Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to any child as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all druggists.

A Very Remarkable Remedy.
It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "Recently a gentleman came into my store sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left the store smilingly so overcome with colic pains that he informed me that he felt as well as ever." For sale by all druggists.

Beautiful Complexions.
Are spoiled by using any kind of preparation that fills the pores of the skin. The best way to secure a clear complexion, free from sallowness, pimples, blotches, etc., is to keep the liver in good order. An occasional dose of Herbine will cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver, and so establish a clear, healthy complexion. See at Z. C. M. L. Drug Dept.

IN WOMAN'S WORLD.

There is nothing better for cleaning woolen garments, especially if greasy, stained, than South American soap bark, which is sold in small packages at the druggists'. Put a handful of the bark strips into a basin and cover with boiling water. Let it steep for 10 minutes, when it will be ready for use. Scrub the garment with the soapy water and sponge off with clear water.

A variation of the popular tomato salad with mayonnaise dressing is effected by placing the whole tomatoes on squares of toast spread with anchovy paste. Stuffed tomatoes are very nice with anchovies. Use chopped cucumbers, green peppers, and boned anchovies, cut in small pieces for the farci, and serve on blanched lettuce hearts with mayonnaise.

Grape jelly is proverbially hard to make because of its tendency to refuse to "jell." A correspondent of Good Housekeeping advises putting a little unripe fruit in with the other, say, one bunch of green grapes to every four bunches of ripe. This is said to insure firm jelly.

A pinch of salt added at the last moment to a pot of brewing tea or coffee is said to assist materially in bringing out the aroma. A pinch of salt added to a dish that has been made too sweet by mistake will take away the over-sweetness, as, conversely, a little sugar often subdues a salty taste.

A delicious dish of Brussels sprouts may be prepared by cooking in salted water in the usual way, taking care to freshen them before cooking by throwing them for a few minutes in strongly salted cold water. Drain the sprouts and place in a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter, a red chili pepper, and a dash of celery salt. Toss over the fire until the sprouts are slightly browned. A little kitchen bouquet and a very little sherry or madeira added just before serving adds greatly to the flavor.

Always put an unpeeled onion in the water in which corned beef has been placed to boil. The meat will be much more juicy and tender.

It is recommended that a little vinegar be added to the water in which stockings are rinsed after being washed. The stockings should then be dried wrong side out. Colored stockings will be found unfaded and black ones will retain their original luster.

The preparation of the school luncheon is once more a part of the household routine. It is hoped that a square or oblong basket and plenty of paraffine paper as well as paper napkins have been provided. It is useless to send damask napkins with the school luncheon. They are often lost or misplaced, and when they are left in the basket they only help to make it smelly "foddy," as one child expresses it. The paper napkins cost a mere trifle, and are clean and convenient. Keep little glass jars, several of them, with a few tips, to hold jams and other sticky articles. Have also a few small plated spoons, and a bottle with a screw top for milk, although good milk is usually obtainable in most school buildings.

Make a list of sandwiches liked by the children, their variety is almost endless, and see that the daily sandwich is varied from day to day. Beside meat fillings there are nuts, chopped, of course, and mixed with a little cream, well salted sweets, such as jam jelly, and macarons; eggs similarly prepared, lettuce with mayonnaise, tomatoes, and in fact, almost any salad, grated maple sugar, stewed fruit, and so on, almost literally ad infinitum.

Be sure that the ration is well balanced. Suppose the luncheon to be composed of cream cheese, brown bread, sponge cake, and milk. A few nuts should be added, and also a handful of dates or figs, washed and rolled in powdered sugar. Beware of hard-boiled eggs. Children like them, to be sure, but they are not pronounced very indigestible, and if there is a tendency to rheumatism or gout in the family, eggs in any form will exaggerate it. Individual cup custards, chicken jelly with a little meat, little fruit turnovers, ginger bread with raisins, and small meat pies are good and easy to carry.
