yesterday, and left again last night for the West. All well.

"Devil's Auction."—This magnificent spectacular burlesque will be presented for the first time in this city at the Theatre on Wednesday evening. It is said to eclipse even "Excelsior," but if it even equals it, the public will be perfectly satisfied. The whole stage will be cleared to make room for the splendid scenery they bring, and it is now too ample for the numerous corps de ballet which accompanies and forms a part of the magnificent exhibition. The "Devil's Auction" will no doubt draw well.

The Jordan Dam.—The present high water is bringing to the front the old question of damage to property owners on Utah Lake, by the dam near the head of the Jordan, by means of which water is furnished to the Salt Lake County canals. The Utah county people want some of the boards taken out of the dam, they claiming that some one has put in extra ones, so the high water began, while the Salt Lake county property owners in that locality are afraid to remove the boards, as they have about all the water, if not a little more than they can manage, already.

A law suit is talked of in Utah County, but we trust not serious, as it is much wiser and better to settle the matter by arbitration. Bishop Rawlins and Counselor Wheeler, of South Cottonwood; Bishop Gardner, of West Jordan, and Bishop Benning, of North Jordan, are in the city, and a meeting is being held this afternoon to consider the best way of settling the difficulty without taking it into the courts.

Cole, the Circus Man, in Trouble.—Owing to the late visit of Cole's Circus to this city, the following from the Miner of Butte, Montana, has some local interest attached to it:

"Mr. W. W. Cole, owner and manager of Cole's Circus, and four or five others connected with it, were brought to the city yesterday morning from Helena by a lady sheriff."

These gentlemen were arrested upon warrants charging them with swindling certain persons at the city of Helena on the afternoon of the 17th inst. The readers of the Miner are informed as to the nature and character of the swindles, therefore it is not necessary to recount them. The whole matter is now in the courts and the public should be said through the public press to prejudice the cases. This much, however, may be stated: Mr. Cole has voluntarily paid over $200 to parties who lost money through the swindling operations of those connected with the sale of the tickets. In doing this the gentleman has evidenced a disposition to repair wrongs committed by him, which is highly commendable. No evidence has been produced to show that Mr. Cole himself is in any way connected with the swindle. Indeed, we are both to believe that a gentleman who is assessed for $2,000,000 and who has heretofore borne a name above reproach, should stoop to petty little swindling operations that would not in a week cover a day's interest for the money he has lavished in the circus."

Prof. K. G. Maeder is in the city. He will leave shortly for San Francisco in company with C. H. Savage, Esq.

THE FOURTH.

PREPARATIONS IN PROGRESS.

The various committees of citizens selected to arrange for the celebration of the anniversary of the Nation's independence are diligently at work, and have sufficiently progressed to ensure success.

We understand that Hon. A. B. Carrington and Judge C. W. Bennett have consented to favor the citizens on that occasion, with their assistance with the Declaration of Independence and oration. Other gentlemen are also expected to be present and deliver addresses.

The committee have determined upon having a pyrotechnic display, having made their order by telegraph, shipment to be by express.

It has not yet been determined at what place the exercises will be held. Liberty Park seems the most probable place, permission to use that resort having been requested of the Mayor and City Council, and also to have the display of fireworks within the city limits.

Arrangements are being made for a pageant of vehicles, and a representation of trade and business of the city and Territory, which it is expected will be a prominent feature of the occasion, as will also the young girls representing the institutions of Freedom.

The services of the fine military band from Fort Douglas have been secured, together with the Opera House band.

An adjourned meeting of the citizens will be held at the District Court room at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening.—[Cont.]

STOCK RAISING.

A TALK WITH HON. WILLIAM JENNINGS.

The subject of stock raising being one of interest to all community, where numbers of prominent men are engaged in the enterprise, it might not be amiss to give a few facts in reference to the subject, as gleaned from a conversation by a News reporter with Hon. William Jennings.

This gentleman, who has always been in the foremost rank of Utah stock breeders, and has the reputation of owning more fine stock than any one west of Chicago, has at his farm in Davis County, a county now taking the lead in stock-raising—about eighty head of thoroughbred Short Horn and Hereford—about thirty head of beefers, with twenty half-blood heifers of the two stocks, and ten bulls.

He commenced breeding the Short Horns in 1870, and bred up most of his Salina herd, which is now about 2,000 strong. Finding the Hereford a harder breed of cattle than the others, two years ago he turned his attention to that stock, and has proven, as he expected to do, that they make a better cross with Short Horn thoroughbreds. The Herefords sent to the herd a year ago last spring, came out better a year later on the same range than the Short Horns, the former being a more lively and prolific beast than the latter.

It is Mr. Jennings' intention to turn his entire stock of Herefords to the herd, as they are better beef cattle than the others, but the Short Horns will be reserved for milking and butter purposes. He has several cows at his farm now, each of them giving 25 quarts of milk per day. A half-blood calf, of the two breeds mentioned, when killed last Christmas at two months old, weighed 192 pounds. The yearling half-blood heifers, now on the Davis County farm, look very fine indeed.

