XLVIII CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 17.—The Chair laid before the Senate a memorial from Wm. Pitt Kellogg, denying all imputations against him contained in a recent document transmitted to the Senate by the Secretary of the Interior, relating to the transfer of the grant of the Texas Pacific to the Southern Pacific, and asking an investigation.

Petitions presented; Van Wyck, to secure reasonable rates of transportation for the people over the railroads aided by the Government. Van Wyck said he had decided to introduce the bill as a substitute for one of a similar character introduced a few days ago. The first bill was limited in scope to the Union and Central Pacific; the present extends its regulating provisions to all railroads in the United States which received government lands When the people gave enormous grants for building their railroad lines to the Pacific, it was on the supposition that there would be natural competition between these lines, but the wise purposes of the people and of Congress were defeated by the corporations, which are "partitioning," as they call it, or dividing up between them the great empire stretching across the continent, as effectually as the partition of Poland was effected.

McPerson, for the issue of circulating notes by National banking associations.

At the conclusion of the morning business, Garland called up the bill making an appropriation of $65,000 as compensation for the seizure by the United States Government in 1861 of the Spanish ferryboat "Nuest Sonora de Regla." Passed.

Executive session on the Mexican treaty; doors opened; adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 17.—The Senate bill appropriating a million dollars for the Mississippi River was put on its passage. The yeas and nays were called, and the bill passed, yeas 216 nays 64. A House bill of similar title and import was laid on the table.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the calendar. The first bill was amending section 4887 of the revised statutes, so as to provide when an article had been patented in a foreign country previously to obtaining a patent in the United States, the patent granted in this country shall not expire until 17 years after the day of issue of the foreign patent. In speaking on the bill, Anderson said probably three-fourths of the monopolies of the country are fortified behind the patent system of the United States, and he wished to have it understood that he is heartily in favor of giving an American inventor such a period of time as will give him a full, generous reward for his labor and genius; but on the other hand, he is in favor of drawing the line between that and the ability given to crystallize monopolies. It was a question whether the patent system should not be looked after as well as the antiquated tariff system. Some years ago patents were taken out on an instrument transmitting telegraph messages by the Morse system. His impression was an investigation would show that the ability of the Western Union Telegraph Company to wear out its opponents had rested on the question of patents on the Morse instrument.

Rice thought Anderson's speech a big explosion, little powder.

Cox of New York offered an amendment providing that the act shall not apply to any patent now in existence, or application now pending, or have the effect of extending the time of duration of patents under existing laws. Adopted.

Holman, Moved to recommit the bill, with instructions to report it back with a provision that in any action against an innocent purchaser of an article manufactured in violation of the right of the patentee, the measure of damage shall not exceed the cost in open market of the article so manufactured. Agreed to.

The next bill on the calendar was one to enable United States courts, in case of improper grant of letters patent by reason of fraud, or misrepresentations, to declare the patent void, on application of the Attorney General. Passed.

The bill making all public roads and highways post routes, passed.

Hotel Fire.

Ten Powder Mills Blown to Atoms in Pennsylvania.

A Leadville House Blown Up by Giant Powder.

Heavy Suit Instituted Against the Union Pacific.

A New Commission Proposed for the Regulation of Commerce.

Hotel Fire in Las Vegas.

DENVER, 16.—The Grand Montezuma Hotel, Las Vegas, N. M., burned this afternoon. The fire originated in the basement, it is supposed from gasoline machines. In thirty minutes it was in ruins. The guests, numbering 100, lost everything, barely escaping with their lives. Frozen fire plugs rendered the fire department powerless. The hotel was owned by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company, and was one of the finest structures in the west. Loss $300,000; insurance less than $100,000, distributed among a large number of companies.

Powder Mill Explosion.

SCRANTON, Pa., 17.—The Consumers Powder Co., nine miles from Scranton, blew up one mill late to-night and destroyed ten mills. It is certain one man, L. H. Emery, and probably many more were killed. The company was organized in 1870; loss serious.

Murder of Mary Matthews.

