

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Priesthood Meeting.—The regular monthly meeting of the Priesthood of this Stake will be held in the Salt Lake Assembly Hall, on Saturday, the 7th inst., at 11 a.m.

WILLIAM W. TAYLOR,
Clerk of the Stake.

High Council.—There will be a meeting of the High Council at the Council House, to-morrow, (Friday) evening, at half-past 7 o'clock.

WILLIAM W. TAYLOR,
Clerk.

Fast Day.—To-day the various public works have been closed, and the regular monthly fast meetings held in the various wards of the city.

The Heat.—Yesterday was one of the hottest days this year, and to-day is fast behind its predecessor. The heat is so oppressive that the people at our office managed to sleep at 10:44, about noon.

Ben Tasker.—This notorious character is still at large, and from his knowledge of the country and his familiarity with the people, he is likely to remain at large for an indefinite period.

The Canal.—Work on the Jordan Canal has been temporarily dropped, and the crops to be gathered off are being taken care of. So far, good progress has been made, and work will be resumed as soon as possible.

Zamloch.—We again remind our readers that Zamloch the celebrated Arabian Conjurer will occupy the boards of the Salt Lake Theatre to-night. His entertainments are highly spoken of by the press. An additional attraction is the presence of a given away at the close of each performance. Zamloch will be in town three nights, namely, to-night, to-morrow night and Saturday night. He will also give a grand family gift mania on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Too Thin.—Amongst the list of arrivals at the Walker House last evening, a party by the name of "P. Smith," registered as having been a member of the "Silver Reef" party. He was a thin, wiry man, and if he attended this registration as a "P. Smith," he had better "gan-af" to the Silver Reef as soon as possible. Too thin to last.

Recovering.—We are glad to learn that Mr. Charlton Jacobs, who met with the serious accident on the Utah Western Railroad on Tuesday evening, particulars of which we have already published, is progressing finely. When completely recovered, however, he will always bear the marks of this ugly accident.

That Soldiers' Fracas.—The soldiers concerned in the disgraceful fracas at Ordner & Patterson's saloon on Tuesday evening, and who have been lying in the city jail since then, were removed from the City Hall this afternoon, under the charge of a lieutenant and a guard of three. General Smith, we understand, has manifested some interest in this case, and it is said that it has been a question in his mind as to whether he should leave them to be dealt with by the civil authorities instead of the military. We regret the general has not felt at liberty to let the civil law take its course, as that would, no doubt, have a tendency to prevent such unsoldierlike proceedings in future.

Black Rock and Lake Point.—The number of people who are daily visiting these places of resort is simply immense. The trains both morning and evening are laden to their utmost capacity. Yesterday, however, was one of the most uncomfortable days experienced at the Lake this year. The dust rose in clouds the whole day, yet bathing went on as usual. There's lots of fun in bathing. The other evening a young man went down to enjoy the fun. He brought his dog with him. The dog thought he would have a bath too, and took to the water just like a dog. Well, that's all right; but unsuspectingly while swimming about he took a drink. The way that dog walked out of the water, with his tail hanging plumb between his legs, was a sight never to be forgotten. Can't say what the dog thought, but it certainly looked as if it had swallowed something that did not agree with his ideas of a pleasant summer beverage.

"Big Blunders."—The lecture by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage drew only a small audience last night at the Theatre. But it was composed of intelligent listeners who were deeply interested from the beginning to the close. There was nothing new in the lecture, except the tropes and figures of speech and the manner of the speaker. He has a harsh voice and makes uncouth gestures, and his occasional smile is peculiar, approaching to a grin. But the address was given in such a style as to engage the close attention of the audience and elicit frequent laughter and applause. The speech contained good sentiments and conveyed a good moral. Its platitudes were pleasing and its tendency was to elevate and improve.

A Federal Circus Party.—From a correspondent in Brigham City we are informed that Governor Murray together with Secretary Thomas and one or two mining experts, paid a visit to the above named town last week. These federal dignitaries, says our correspondent, rather took the quiet and unostentatious citizens by surprise, travelling as they did incognito, and some amusing circumstances were the result.

