

SOCIETY

SOCIAL CHAT

The week's event was the assembly on Tuesday night, this being the largest function. Nearly all of the 200 members were present, and the affair was generally considered the most distinct success of the series. Christensen's hall was made attractive with the use of rugs, divans, palms, etc. The reception rooms had tall vases of calla lilies and the Commercial club dining room where supper was served, was also decorated with lilies, and the green that was a part of the color idea. The costumes were among the most brilliant of the season, the music exceptionally fine, and the affair altogether delightful.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cunningham entertained at a dinner preceding the assembly, covers being laid for eight. The table was done in pink, a low bank of roses forming a centerpiece flanked by pink candles and shades.

Another anti-assembly dinner was that given by Mr. and Mrs. H. Babcock, the decorations being in red, with American Beauty roses, red candles and shades making it an effective scheme. Six guests enjoyed the affair.

A charming function of Tuesday was the luncheon given by Mrs. and Miss Sinclair in honor of Miss Laura Bird. The decorations were in red and this color was also carried out in the refreshments which were heart-shaped. Favors of violets were presented each guest. The afternoon was spent in sewing, the combined work of the guests resulting in a handsome comforter which was presented the guest of honor. Among those present were Mrs. F. A. Nims of Muskegon, Mich.; Mrs. Herbert Brown, Mrs. H. S. Stowe, Mrs. A. H. Tarbet, Mrs. A. W. McCune, Jr., Mrs. J. Richards, Mrs. Kaskell, Mrs. Macgregor, Mrs. William M. Gray of St. Anthony, Ida.; Mrs. William H. Bard, Mrs. A. L. Lovey, Mrs. Clarence Sinclair, Mrs. Nelson Kell, Miss Lane, Miss Terrell, Miss Carrie, Miss Laura Bird, Miss Ruth, Miss Odell, Miss Hester Lavelle of Oakland, Cal.

One of the largest home events of the week was the evening function celebrating the birthday anniversary of John Macdonald on Monday. An elaborate dinner was served at which about 60 were present, and afterwards an entertaining program of addresses, recitations and music was rendered. The rooms were beautifully decorated, and members of the First Presidency and other dignitaries of the L. D. S. Church were present.

One of the most elaborate affairs of the season was the reception given on Thursday night by Mr. and Mrs. Perry S. Heath in honor of their guests, Mr. Bacon and Mr. Conway of Louisville. The rooms were beautifully decorated in white and green, roses, carnations and sprays being used with palms, ferns and smilax, while green-shaded lights, and refreshments in the two colors, the mints being in the shape of lilies of the valley and roses, made a most artistic scheme. Music by an orchestra stationed behind a screen of palms was a delightful feature of the event which was enjoyed by about 200 guests.

On Wednesday Mrs. S. D. Sturgis entertained at a delightful luncheon at the post, covers being laid for 10. The colors were yellow and white, and were carried out in daisies on a bank of ferns for a centerpiece, and also in the refreshments. The guests were Mrs. Stephen H. Babcock, Mrs. Benner X. Smith, Mrs. Clifford R. Pearsall, Mrs. John E. Woodward, Mrs. James L. Franken, Mrs. George L. Nye, Mrs. Robert J. Glendinning, Mrs. David S. Murray, Mrs. James K. Masters.

A pretty event of Wednesday was the luncheon given by Mrs. Elmer Jones. The rooms were adorned with eucalyptus branches and huckleberry blossoms, while the three tables at which the guests were seated were adorned respectively with daisies, pink roses and sprays. A literary afternoon followed with readings by Mrs. C. C. Richards from "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn." The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. Alexander C. Ewing, Mrs. T. B. Beatty, Mrs. R. C. Woodruff, Mrs. W. B. Sprague, Mrs. Cleaver, Mrs. W. J. McIntyre, Mrs. Frederick Dorn, Mrs. Joel L. Priest, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Coray, Mrs. C. H. Richards, Mrs. W. P. Adams, Mrs. S. F. Fenton, Mrs. David Hemphill, Mrs. J. E. Grant, Mrs. S. V. Shelp, Mrs. L. C. Miller, Mrs. Fifeild, Mrs. Frank Stephens, Mrs. L. L. Archer, Miss Blanche Kimball.

