IN LEGAL QUARTERS.

Attorney General's Opinion on Official Bonds and Attorneys' Powers.

THE MORRIS TRIAL DRAGS ALONG.

Mining Experts in the Witness Box Today—Judge Ritchie's Equity Settings—Court Notes.

Attorney General Bishop issued from his office today the following two opinions. One relates to the powers of county attorneys in cases of uncollected mortgage taxes and the other to the bonds of county commissioners:

To the Honorable State Board of Equalization, Salt Lake City:

Gentlemen—I have your favor of the 27th ult., in which you ask to be advised upon the following:

"The county auditor of Millard county writes the board as follows: 'I reported mortgages which are uncollectable, and the county attorney has struck from the list all of said amount but $10,672. Will you please make the correction by inserting the said amount, to wit, $10,672?'

"The first report was $130,645. If the above correction is made it reduces the amount $120,872.

"Has the county attorney authority to strike any assessment from the assessment roll, as mentioned above?"

Replying thereto, I beg to suggest that the only authority vested in the county attorney in reference to the correction of assessments, which I have been able to find, appears in section 169 of the "Revenue Act," found on page 453 of the laws of 1896, as follows: "Omissions, errors, or defects in form or any original or duplicate assessment book, when it can be ascertained therefrom what was intended, may, with the consent of the county attorney be supplied or corrected by the assessor at any time prior to the sale for delinquent taxes, and after the original assessment was made."

The authority given, as will be observer, relates only to omissions, errors or defects in form, and would not apply to the action of the county attorney in the case suggested in your inquiry. As it does not appear therefrom that there was any error of any kind made in the assessment of the mortgages, but the only question was that the taxes on the mortgages were uncollectable, I am of the opinion that in such a case the county attorney has no authority to strike them from the list.

D. H. Morris, Esq., County Attorney, Mt. George, Utah.

Dear Sir—I have before me your favor of recent date in which you ask, whether "Under section 56, page 259 of the laws of 1896, it is the duty of the district judge to approve the bonds of all the county officers named therein, or only those of the county commissioners. If you hold that it applies only to those of county commissioners, will you please state by whom the bonds of the officers first named in such section are to be approved."

I am of opinion that the judge of the district court shall prescribe the amount in which each member of the board of county commissioners must execute an official bond before entering upon the discharge of the duties of their respective offices, and it is also the duty of the judge to approve the bonds before they can be filed and recorded.

Under the said section, it is clearly the duty of the board of county commissioners, by proper ordinance to prescribe the amount in which the county officers shall execute official bonds before entering upon the discharge of their duties in the respective offices. Such bonds shall also be approved by the board of county commissioners.

I have the honor to be,
Very respectfully yours,
A. C. Bishop,
Attorney General.

The Morris Trial.

In the Morris trial today the defendant testified in his own behalf a short time this morning, after which Wm. McQueen, John Delaney, Angus M. Cannon, Robert Mallhall and Charles Rich were put in the witness box by the defense as mining experts to prove the genuineness of the Dugway mining property involved in the deal with Mr. Hyland. Testimony was not all in at press time.

Otherwise officers-elect will be coming in to qualify before the amount of their bonds has been fixed.

A case was tried in the United States court yesterday morning in which the plaintiff was the United States, while the defendants were ex-Mayor Bostin and Fred G. Lyngberg, the bondsmen of Joseph Lesser, ex-Deputy Clerk of Marshal Geddes and the certificates will be issued. The complaint comprised three causes of action. It being alleged in brief that Lesser drew upon the Treasurer of the amount of stamps, stamped envelopes and postal cards sold and canceled by him from October, 1896, to March 31, 1897, and retained excessive commissions to the amount of $53.91. It was further charged that she failed to pay $194.36 into the Treasury as a balance on stamps sold and box rent collected between October 1, 1895, and June 30, 1897, and that she also refused to pay over $178.50 secured by the sale of money orders. Judgment was accordingly prayed against the sureties for $424.36. The defendants admitted that Miss Jones owed the government $12.88 when her account was closed on June 30, 1896, but gave a defense to the item of $178.50, it was alleged that this amount was stolen by burglars. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the government for $72.88, and interest.

Returned from the South.

Among the callers on the NEWS today was Elder A. W. Buckwalter of American Fork, Utah, who has been on a mission to the Southern States. He left home July 14, 1894, and was assigned to the Florida conference. There he found the people very kind and hospitable. He met with many opposition, but nothing of a serious character. There is much intelligence among the people as to religious matters, but he had much success among those who were willing to consider the Gospel. His labors were mostly in the opening up of new counties or missionary fields. He enjoyed excellent health, and is highly gratified with his missionary experience. He returned home November 25.