DENVER, 17.—Ouray is greatly excited over the brutal murder of little Mary Matthews by her foster parents, Mike Cudihee and wife, and wife's brother, John Carroll; living ten miles from Ouray. Little Mary, recently adopted from the Denver Catholic Orphan's Home, died suddenly on Sunday morning, and was almost immediately buried by the Cudihees. This fact, together with the knowledge that the girl was the victim of the most cruel treatment, aroused the suspicions of the neighbors, who notified the coroner, who exhumed the body, when the evidences of her horrible fate were revealed. Her skull was fractured, limbs cut in several places, one leg broken, feet and hand frozen solid. The Cudihees, while preparing to leave the country, were arrested and jailed. Talk of lynching is freely indulged in.

Blown Up by Giant Powder.

Last night the residence of John McGurk, a miner, at Leadville, was blown up by giant powder. A lighted candle placed in the window, set fire to the curtains, and soon communicated to the woodshed, where the powder was stored. As soon as Mrs. McGurk discovered the fire she realized the imminent danger, caught up three little children and ran into the street. She had barely reached a place of safety when the explosion occurred, literally blowing the house to atoms.

Death from Abortion.

LANCASTER, Pa., 17.—Hallie Schoh, daughter of a prominent citizen of Lancaster, died this morning from abortion, alleged to have been committed by Dr. Rice of Philadelphia. Jas. Striker, the alledged betrayer, is under arrest. The girl in her dying statement, said four other other girls were under treatment at the house in Philadelphia where she was operated on.

The Railroads.

CHICAGO, 17.—During his recent trip West, Commissioner Daniels drafted an agreement looking to the negotiation of a Utah pool, and to equalize rates between Salt Lake and Missouri River points. The proposition is to embrace the following roads in the proposed pool: Union Pacific, Burlington and Missouri, Denver & Rio Grande and Atchison & Topeka. The terms of agreement are not known, but it is understood the agreement has been submitted to General Manager Clark, of the Union Pacific, and approved by him. It is also understood the officers of the Atchison & Topeka approve the agreement. The document is now being considered by the managers of the other lines. It is stated on good authority that the terms of the proposed passenger pool will not be consummated until the Utah freight pool difficulties with the Union Pacific are adjusted.

Denver, 17.—The Denver & New Orleans Railroad Company entered complaint in the United States Circuit Court to-day against the Union Pacific Railway Company for $1,000,000 damages, claiming that the latter road refuses to exchange passengers and freight, and has entered into a compact with the Denver & Rio Grande road to break it down.

Commercial Commission.

WASHINGTON, 17.—Wilson, of Iowa, introduced in the Senate a bill to establish a board of commissioners appointed by the President, as a Bureau of the Department of the Interior; the commissioners to be five in number, with terms of two, four, six eight and ten years respectively, the successor of each to hold office ten years; one of such commissioners to be experienced in the law, one in civil engineering, one in the management of railroads, one in agricultural industry, one in manufacturing industry; salary of each commissioner, $7,000. The duties of the Board to be the consideration and investigation of all questions relating to commerce between the States, or between the United States and foreign countries, especially in the matter of transportation; as far as necessary to establish a just system for the regulation and government of the same; to make a report to Congress not later than the 1st of December, together with the draft of a bill embodying a just, comprehensive code for the regulation of transportation among the States, which shall embrace provisions for fixing both maximum and minimum rates, and the preservation of free competition within the limits so fixed; for the prohibition of discriminations of every kind whatever, and for applying the same principle of charges to all persons and corporations alike; for the preservation and enforcement of the right of shippers to select the lines and parts of lines over which their shipments shall pass. Whenever, in the judgment of the Board, it shall appear that any transportation company has violated the provisions of law, it shall give such company notice in writing, and if, after notice, the violations continue, it shall forthwith present the facts to the Attorney General, who shall institute proceedings against the offending company, as authorized by law. The bill prohibits discrimination by such companies against shippers; provides a penalty of not less than $1,000 for each offence, to be recovered by acting on information of any party having knowledge of the facts, which action shall be brought in the United States Court of any district in which the company may have an agent or place of business. One half the penalty recovered to go to the party damaged by the alleged violation of law.