Yesterday Mrs. Jones entertained at a second delightful function. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Harvey on Thursday night a delightful housewarming was given in honor of Mr. Halm's birthday, the members of the East Side Card club, chiefly, being the guests, who, with outside visitors, numbered about 40. The rooms were beautifully decorated, the parlors in nasturtians and yellow roses, the library and dining room in pink and white carnations, and the hall in American Beauty, white palms, smilax and ferns aided in the pretty effect. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. F. D. Halm and Miss Sampson, and the host was presented with a handsome cane by the guests.

Mrs. P. J. McKenna entertained at a card party on Thursday, in honor of Miss Hester Lavelle. The decorations throughout were in pink and white, and prizes were won by Miss Lavelle, Miss M. E. Callahan and Mrs. Egan. Refreshments were served, and the event was in every way delightful.

Mrs. S. E. Bransford was hostess at a dinner on Thursday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris, covers being laid for six. The table was decorated in white carnations, and the drawing room in American Beauties.

Col. and Mrs. Holmes entertained at a delightful dancing party last night, the new gallery being thrown open for the function, and a large number of guests enjoying the affair. The rooms were decorated in the usual lavish and artistic style, and the affair was in every way enjoyable.

Two pleasant affairs of last night were the dancing party given by a number of the First Unitarian society at Unity hall, and the entertainment given by Rev. IMPORTED GOWN OF CHIFFON TAFFETA.

Quaint and picturesque in the extreme is this lovely gown which came from one of the best known Paris makers. It is made of pale gray chiffon taffeta. The voluminous skirt, full from the top and amplified half way down by a full shirred flounce is one of the striking features. The short bodice, pointed low in the front, the full elbow sleeves, collarless neck and lace revers are all distinctively Parisian touches. A feathery edge of stitched petal like shapes out of the silk trims bodice and sleeves and heads and flounce. The hat, a sumptuous confection, is made of white horse hair braid and trimmed with dainty bunches of flowers in pompadour colorings. The sheer lace veil draping the hat may cover the face or be thrown back as shown.

A program, consisting of songs, recitations, piano selections and speeches was rendered during the part of the evening, after which dancing, social chat, and shaking straws, refreshments made the time pass until the wee small hours.

The Sorosis club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. A. King. Mrs. Speckart gave an interesting paper, subject, "American Composers." Mrs. McClurg's paper, both well written and read, was "Women Musicians." Mrs. Rob Irvine gave a piano selection, and the evening was a most successful one. Sewing parties during the coming week to prepare articles for the fair, which will soon be given for the purpose of raising money to establish a kindergarten scholarship at the Brigham Young university.

A jolly crowd of kindergarten training school girls, chaperoned by Mrs. Ida Smoot Dusenberry and Mrs. Louisa W. Smoot Dusenberry and Mrs. Louisa W. delin's fields. The first object of the excursion was for the purpose of study. But the classifications were few, and the birds received but little attention, as the day was a perfect one and each girl's interest seemed to be in the pleasures of spring time. The afternoon was passed most happily with games, stories and luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart were pleasantly surprised at their home Monday evening. A few of their many friends arranged a most delightful evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. James Clove, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Paul.

FLOWER AND LACE CONFECTION.

A combination of yedda braid and maline composes this smart hat. Garlands of helio shaded roses and delicately tinted foliage trim it in true Louis XV style. A cascade of fine lace falls from the braided brim over the back. From Henri Bendel.

SMART VOILE TOILET.

This gown of dark blue voile has many of the details which mark it as one of the latest Parisian creations. The wide shoulders, loose bolers, and elaborate full skirts are all strikingly characteristic of this season. As in the majority of French gowns this spring the trimming is composed mainly of deft manipulations of the material. In this case bands of shirring are caught in a novel way at the top. The collar is of linen lace as is also the front and bottom finish of the bolers. The vest is of batiste daintily trimmed with lace. The skirt is of medium length and very full.
