THIS TIME IT IS IN NEW YORK

This in Held There Instead of In Washington.

New York, April 2.—Investigation of the Panama Canal charges against the New York World, was resumed before a federal grand jury today under the direction of Stuart McNamee, special assistant attorney-general. It was said the purpose of the new inquiry was to obtain indictments in this city against the publishers and possibly one of the editors of the World, who recently were indicted in Washington, in order that their trials might be held in New York instead of Washington.

The witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury today included Tom C. Seitz, business manager of the World; Dumfries Clark, vice president of the Press Publishing Company, which publishes the World; N. G. Thwaites, secretary to Joseph Pulitzer, the publisher; C. M. White, the assistant cashier; Carl Harding and David Foran, a newspaper man, who is ill and in a hospital.

When the jury took up the Panama matter after considering several other cases, George M. Rice in the office of the office of taxes of New York City, was called to testify. He spent but a short time in the grand jury room, and was followed by Vice President Clark of the Press Publishing Company.

Vice President Clark was in the grand jury room for three quarters of an hour. Don C. Seitz, business manager of the World, remained half an hour before the grand jury. The grand jury then adjourned and all the other witnesses in connection with the Panama Canal case were excused until next Thursday.

The Italians dropped their picks and shovels about 2 o'clock and passed about among the Greek and Austrian laborers working on the same job, inciting them also to lay down their tools and quit work. They were successful to a certain degree, and considerable confusion resulted, and a great deal of murmuring and ugly threats were made. No conflict resulted, however, although a force of deputy sheriffs was telephoned for, and a dozen of Sheriff Sharp's men were dispatched to the scene.

L. S. SCHRENTZ CROWDS ARRIVE

Vanguard of Visitors Comes in From Idaho Points on Short Line.

ALL ROADS GETTING BUSY.

Looks as Though There Will Be Thousands in the City by Tomorrow Night.

Conference crowds are coming in. Weather conditions have never been more favorable for the opening of an April conference in many years, and the people of the country are taking advantage of the warm, balmy days to come to Salt Lake for the purpose of attending the conference sessions and incidentally to do their spring shopping, and visit friends.

Train No. 10, arriving on the Oregon Short Line from Idaho points last night, was the first to bring in conference people from the north. It was loaded to the rails. There was plenty of power and equipment ready to handle the crowds, but it happened that it did not leave until the morning, running in from Idaho points, was just as well patronized as many of the later trains are on other occasions, when the weather was not so good. Several hundred people from Cache valley and intermediate points, also brought in a large number of people, and the record will be kept up for three or four days yet.

The Salt Lake tourist and Denver & Rio Grande roads have started to haul in conference visitors from the south, southeast and southwest, and from the present indications, the conference business on these roads will exceed all previous years. Increased numbers are noticeable from the far south, as in Arizona and old Mexico, while Canada, Oregon and Idaho are all well represented in the people coming into the city.

The railroads are prepared to handle the crowds. As the event is of great annual occurrence, the roads know when to begin figuring on ordering and storing equipment and motor power to accommodate the large numbers of people who make the twice-a-year trip to the capital, and the distribution of equipment this spring has been considerable, in excess of the supply for former years.

The first session of conference will be held Sunday morning. The bulk of the crowds will be in the city by that time, and the probabilities are that not only the big tabernacle and Assembly Hall will be crowded to the doors, but that overflow and outdoor meetings will be held on the tabernacle grounds.

WORK STARTS ONCE MORE.

"Americans" and Their Contractors Again Patch Up Differences.

If the city enforces its contract with Shea & Anderson, who are building the conduits across Mill Creek canyon and Parley's Canyon creek on the Salt Lake and Jordan canal, they will begin to forfeit $25 a day beginning today. The contract calls for the completion of the work on or before April 1. It is stated that neither conduct is anywhere near being finished.

Within the last few days extra men have been at work rushing the work through. Unless it is completed by the close of a week or two, the high water of the spring will come and damage the work. Shea & Anderson took the Mill Creek conduit for $7,145.88 and the Parley's canyon conduit for $2,145.88. The contractors were not notified by the city of the forfeiture clause, however, but the forfeiture clause would be enforced.

After practically fasting a month, Dave & Howard, contractors for the North Temple conduit, have set up their differences with the board of public works and the city engineer and have begun to rush the work. Their contract must be finished in June.

The property owners who will be benefited by the improvement, have sent several complaints to the board of public works, who are now considering the matter. It is feared that the aqueduct will not be finished in time to take care of the annual water of the city and that the property along the course of the canal will be flooded and greatly damaged this year. Both these contractors were given under rush orders, but the work on the Parley's conduit is being delayed by squabbles between the "American" administration and the contractors.

EXPRESS OFFICIALS HERE.

Assistant General Superintendent John T. Daniel of the Pacific Express company, and other officials of the Pacific Express company, are in the city, to attend the session of the Interstate Commerce commission in the Interstate Commerce building. Several Wells-Fargo officials, including General Counsel Stockton of New York, and Supt. Mills of Los Angeles, are due here in the morning on a similar errand.

KING EDWARD HAS NOT HAD STROKE OF APOPLEXY

The king went to see an antenatal clinic at the hospital, and was with the king without the king's knowledge.

REPORT OF RUN OVERDRAWN.

(Special to the "News.") Bingham Junction, April 2.—Conditions are reported to be normal this morning by Charles Bloom of the Jordan State bank. It is stated that the bank has been overdrawn. While a number of accounts were withdrawn, it was stated that a great many people were doing business with the bank on account of the