Another Victim of Nihilism—Depression among Russian Officials.

Burned in the Mersey.

LIVERPOOL, 17.—The reformatory ship Clarence was burned in the river Mersey; all saved.

American Mediation.

Paris, 17.—It is said the English Charge d'Affaias at Pekin has induced the Chinese cabinet to declare that China will be satisfied if the French abstain from invading Lang, Son and Caobinh. The Chinese forces at Bacninh are ordered to withdraw 25 leagues northward. The mediation of America, after the capture of Bacninh, is considered certain.

Another Ship Railway.

Constantinople, 17.—Delon, an American, has presented to the Porte a scheme for a ship railway connecting the Mediterranean with the Red Sea.

Uniform Hours.

Rome, 17.—A conference is discussing the project of a uniform hour system with a common meridian. A diplomatic conference will shortly assemble in Washington to effect an international agreement on the subject.

The Murder of Sudeikin.

St. Petersburg, 17.—The nephew of Lieut. Col. Sudeikin, wounded by the Nihilists who assassinated his uncle, died to-day, without recovering consciousness.

The murder of Col. Sudeikin has exercised a terribly depressing effect among the higher Russian officials. The Emperor summoned Count Tolstoi, Minister of the Interior, and violently reproached him for lack of energy and incompetency. Tolstoi thereupon resigned.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

CHICAGO, 17.—Times Austin, Texas, special: The Wool Growers' Association of Brown county, sent a memorial to the Legislature stating that sheep raisers have been warned to remove their flocks on pain of death, and that one had had his herd killed by a mob of armed men.

Chicago, 17.—The sale of subscription tickets to "Her Majesty's opera" season closed this afternoon. The two days' sale netted $19,000, the largest sale ever made in Chicago. The managers are now considering the feasibility of taking the entire troupe to the Pacific Coast. This will be settled to-morrow.

San Francisco, 17.—Respecting the alleged purchase of property at Port Oxford, Oregon, by Jay Gould Captain Tichenor, a large property owner in that place, now in this city, told an Associated Press representative to-day that the announcement is premature. Negotiations have been going on with eastern capitalists. Nothing is yet consummated. The intention is to connect Port Oxford, which has an excellent harbor, by rail with the Oregon & California Railroad, a distance of about 100 miles, making it the shipping point for grain, etc., from Southern Oregon and Northern California.

New York, 17.—The Metropolitan Industrial League to-day appointed a committee on national legislation, to meet in Washington on the 23d inst., to wait on the shipping, ways and means and postoffice and post roads committees of the House of Representatives, and finance and commerce committees of the Senate, to oppose all legislation in favor of free ships or free materials for ship building, and advocate only such policy as will revive American shipping in the foreign trade in vessels to be built, owned, manned and officered by American citizens.

At a session of the National Bankrupt Law Convention the special committee appointed to prepare a bill for submission to Congress reported in favor of the bill prepared in 1880 by Judge Lowell, of the U. S. Circuit Court, as the rogues of the Board of Trade of Boston, as revised by the judiciary committee of the Senate of the last Congress. They reported forty amendments, most of them merely verbal changes.

San Francisco, Tuesday: Further the election of Robert Hatris as president of the Northern Pacific is regarded as the recognition of the Villard regime as against the Philadelphia faction.

Secretary Chandler reports to the Senate that there were 47 vessels of the navy rotten or destroyed; of these 29 were built prior to the rebellion, 31 during the war, and 41 since the close of hostilities. Original cost of the 92 vessels, $40,706,092; repairs, $41,200,822; total cost, $81,907,435; the repairs exceeded the original cost by $494,290.

Springfield, Mass., 17.—Francis W. Rockell, Republican, is elected to Congress from the Eighth District to succeed Governor Robinson.

Washington, 17.—Nomination: Richard Lambert, California, U. S. Consul at San Blas, Mexico.