Elder F. M. Houston, also of American Fork, made a visit to the NEWS today. He returned on Nov. 24 from a mission to the Southern States, on which he left July 14, 1894. He was assigned to the East Tennessee conference, and traveled in eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina, meeting with much success. He found the people generally inclined toward the Mormon Elders, the better classes of the residents giving the Elders a cordial welcome. The people of that section of country are beginning to realize the foundation of the Gospel as restored by the Mormon message, and give it intelligent and sincere investigation. By this means many are learning the truth and are living the Gospel. Elder Houston enjoyed fairly good health, and is well pleased with his missionary success.

Elder George F. Taylor, also of American Fork, dropped into the NEWS sanctum for a few minutes this morning. He reached home over the Rio Grande on Sunday evening after a mission of a little more than two years in West Virginia and eastern Kentucky. He left his mission field on July 14, 1896, and met with much hospitality and success in his labors. His health was good and he says the conference is being in a very prosperous condition. Elder Taylor came across American Fork this morning and will return home this evening.

Partridge second counselor, Thomas E. Jacobson was chosen secretary and John F. Matheson reconmended for ordination as a High Priest. The First Quorum of Elders comprises the Fourteenth and Seventeenth wards. The reorganization came as the result of the death of Elder Edward W. Byers, who held the office to which Elder Cannon has been promoted.

MINES AND MINING.

The Stock Brokers Do Themselves Proud on 'Change Today.

STOCKS SELL AT GOOD FIGURES.

The Idaho Mine To Be Developed Under a New Process—La Sal Copper Prospects—Dips and Spurs.

The bulls and bears did themselves proud on 'change today and handled the shares in a decidedly business-like manner. They went to work with a will and it was apparent just as soon as Anchor, the first stock was called, that the day would be a good one in the pit. Yesterday's work was a credit to the brokers and served as good business throughout the week, which will certainly be the case if the record of the first two days is kept up.

With the call of Anchor the day's work was commenced. The stock fell a trifle in the asking and was sold at 90 cents, with free offerings at it at 95 cents; the closing bid was .94. Ajax advanced to 80 cents, holders firmly demanding that figure for the stock. Would-be buyers at 75 cents were plentiful, while the closing and best bid was 76 cents, an advance of 1 cent over yesterday.

Bullion Beck held its position of yesterday, except that the bid advanced to $6.30. It was at 6 cents at the close. On this figure it will doubtless be a seller before the month of December passes away, as its adherents are getting more numerous every day. Daly maintained the same strength held by it for some time past and recorded figures of $9.20 asked with $9.05 bid. Daly-West ran somewhat to the asking and sold at $8.20, with the stock remaining as an offering at $8.30.

Four Aces crept up in both figures and was bid for at 19 cents while possessors of the stock had none to sell under 20 cents. Mercur noted a slight decline to the bidding, the figure falling to $6.55, while the stock was an offering at $6.80. Mammoth showed strength over the figures of the preceding call and was bid for at $1.40; the stock could have been purchased at $1.45.

Unlisted stocks received just recognition both in the trading and figures. Bullion was strong at advanced figures and sold at 7¼ cents a share. The closing offerings of the stock were at 8 cents, while bidding stood at 7½ cents. A surprise was sprung by Rex, which suddenly entered a transfer at 9 cents, at which it was freely offered. Lottie Pinford also figured in the trading and made a sale at one cent. The Swansea were strong, but figures were unknown to each other to bring about business.

The closing figures were as follows:

THE IDAHO MINE.

To Be Developed Under a New and Extensive Scale.

The following is a dispatch from Wallace, Idaho, to the Spokane Spokesman-Review and tells of a stamp mill proposition there to work the grade ores:

There is talk about Murray that it is within the range of possibilities that within another year two stamp mill or may have one of the largest gold mines in North America, the Treadwell and Homestake being probably the only greater ones.

The property that is to be developed is the Idaho, a mine that has had a checkered experience in the past on the north fork. The ledge is a mammoth one, the expression being that it resembles a quarry more than a mine, but the ore is low grade, running from $5 to $4 per ton by mill tests. The assay that it must be worked very economically if any profits are to be derived.

Several different parties attempted to work this property, several hundred thousand dollars being sunk in the different attempts. It was like a one time with a Comstock mill of 10 stamps capacity calculated to handle ore the ore absolutely free milling. The power was steam, and with such a showing in the neighborhood of $4 per ton, and a considerable part of it good being carried off in the form of sulphurets, it was a proposition calculated to suit the owners as much as opposition morning paper.

After lying idle several years, and having 20 of the stamps sold to other mills, it last spring was sold to the Idaho and Rossi Buried Consolidated Mining company. The new owners have thus far made little effort to use the ore for which the mill was built, but have run it mostly on ore from the Katie Burnet, which was hauled to the mill by wagons.