On arriving at the depot, the quartette ascended the wagon man, Mr. Wm. Evans (whose business it is to haul goods from the depot to the city store), and engaged him to take them to a hotel. After getting into the wagon, the Governor, it appears, entered into conversation with the driver (Evans) and asked if he was a Welshman. Upon receiving a reply in the affirmative, the Governor introduced him to Mr. Thomas as a countryman of his. Evans, of course, was rather pleased to meet one of his countrymen under such circumstances, and turning round to the Secretary inquired if he was the Mr. Thomas who used to be on the police force in Salt Lake City. The Governor, coming to the relief of the Secretary, intimated that he was the very identical Mr. Thomas from the police force. "Well," says Evans, "I scarcely knew you. You are so clean shaved, you see. How are all the folks at home?" "As usual, thank you," replied Mr. Thomas, and here ended the first act.

On arriving at the hotel, the party were supposed to be and were taken for circus men by the host of the hotel, Mr. Jensen. The day previous to the Governor's arrival in Brigham City, the forerunner of Mr. Jensen's circus had been in town and engaged accommodation with Mr. Jensen for six of the circus hands who were to be in Brigham next day. Some day as the Governor arrived to put up posters, etc., and when the Governor's party entered the hotel, Mr. Jensen naturally supposed they were connected with the circus. "Yes, yes," replied his Excellency, "that is our profession at present." "Well, well, walk in gentlemen," said Mr. Jensen, "but I expected six and I only see four." The others he was told would come along after a while.

Thus the fun went on until bed time, when a new impetus was given to the farce. It seems that when the circus man was round he informed Mr. Jensen that his men could all sleep in one room, as well as not, and arrangements to this effect were entered into by showing the manager a room in which were two beds with still room for another bed to be made on the floor, which was entirely satisfactory. After the Governor and party were conducted into the bed chamber they were informed of the previous arrangement with the circus man in relation to the sleeping accommodation. Here were three beds in one room, one of which was on the floor, and four circus men to sleep on them; they could take their choice as to who slept on the floor. Mr. Jensen kindly suggested that the biggest fellow had better take the floor, which was good humoredly acquiesced in by the big fellow; it was nothing unusual, they said, for circus men to sleep on the floor; they could accommodate themselves to the circumstance.

The big fellow was the Governor. This thing went along all through the next day until the Secretary called in at a certain public office in Brigham City to transact some business, when the whole farce came to a sudden termination. Apologies were then in order all round. It is said the Governor and party seemed to enjoy the joke immensely.

A Straight Case.—At the City Hall this afternoon, Mr. Ordner, saloon keeper, had a hearing before Judge Pyper on a charge of assault and battery on the person of a foreigner named Joe Straight. It appears that Straight this forenoon, while under the influence of liquor, created a disturbance in the neighborhood of Ordner's saloon. Straight threw a rock at a young man in the saloon and broke one of the saloon windows, and this so enraged Ordner, that he immediately ran out and knocked Straight to the ground. For taking the law into his own hands in this way, Judge Pyper fined him $10. Straight will have a hearing to-morrow morning, when he will have to pay for the damage to the window. Verily Ordner is in extraordinary trouble just now.

Floating Bath.—A great attraction at Lake Shore is a floating bath. It is really a section of a bathing pier, containing about a dozen rooms, which is pushed out into the lake by an attendant with poles, so that a good bottom is reached and the bathers can have at once a boat ride and a dip in the lake. It is quite a novelty, and we think if it were brought to the attention of the public, it would draw a great many bathers to Lake Shore, which is reached in a forty minutes' pleasant run, starting at 5 p.m. on the Utah Central, giving ample time to bathe and lunch leisurely and then return to town by 7.50.

PUBLIC LAND SURVEYS.

Salt Lake City, August 1, 1880.

The following named township plats were this day filed in the U.S. Land Office in this city, representing a portion of the lands surveyed by Messrs. Ferron and Buetner, U. S. Deputy Surveyors, under their contract of June 15th, 1878:

By T. C. BAYLEY,
Chief Clerk.

Dust Storm.—Some one has said that every person has got to eat a peck of dust in his life time. This may be all very true, but most of people object to eating it all at once. A regular dust storm has prevailed in the city to-day, in fact it is one of those sort of days that "no fellow" can appreciate.

The Turner Murder.—The excitement in this case has somewhat cooled down. The prisoners are now confined in the Pen, but there are no new developments to report.