The committee on pensions directed a favorable report to be made on the bill, granting a pension to all survivors of the Mexican war, the war with the Creeks, Seminoles, or the Black Hawk war.

FALSE TO THE TRUST.

DECEPTIONS IN A JEWELRY STORE.

A lady dressed in deep mourning entered a wholesale jewelry store on State street a few days ago. Throwing aside a heavy veil, she showed a face pale and careworn. A clerk hastened to wait upon her.

"Do you make hair chains here?"

"Certainly," said the clerk, dropping his voice to a low, sympathetic murmur well calculated to harmonize with the feelings of the customer. "You have the hair with you, of course. Ah yes," he remarked, as the lady placed a long tress of brown hair upon the showcase. "This is of excellent texture."

"It was my daughter's," answered the lady, with a little, half-smothered sigh.

"You wish it very plain, with a single gold band," said the clerk. "It will be ready—let me see—a week from to-day."

At this the lady dropped her veil over her face, and departed. As soon as she was out of sight, the clerk's manner changed. Catching up the long mass of hair he examined it closely. He then pulled out a drawer and tossed a pile of hair chains upon the show-case in front of him. He selected the brown ones and compared them with the hair left by the mourner. Presently he seemed satisfied with a handsome chain, and threw the rest back in the drawer.

"Is that the way you make hair chains?" inquired a Daily News reporter, who had watched the proceeding incidents.

"Why, of course; it's the only way."

"But the lady wanted a chain not so much as she wanted her daughter's hair."

"Oh, you are becoming sentimental," answered the clerk, with a shrug; "there is no sentiment in business. We could never make this hair into a chain. In the first place it is brittle, and if you examined it closely with a glass you would see that it is full of cracks and little blemishes. She hair has been abused—too much cultivation as it were. Now if I had explained the matter to that lady, she would have gone away sick at heart—that's the way you put it, isn't it? Two to one she would have gone to some other jewelry house where they would do as I have done and earn her everlasting gratitude. I told her it would be done in a week to carry out her impression that we were going to weave this lot of tangled hair into a chain. "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," airily concluded the clerk, and he whistled the "Dotlet on the I's" while he packed the new chain into an elegant case and tossed the sacred tresses into a dusty drawer.

"No glaring colors, you see, will do in this case," he continued, exhibiting the lining of the case, which was of pure white satin. "White will remind her of purity and all such things suitable for a mind bereaved. It will also place her in a disposition not to think $20 an exorbitant price: $8 is the retail cost of this hair chain when we don't have to make them."

"Are there no genuine mementoes made?"

"Very seldom. Sometimes we find a shade of hair that cannot be duplicated. A few days ago a gentleman came in with a $20 gold piece which he wanted melted down and made into a ring. Did we do it? We sold him a ring which he now wears, satisfied that it is the remains of his gold piece. He is satisfied; so are we. A gold coin is 22 carats fine; rings are generally marked 18 carats, but are seldom more than 12 carats. You can readily see what the waste would have been. I scooped in the $20, and ordered a heavy gold ring. Still another man brought in an old-fashioned gold watch case. It was beautifully engraved, but that man wanted it melted down into a gold ring. He got his ring, but we have got the watch-case, which is worth ten times its weight in gold. We always satisfy our customers, which is sufficient, but for heaven's sake don't say I told you," and the young mercantile diplomat knocked a rebellious bang into place, and skipped down to head off another clerk who was rushing down an opposite aisle to meet a young lady in a sealskin cloak.—Chicago News.

A BAD BOOK AGENT.

A Philadelphia book agent importuned James Watson, a rich and close New York man living at Elizabeth, until he bought a book—the "Early Christian Martyrs." Mr. Watson didn't want the book, but he bought it to get rid of the agent; then, taking it under his arm, he started for the train which takes him to his New York office.

Mr. Watson hadn't been gone long before Mrs. Watson came home from a neighbor's. The book agent saw her and went and persuaded the wife to buy another copy of the same book. She was ignorant of the fact that her husband had bought the same book in the morning. When Mr. Watson came back from New York Mrs. Watson showed him the book.

