so representatives of large mining interests in California, Utah, and Nevada of Barabourg have consented to allow the wife of Edmond About to see him but prohibit others. His case is now be without a rival, so far as their experience goes. Some of them go so far as to say that the Moose mine is unquestionably the richest in the Moose in the world. At present the Moose is paying a bandsome dividend on a basis of $2,000,000. Dr. Cameron and Captain Plummer discovered the Moose. The latter retains an interest in the mine, but the former sold his for an Indian pony, and left the district.

A few days ago he returned to the Moose and on seeing the vast yield, and the inexhaustible wealth yet untouched he turned about to some gentlemen standing near and exclaimed—"By the gods, boys, this is a pretty big country, and this mine is a pretty big mine, but b- my eyes if the country is big enough to hold such a d- big fool as I am." He thereupon remounted his broncho and headed for Arizona direct.

The Mount Lincoln district is said to be exactly similar, in formation and characteristics, to the old and inexhaustible mining regions of Mexico, which, though worked for centuries, yield prolificly yet. The Tribune

The old theory of finding true fissure veins only in granite, would seem to be exploded by the discoveries on "Mt. Lincoln," where limestone is the predominating stone formation. Heretofore Eastern capitalists have been willing to pry extravagant prices for even the most slender veins, if in the granite. while they would not look at far stronger and more productive lodes, simply because the limestone predominated.

The following figures are given of various mines in the district-The Montezuma has assayed over $2,500 to the ton. The Silver Wave runs as high as $2,000 and over.
