LEHI.

Lehi, Utah, March 11.—Wednesday evening the yearly employees of the Utah Sugar company here tendered General Supt. James H. Gardner and Consulting Engineer M. W. Ingalls a reception at the company's hotel at the factory, which was in the nature of a surprise and a token of esteem and well wishes. At 7 p. m. Messrs. Gardner and Ingalls were urgently called to the factory by telephone as the night watchman was said to be "badly hurt, and upon reaching the hotel they were greatly surprised to find about 60 yearling men and their wives setting down to a long table which was sumptuously spread with the best viands of the season obtainable. After the excitement was over Mr. George A. Smith, General Manager Cutler's private secretary, in a few well chosen words, presented to Mr. Gardner a fine gold watch and also to Mr. Ingalls a beautiful gold chain as a token of esteem from the yearly employees of the factories over which their jurisdiction extends. Messrs. Gardner and Ingalls responded in feeling tones and expressed their appreciation and surprise at the honor conferred upon them and of the lovely presents which they had received. Supper was then partaken of, after which dancing and social intercourse was indulged in during the remainder of the evening. Much of the credit for the success of the party should be given to Local Supt. Charles Crab and Engineer John Devey, who worked unceasingly to make it as enjoyable as possible.

Wednesday evening the postmasters of Utah county and their wives held their bi-annual convention and social here, the guests of Postmaster S. W. Ross. CLUB CHAT.

The first meeting of the program committee of the Ladies' Literary club was held Monday afternoon, and Mrs. Joel L. Priest was elected chairman of the committee. Miss Myra Fowler was made secretary and the plan of work for the coming year was discussed in an informal way. The remaining members of the committee are Mrs. D. Elliott Kelley, Mrs. Elvyn Lewis, Mrs. Harry Gank, Mrs. Allen T. Sanford, Mrs. G. E. Francis and Mrs. R. M. Fisher.

The Cleofan met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Charles Wells on Second street. Mrs. H. L. A. Culmer gave a study of the character of King Henry V.

In addition to the topic presented by Capt. Wood of the Salvation Army at the Ladies' Literary club yesterday entitled "Probationary Courts and New Methods of Charitable Work—Are They Feasible?" a paper was read by Mrs. A. J. Gorham which was prepared by Mrs. L. E. Hall, on "The Relation of Civics to Ethics." Mrs. Hall is still in California.

The Wasatch Literary circle held the regular fortnightly meeting on Tuesday with Mrs. W. B. Beveridge.

The Spirit of Liberty chapter, D. R. R., met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. E. L. Jones at 19 N. street. Mrs. F. C. Richmond had charge of the program.

The Woman's Democratic club held its regular meeting this week.

The Denver Woman's Press club which has on its active and associate membership list some of the cleverest women of the state, have some unique by-laws, which contain valuable hints to the club women who has not "evolved" along certain lines. Among these are the following:

ARTICLE II.

Bars to Membership. Section 1. A total deficiency of brains shall constitute an insurmountable obstacle to membership in either class.

Sec. 2. No woman shall be admitted to membership who is: (a) A bore, (b) Who holds out news on a reporter, (c) Who has not a proper respect for the power of the press, (d) Who does not read your paper, (e) Who can not do something to drive dull care away.

Copy readers and proofreaders are forever barred from membership in this club. No woman shall ever be admitted to this club who send in "stuff" for publication written on both sides of the paper; or who sends up an item for the society column at 9 o'clock Saturday night; or who says she "never gives information to the paper."

ARTICLE III.

Duties of Members. Each member shall "do all the assignments" given her by the club. No

"freezing" will be permitted. Each member shall aim to raise the standard of the profession. She shall endeavor to remain calm when dealing with the city editor. He may have trouble of his own, and she may be one of them. She shall not, incorporate jokes in her copy—that being the province of the proofreader. She shall avoid referring to any woman's beauty in print. Her picture may accompany the article. She shall not make up lists of names for reports of social functions from the blue book of Denver or the membership list of the Woman's club; or, if she yields to the temptations, she shall be careful not to include the names of persons who are dead or out of the city. Such practices tend to lower the standard of the profession. Each member shall speak well of all other members. Their faults shall be printed in sate and their virtues in small caps.

