affairs of the United States, socially the numerous dangers which surand politically. It depends upon the spirit, aims and methods of these unions whether they will bring about reforms, more freedom. greater elevation and intelligent progress for the working classes, or rush society into comparative chaos, and establish a greater despotism than any that wealth has formed or for which it is supposed to be responsible.

Let the laboring people celebrate. Let them unite for mutual benefit and progress. But let them keep in mind the truths that individual liberty must not be infringed, that compulsion is contrary to the eterual principles of right, that all true union is voluntary, and that combiuations formed or kept up by any species of coercion are sure, sooner or later, to be dissolved and swept from the face of the earth. We wish success to the working people on Labor Day in 1890.

ANOTHER ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

A FEW days ago we meutioned that Dr. Nansen had been provided by the Norwegian parliament with means to enable him to explore the arctic regions and to attempt to reach the north pole. Dr. Nansen is to leave Norway next spring, as soon as the ice breaks up and there is enough open water in which to navigate.

In additiou to this, we now learn that the Danish Government is also appropriating means for an arctic expedition. Lieutenant Ryder, of the Danish navy, will leave next spring for Greenland, in company with two naval officers and several scientists. They will carry with them provisions for two years and materials for a house and observatory.

It is needless to say that the travels of the two explorers will be watched with great interest, and it is only to be hoped that their efforts will be crowued with more success than those of some of their impless predecessors.

Our knowledge of the Arctic regions, the climatic conditions, the prevalent currents, -etc., has been very much increased through the observatious of the yearly occuring sealing and whallog expeditious after the requisite number of reto Spitsbergen, and still more quests to fill the building are in. through the successful explor- The books used will be the same as ations of Professor Nordenskjold. those in the district schools, with Future explorers in those regions such additions as may be deemed will, therefore, be much better able necessary, and theological teaching to equip themselves so as to avert in accord with the doctrines of the Professor Nordenskjold is reported to have said that, in his opinion, the reaching of the north pole is now no absolute impossibility. Fate has hitherto been against all who have altempted to reach that terra incognita, but perhaps the honor is reserved for one of these two Scandinavian explorers.

OTHER CHURCH SCHOOLS.

ON Monday, September 1, the Latter-day Saints' Seminary of the Eighteeuth Ward will begin its second academic year. Its first was prosperous and satisfactory, and the ensuing one will commence with still brighter prospects. The commodious building has been renovated and put into most desirable shape, and additioual apparatus procured.

Church of Jesus Christ of Latterday Saints will continue to be special feature of the curriculum, which is as complete as could be dcsired.

The faculty for the approaching school year will be Ekler G. M. Mumford as Principal and Sisters Emma J. Finch and Annie K. Hardy, as assistants, all of whom are efficient in the departments to which they are assigned.

Any desired information in relation to the school can be obtained by addressing the Principal, or Robert Patrick, chairman of the board, 162 B Street.

Our readers are already familiar with the fact that arrangements have been made to open a Church school in a new two-story building, owned by Bishop D. B. Brinton, in Big Cottonwood. The title given it is Cottonwood Academy. It is intended to be the initial institution of its class in the southeasteru portion of the Balt Lake Stake of Zion. and will be succeeded by others in that section.

The movoment to establish Church schools in that locality was begun by Dr. Maeser a few weeks ago. The initiatory steps taken by him were followed by corresponding action on the part of the Bishops and people of six coutiguous wards-South Cotto:.wood, Mill Creek, East Mill Creek, Big Cottonwood, Union and Grauite. The Stake Board of Education took part in furthering the interests of the enterprise, and, as heretofore stated, a local board was organized and is now operating actively.

Following is the calendar:

"The year will be divided into four terms of ten weeks each as follows:

First term will begin September 1 and end November 7 Second term will begin November 10 and end January 23. Third term will begin Januars 26 and end April 3. Fourth term will begin April-6 and end June 12. There will be a vacation from De-cember 20 to January 4. School will close on legal holidays and for General and Stake Conferences,

There will be two departments, the first entitled preparatory, and the second, for convenience, the intermediate. The curriculum for each is all that could be desired including, besides the usual scho! astic routine, the study of theol ogy.

The prices of tuition are, prepara tory, $3; intermediate $4. The effi cient services of Horace Cummings whose address is East Mill Creek North P. O., Salt Lake County, have been secured as principal