"I don't want to see it," said Watson, frowning terribly.

"Why, husband?" asked his wife.

"Because that rascally book agent sold me the same book this morning. Now we have two copies of the same book—two copies of the 'Early Christian Martyrs,' and——"

"But, husband, we can——"

"No, we can't, either," interrupted Mr. Watson. "The train is off on the train before this. Confound it! I could kill the fellow, I——"

"Why, there he goes to the depot, now," said Mrs. Watson, pointing out of the window at the retreating form of the book agent making for the train.

"But it's too late to catch him, and I'm not dressed. I've taken off my boots, and——"

Just then, Mr. Stevens, a near neighbor of Mr. Watson, drove by, when Watson pounded on the window pane in a frantic manner, almost frightening the horse.

"Here, Stevens," he shouted, "you're hitched up; won't you run your horse down to the train and hold that book agent till I come? Run! Catch 'em now!"

All right!" said Mr. Stevens, whipping up his horse and tearing down the road.

Mr. Stevens reached the train just as the conductor shouted "All aboard!"

"Book agent!" he yelled, as the book agent stepped on the train. "Book agent! hold on! Mr. Watson wants to see you."

"Watson! Watson wants to see me?" replied the scantily dressed book agent. "Oh, I know what he wants! he wants to buy one of my books; but I can't miss the train to sell it to him."

"If that is all he wants, I can pay for it and take it back to him. How much is it."

"Two dollars for the Early Christian Martyrs," said the book agent, as he reached for the money and passed the book out through the window.

Just then Mr. Watson arrived, puffing and blowing, in his shirt sleeves. As he saw the train pull out he was too full for utterance.

"Well, I got the book," said Stevens, "just got it, and that's all."

"Got what?" roared Watson.

"Why, I got the book, 'Early Christian Martyrs,' and——"

"By——the——great——guns!" moaned Watson, as he placed his hands to his brow and swooned right in the middle of the street.

The Emperor of Austria is called the finest game shot in Europe, and he finds his own game, refusing to have it driven towards him.

WHY HE WAS HAPPY.—A young man is walking gaily along the Residential street. His demeanor is careless, cheerful, and self-conscious; his eyes sparkle, a smile is on his lips, and his pleasant face is slightly flushed. He is full of self-confidence and satisfaction.

What has happened to him? He has attained a higher position in life? Does a loved one await him? Or is it merely—a good breakfast, a feeling of comfort, the fulness of strength, that thus expands his frame? Or may not even the beautiful eight-rayed cross of King Stanislaus of Poland have been hung around his neck?

No. He has only devised a slander about one of his friends, and he is carefully circulating it abroad. This same slander he heard from the lips of a third one—and believed it himself.

Oh, how content and complacent is this amiable, promising young man!

PERE HYACINTHE'S GESTURING.—But it must be said that Pere Hyacinthe speaks French beautifully. His articulation is precise and careful, and anybody who understands French at all can follow him readily. His oratory is a flood of earnestness enforced by constant gesture. He makes a dozen gestures in a single sentence. I do not know any American orator who indulges in half so much action. He addresses the mind through the eye. Now he stands on tip-toe, apparently trying to draw hieroglyphics on the ceiling with his finger; now he cuts the air horizontally with his hand, as if beheading a foe; now he shakes his open hand menacingly, now holds it out appealingly; now he drums in the palm of his left hand with the finger of his right, argumentatively; now he "saws the air"—but all of his numerous gestures seem graceful. It is astonishing how with such redundancy of action, he never falls into the weak, the trivial or the grotesque.—Crofut's New York Letter.

Dr. Mary Walker astonished a visitor to the Interior Department at Washington the other day, by striking the cigar which he was smoking out of his mouth, and delivering a lecture upon the enormity of the practice of using tobacco. The gentleman assailed, supposing the doctor, from her attire, to be a man, addressed her in very vigorous language.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"78 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

Messrs. J. C. Ayer & Co., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took in all about three dozen bottles a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.