The new proposition is adding stamps, until the total is not less than 50, filling them up with the latest improvements in concentrators, which it is believed will save $1 per ton or more that is now lost by any concentrating device in use in the Coeur d'Alenes, and then attach the pipe line for power.

This pipe line is about five miles long, commencing above the mouth of Granite creek, and terminating about Murray, a mile below the mill. It was put in to furnish water for hydraulicking some of the high bars and old wash on the north side of Pritchard creek, but proved an unprofitable investment. It will furnish power enough to run 50, or even more, stamps, the volume at present being considerable, and the pressure something great. The pipe line is now out of repair, having been damaged by the recent floods, but will be put in repair for hydraulic work next spring, unless the Dora and Katie Burnet Consolidated gets hold of it in the meantime.

To the Coeur d'Alener who is accustomed to $10 to $50 ore it seems folly to talk about rock that only runs from $3 to $6, but the Alaska and South Dakota mines already referred to show such ores to be extremely profitable when existing in large quantities, where it can be economically handled.

La Sal Copper Prospects.

Considerable interest is centered now on the copper prospects thirty miles southeast, at the south end of the La Sal mountains, says the Eastern Utah Advocate. Parties representing Colonel Pritchett have been developing the Copper King properties, owned by Maxwell, May, Young and King, to which Judge Shafer, for $50,000, $6,000 to be paid down in thirty days and the balance in installments at long and unnecessary delay. Then Mr. Maxwell has bought out the claim of Lee, Young and Maloney, situated near Lisbon Springs, fifteen miles from the Copper King properties. Lester Taylor and others are now considering the question of putting up a small furnace for smelting, and it is practically certain that a furnace of some description will be running by spring. Large banks of coal lie within a few miles of these properties, and timber for charcoal is in abundance. All conditions are certainly favorable for smelting purposes.

Dips and Spurs.

Dalton stock is daily getting stronger on the market. Reports have it that the ore judge has been found on the property and that from now on the trading and made a sale at one cent. The Swansea were strong, but figures were unknown to each other to bring about business.

The closing figures were as follows:

Mr. Dalton was in town today and reports that the ore judge has been found on the property and that from now on the trading and made a sale at one cent. The Swansea were strong, but figures were unknown to each other to bring about business.

MAY BUCK THE MAYOR

Commissioners Noble and Cohn Do Not See Eye to Eye With Him.

AT LEAST THAT IS THE REPORT.

Object to the City's Chief Executive Promoting the Office of Chief of Police to Mr. Gillespie.

And now comes the rumor from within the mysterious workings of the executive branch of the municipal administration that the long sought for harmony with the fire and police board is not as sure and unadulterated as was hoped for; that the single mindedness of purpose of which the city attorney dreamed in a painful decision; that two members of the commission referred to—Messrs. Noble and Cohn—have had their feelings hurt over a promise made by the Mayor to see that Mr. James K. Gillespie should succeed Pratt as chief of police. These gentlemen take the position that if any change is to be made in the direction indicated they should be consulted, otherwise they would be figureheads at which the public could justly point the finger of criticism.

It appears that some months ago Mayor Goulding in the meeting should for some man who would how to his line of policy as chief of police went to Mr. Gillespie and told him that there was a chance for him to succeed Pratt; that it was only a matter of time. Mr. Gillespie took the proposition under consideration for a time, acting on the interstitial suggestion that all things come to those who wait. Finally the vacancies in the fire and police boards caused by the resignation of Messrs. Varian and Jennings were filled, after a long and unnecessary delay. Then the Mayor had another talk with Mr. Gillespie and, according to the latter's admission, he was again assured the place as soon as the present incumbent could be disposed of, whereupon he consented to become an active candidate. His application last night for Chief Pratt's office is accepted as proof of this. And here is where the "shoe pinches." Chairman Noble is reported to have declared he would not be a party to carrying out any plan outlined by the Mayor or any one else unless it was in accordance with his own judgment. Besides that he wanted to do a little thinking on his own account. Commissioner Cohn is in a similar frame of mind and there the matter stands.

In order to remove the present odium of the fire and police departments the services of either Mr. Noble or Mr. Cohn is necessary. Mr. Cohn's absence is said unless the inducements are forced guilty of unofficial conduct and it is believed that this is as true in the case of Mr. Noble.

They All Come Back

"There are fads in medicine as well as in other things. Many a busy druggist can tell you that the most remarkable thing about Hood's Sarsaparilla is that customers who try other remedies all come back to Hood's, and this is why the enormous sales of this great medicine are kept up and continue the year round, steadily as a clock.

"Why is it?" Oh, simply because Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real merit in the bottle than any medicine I ever sold."

This is of daily occurrence in almost every drug store. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured more sickness, and made more happiness through restoration to health than any other medicine.