Brooklyn club women are disgusted. It is the old story of political influence. Three years ago a number of progressive club women of the second largest borough of New York City secured the appointment of a probation officer for the Gates avenue police court. They, themselves, furnished the money for the salary. At the same time they spared no effort to secure the passage of a bill providing the payment of the officer's salary from the public treasury. When, after hard work, the appropriation was at last secured, the judge of the court appointed for political reasons a woman wholly inexperienced in the work. A protest signed by many prominent women was sent to the judicial officer recommending another woman, and the judge immediately appointed both women to the one position. There was but one salary for the two appointees, and that but $50 a month. After a time the experienced officer received another appointment. Is not civil service reform needed?

Philadelphia clubwomen are working for child labor reform. Nearly every club of the city has entered in the cause. Each organization has appointed a committee to work for the reforms which New York has granted. No effort will be spared to secure the birth registration requirement which, when enforced, will make it impossible to take children of school age out of their classes and send them to work. In every state where the compulsory education law is on the statute books, hundreds of cases have been found of parents making false statements as to the age of their children, and in many instances this has been found to be true where the father was earning good wages.

Massachusetts is not alone the home of the most advanced culture clubs in which all whims and abstract subjects are presented, but it is also a state in which all economic and humanitarian questions are earnestly and thoughtfully studied and reforms instituted with the intelligent approval of the majority of the club women. In this connection, the following program, presented at a late state federation meeting, is suggestive of the subjects occupying the attention of it is safe to say, the bulk of that important body.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

Never use white cotton flannel or white tissue paper for wrapping silver articles in. Blue paper and gray flannel are best, as the white contains a chemical which will blacken the silver in time.

Macaroni baked in the shell of an Eclair or pineapple cheese shell is delicious.

delious, but it has been demonstrated that the cheese shells have other uses. Almost anything as grain is good cooked in this fashion. Cauliflower is especially recommended. Boil the vegetable and separate the florets. Place these, well drained, in the cheese shell, and between each layer sprinkle pepper and salt and place a generous tablespoonful of cream sauce. Cover the top with cream sauce, grated cheese, and rolled bread crumbs, dot with bits of butter, and bake. Creamed celery cooked in the same way is very good.

Directions for cleaning carpets on the floor are given in the House Beautiful. The same method might be used to clean rugs. "Make a paste with good white soap and hot water and add fuller's earth to this until it is of the consistency of thin cream. Have plenty of clean drying cloths, a small scrubbing brush, a large sponge and a pail of fresh water. Put some of the cleaning mixture in a bowl and dip the brush in it. Brush a small piece of the carpet with this, then wash with the sponge and cold water. Dry as much as possible with the sponge and finally rub with dry cloths. Continue this until certain all the carpet is cleaned and then let dry."

A list of the contents of a closet tucked up inside of the door will save much wearisome hunting for some particular thing, especially when required in a hurry. The same method can be applied to bureau drawers, as far as tabulating the contents go. They may be entered into a note book for convenient reference, each drawer being designated by a number.

To cleanse some of the new cotton faces, a little forethought and care is required, but the results will more than repay the effort. Baste upon a piece of flannel the article to be cleaned, following carefully the outline of the work. Then immerse it in a lather of lukewarm suds, merely dipping it up and down, never washing or wringing it out. Instead, after rinsing, put between two cloths and pat till almost dry. Then hang it up for a few moments and iron with the back of the flannel exposed to the heat. When the basting stitches are removed it will be found to look as if it had come from the establishment of a French laundress; for this is the method pursued by most of them.

A very pretty frieze was recently contrived by an inventive housewife to change the decorations of her room frequently. She bought a series of Gibson drawings and tacked them erally ironed double, and they should be folded lengthwise, for this is exactly opposite to the way they are hung upon a line; it distributes the wear and makes them last much longer. Pillow cases are ironed, first, the trimming at the edges, then the tapes, if there are any, and finally the case itself, and this may be ironed singly or doubled over once, according as one is a novice at the work or is experienced.—The Housekeeper.
