THE LEGISLATURE.

THE Legislative Assembly of the Twenty-sixth Session has been an industrious, hardworking body. Their labors have been largely confined to the committee rooms, where the toil of the lawmaker is always the most intense, and therefore they have not been so apparent in the general sittings. The result, however, is exhibited in the list of measures introduced and disposed of which appears in our columns today. The array is quite formidable and includes many enactments that are of a highly beneficial character. Altogether we can speak in terms of high commendation of the Assembly, whose members have manifested a patriotic solicitude for the public weal, and their proceedings have been entirely free from everything in the shape of jobbery. In connection with the intelligent and devoted manner in which the business of the Legislature has been conducted throughout, it is in order to make special allusion to the capable and dignified deportment of President Cluff of the Council and Speaker Sharp of the House, who have won deserved encomiums for courtesy and efficiency.

If the wants of the Territory have not been legislatively supplied it is no fault of the Assembly, it having been arbitrarily and even tyrannically hampered by the illiberal and obstructive course of the Governor, by his refusal to perform his duty in attaching his official signature to some of the best bills of the session, among them the bill providing for qualifications of electors, office-holders, etc. The bill was framed in consonance with, and in pursuance of an implied anticipation expressed in the Edmunds law. The idea that in framing enactments legislative bodies should be controlled or unduly influenced by a supposed outside expectation or opinion is absurd. They must be governed by the desires and expectations of their constituencies, combined with their own better judgments. The Legislature of Utah has been governed in its deliberations of this year by a conservative spirit, and in this it has manifested wisdom, as gradual changes are not only the most immediately beneficial as a rule, but almost invariably the most permanent. Revolutionary or rabid measures are only needed in conditions of great emergency.

It was anticipated that the labors of the Assembly would have closed by this time, but it is still sitting, having, this afternoon, gone into executive session, with closed doors. The delay is occasioned by a deadlock between the Legislature and the Governor, the latter refusing to sign the appropriation bill unless certain changes suggested by him are accepted. We have not time nor space at our command at present to give the details of the points of difference.

The Assembly have been, up to this writing, four o'clock p. m., in continuous session, since last evening, and the members are exhibiting signs of weariness. In all probability the labors of the honorable body will, in any case, close some time this evening.

Just as we were going to press, at twenty minutes past four o'clock, we learned that the Assembly had adopted the suggestions of the Governor in relation to the appropriation bill, and decided to strike out section ten, in relation to the University.

THE MORMON QUESTION.

The following strong and pertinent article on this everlasting question is taken from Texas Siftings of March 8:

The new anti-Mormon bill reported by Mr. Hoar from the Senate Judiciary Committee, provides that the Mormon Church corporation shall be abolished, and its funds turned over to fourteen trustees of President Arthur's appointment; that women shall be compelled to testify against their husbands, and that all property accumulated by its religious or charitable institutions, in excess of $50,000 shall be forfeited. The bill further ordains that the Mormon must be brought under carpet-bag rule, to which end it provides for a returning board, and a whole host of unclean officials, of which several hosts are now in or around Washington waiting for something to turn up. This beats the Penal Laws of Ireland, the Blue Laws of Connecticut, and the Blue Blazes that issued from religious persecution in the Middle Ages. It is only strange that the Judiciary Committee did not direct the hanging, drawing and quartering of Mormon men, and the distribution of the women among Congressmen just for a change of virtue. In the name of the Seven Deadly Sins, has Congress any more right to turn over the assets of the Mormon corporation to fourteen trustees, and they inspired with a religious fervor to prey without ceasing—than to make a similar disposition of the property of the Western Union Telegraph Company? And what right has it to compel the forfeiture of the Mormon religious and charitable funds? Mormonism as a religion has as much right to existence in this country as Catholicity or Methodism. The violation of the law does not consist in the operation of thinking that a man has a right to marry two or more wives simultaneously, but in the act of having them. The idea of dissolving any religion in this country by Act of Congress suggests a precedent which, in the course of human events, may be used for dissolving all other religions except that which wields the heaviest purse and commands most membership. The polygamous feature of Mormonism is a relic of barbarism, and it should perish from the face of this country. But this cannot be effected through the agency of an Inquisition in the hands of thieving carpet-baggers. By an admirable provision of Providence in the interest of human freedom, no religion has ever been crushed by violence, and Congress had better confine its measures to the prosecution of polygamy without extending its sphere of action to the extent of demanding the dissolution of religious organizations. It is, perhaps, a low estimate to put the proportion of Congressmen who lead immoral lives at ninety per cent., while not over thirty per cent. of the Mormons are polygamous, and yet how would it sound if Congressmen, self-convicted of immorality, should proceed to dissolve all religious organizations of the country on the ground that these organizations did not make them behave themselves.