He has two Hereford bull calves there, one 14 months old and one two months, both from thoroughbred imported stock. He has just disposed of his five-year-old Hereford bull, "Crystal," to Mr. F. Meyers, for $250, and says the animal is worth $1,000 of any man's money. This the best was bred in Shropshire, England, and imported by Mr. Miller, of Beecher, Ill., from whom Mr. Jennings purchased him some two years ago.

Welcome Home.—We had the pleasure this morning of grasping the hand of our friend, brother and sometime co-laborer, Elder John Q. Cannon, who with his wife arrived home from Europe by the 12:30 train via the Utah Central. A party of relatives and friends met them in Ogden and accompanied them to this city.

Elder Cannon has been absent on his mission for over two years and ten months. Leaving here on August 9, 1881, he proceeded to Liverpool, where he was assigned to the London Conference, and after laboring there a little over six months, was transferred to the Swiss and German Mission; being first a traveling Elder in and afterwards President of the North German Conference.

April 1, 1883, he was called to Bern to act as Secretary of the Mission, and on the departure of President Goss, August 17, 1883, succeeded him in its presidency. He was released and with his wife left Bern for home on the 10th of last May.

After visiting Paris and London, they sailed from Liverpool on the 7th inst., per S. S. Wyoming the same vessel on which he crossed the Atlantic in 1881. Landing on the 17th inst. at New York, they left for the West two days later and reached Ogden at 10:40 a. m. to-day.

Their voyage was exceedingly pleasant, nothing occurring by sea or land to mar it in any way. Mr. Cannon has been absent from home since October 1881, having gone directly to join his wife. Both parties are in excellent health. Brother J. Q. Cannon has been referred to at different times in our columns. He was an active and successful missionary, and by pen and tongue labored faithfully and energetically for the spread of the truth. He has performed a good work and fulfilled an honorable mission, and we heartily bid him and Sister Cannon welcome home.

Zion's B. B. Society.—It will be observed by an advertisement in another column, that a meeting of the members (stockholders) of Zion's Benefit Building Society will be held on Friday evening next at 8 o'clock, at Z. C. M. L. Store, 2nd St. The object is to take some necessary steps preliminary to the regular annual meeting to be held on the 30th. Among the matters of business to be attended to is the consideration of the advisability of reorganization of the society, approaching election of officers and directors for the ensuing year. All the members are expected to be present to participate in the proceedings. It is probable that the statement of the first year's business will be held before the meeting.

Death of a Hawaiian.—Kahana-manu, one of the Hawaiian colony of this city, a girl about 14 years of age, died this morning at the Desert Hospital. We are requested to announce that the funeral will be held at the Hospital to-morrow morning, at 9 o'clock sharp. Burial will be in the Hawaiian cemetery, and other sympathizing friends are respectfully invited to attend.

PLOT OF THE PIECE.

"THE RAJAH" AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

The Madison Square Company will present "The Rajah" this evening at the Walker Opera House, and for three nights following. The story of the play, which is one of the most successful comedies of its class, runs as follows:

An English country gentleman dies, leaving by will an estate to his nephew, Harold Wyncott, and making him guardian of Gladys Wyncott, his cousin, whom he has never seen. Harold, by reason of his indolent luxurious life in India, has raised among his brother officers the sobriquet of "The Rajah." On his arrival in England he meets with a frigid reception from Gladys, who has formed an antipathy to him because of a letter describing his indolent life.

Presently a number of coal-miners employed on the estate, being on the point of a strike, come to make demands. Cragin, their leader, refuses to remove his hat when requested to do so by Harold, and he snatches it from his head, dashes it to the ground, and quietly walks away, leaving them stricken with amazement. In the next act we find that Harold raises the wages of the strikers, but insists that Cragin shall be immediately discharged instead of being made overseer as demanded.

In the third act a gang of rioters, led by Cragin, are approaching to wreak vengeance on Harold, when he confronts them alone, and, being assured by them that they want Cragin for an overseer, he produces a handbill, and reads a description of an escaped convict which tallies with that of Cragin, who rushes upon Harold, but the latter hurries him to the ground, and, tearing aside his shirt, exposes the convict-brand upon his shoulder.

In the last act another will is discovered, which gives the property to Gladys, and Harold turns over the property and announces his intention to return to India. Gladys, left alone, is confronted by Cragin, who, pistol in hand, has come to wreak vengeance on Harold. She offers him money and jewels to desert, but he remains obstinate. Finally she promises him a letter, signed by Harold, giving him free passage on an outgoing coal ship, which will enable him to evade the law. This prevails, and Cragin conceals himself. Gladys calls Harold, and he writes the letter in a state of unbelief; but, before she can hand it to Cragin, he springs towards the hiding place.

Cragin comes forward, saying, "There is one here braver and stronger than you, and she says let the convict go." Harold hands over the letter. The convict becomes pathetic, tells the story of his life, and winds up with, "You draw your own moral." Harold ejaculates, "And what moral, Gladys, shall we draw?" She throws the new will into the grate, rushes to his arms, and Harold announces to the others as they enter that he has received a new appointment,—that of "guardian for life."