WESTERN FLOATS.

At Portland, Oregon, the trial of Patrick Keefe for murder is being tried in the United States Court. Keefe killed a man named Morton in Alaska about three months ago. He acknowledges the killing, but claims that he was insane from drink and at the time was recovering from a long debauch. Morton was a prominent member of Kane's exploring party in the Arctic.

Several thousand Chinese cigar makers are out on strike in San Francisco. The trouble began in one shop, the men demanding the reinstatement of a fellow-workman discharged for incompetency. The masters have reinforced their position by declaring a lockout against the Chinese, and white girls and boys will be put in their places. The laundry business is thus threatened with a large addition in the way of laborers.

Advices from Tehachapi, Cal., state that on Wednesday evening a cloud burst in the vicinity of Caliente, covering the track in the yard with sand two feet deep. Water in the telegraph office was eighteen inches deep. Some portions of the Southern Pacific track were injured, but the damage was repaired so as to let No. 19 up the hill on time on the 8th; but two miles north of Mojave they struck a washout that detained them six hours. The reports from south of Mojave are discouraging. South of Ravenna the track that had been repaired, with some of the old track, is washed out. The lines are down to Los Angeles, and the last report from there says everything is very wet. On the Colorado division, from Mojave to the Needles, washouts are reported. No perishable freight is taken from Tehachapi for any points south or east of Mojave. With the present outlook, no one can tell when the road will be opened to Los Angeles.

A horrible murder occurred at St. John, Idaho, on the 26th ult. It seems that Andrew Peterson and Andrew Anderson went to the house of Andrew Munson. Andrew Peterson demanded from Andrew Munson who is Peterson's step-father, a suit of clothes which had belonged to his (Peterson's) father. Munson denied having them when the two began to abuse each other, which led to blows. Mrs. Munson ran out of the house when the difficulty began, leaving no one in the room but Munson, Anderson and Peterson. When the neighbors living near Munson's arrived they found Munson dead; his skull being entirely crushed and his brain protruding in several places. Peterson went to Malad and gave himself up, and Anderson was arrested next day as accessory. The examination was had before Judge Evans; the prosecution being represented by Smith & McCollun and D. Standrod, deputy. District Attorney Judge Heed and Judge J. B. Milner appeared for the defense. Peterson was committed to jail and Anderson held to answer in bonds of $500.

A Colorado exchange has this description of an exciting incident: "While Frank LaBelle was snow-shoeing opposite the mouth of Wolverine basin, near Gothic, last week, he found himself facing a mountain lion. Turning the toes of his shoes down the mountain, after a quarter of a mile run, he came to a ravine, which he crossed, and then entered a long, narrow opening leading down to timber. Hearing a noise in his rear, he turned around and saw the lion close upon his heels. Then LaBelle started down the mountain at the rate of forty miles an hour. At the foot of the hill he had to cross a trench to the next grade, and knowing he would not have time to make the distance, with his open pocket knife between his teeth, he started for a big tree. Just as he arrived at the latter point, the lion made a spring of twenty feet and went into the snow, completely covering himself, just as LaBelle dodged behind the tree. As the head and shoulders of the beast appeared above the snow, LaBelle gave the animal a blow with his pole just back of the ears. The fight for a few moments was animated, LaBelle using his pole to good effect and receiving a number of ugly wounds. At length he closed the fight by jumping on the back of the lion and cutting the jugular vein with his knife. LaBelle was able to reach Gothic, from whence parties went and brought in the skin. The lion measured nine feet and two inches.

LONDON, 14.—Further details of the desperate battle yesterday, between Graham's forces and the rebels near the Tamai Wells continue to arrive. It is stated that during the confusion which ensued, when the Arabs made their wild rush upon the British lines and caused them to retreat in confusion, the newspaper reporters and other non-combatants took part in the fray, and used their revolvers freely and with deadly effect against the enemy. After the battle, Osman's camp and three villages were burned.

Among the trophies are Osman's standard, taken, and Sewfik Bey's re-captured. The British loss is considerably heavier than at first reported. The number killed reaches 100, wounded 150. General Graham's forces are returning to Suakim. Osman Digma fled to the hills. The Arabs retired before the English slowly and sullenly. They were defeated, but not put to route. They walked away as if saunttering in a bazar with arms folded, or swinging at their sides. Many were shot.
