LOCAL NEWS.

MISSIONARIES.

Those missionaries expecting to leave this city for Great Britain and Scandinavia, on Saturday April 12th, will not now take their departure until Tuesday April 15th. The time of sailing of the steamship from New York has caused the change as above set forth.

Joseph P. Smith.

Savage to the Front.—C. R. Savage, the popular photographer, calls attention to his improved and extended facilities for photographing, and the splendid stock of books, tracts, stationery, novelties, etc., now on hand at his well known Main Street Art Bazaar. His fine stock of views, recently replenished by his trip through the south and west, including the wonderful cactus and Yucca negatives, are sights worth seeing.

Ben Hogan.—This earnest temperance worker, who at one time was looked upon as one of the most notorious characters in New York City, but since his reformation some six years ago, has been doing his time and energies in different parts of the United States, in the cause of humanity, and has been successfully laboring in this city for the past two weeks, will deliver his last address at the Walker Opera House, on Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock. Free for all.

Mr. Hogan will next go to Colorado, and then return and lecture in Ogden and the towns of adjoining Territories. Ben should be welcome wherever he goes, for he is working in a worthy cause.

Opera House.—The attraction at this popular temple of amusement last evening drew its quota of the public patronage, and the audience felt well repaid by a very fine play well presented. Miss Adams as the "Planter's Wife" was fully up to her excellent standard, and Mr. Southard, her leading support, won very favorable opinions. He is a careful and effective actor. The other parts were mostly in good hands and the performance was an artistic success generally.

This evening "His Amber Witch," a terrible piece which Miss Adams has presented here before with success will be put upon the boards, and it is safe to predict an equally meritorious presentation. Those who attend will be sure to get their money's worth.

A Good Example.—An example worth following has been set by Brother Orson Merrill, of West Portage, who has sent by the hand of Brother John D. Gibbs, our agent at that place, the price of subscription for three copies of the DESERET NEWS, to circulate in the Southern States, agreeable to suggestions to that effect. He has appeared in this paper from time to time.

We are glad to see that the testimonials of our missionaries to their friends in Utah, that wherever the Elders of the Church go, they travel there they find friends, is beginning to bear fruit of a substantial kind. To the thousands throughout the Territory who will read this and approve Brother Merrill's action, we would say to all who are able, "Go thou and do likewise."

The Malad Indians.—Brother Jas. A. Chandler, who was called two years ago at the General Conference, to take charge of a school on the Malad Indian Farm at Washakie, near the boundary line between Utah and Idaho, who in this morning, is speaking very favorably of the progress made by the Malad Indians, both in educational and agricultural matters. They are learning to use farming machinery, to plough and cultivate the soil, and to live in houses like the whites. Last winter about 1000 bricks and during the coming season intend adding to the number of their houses.

There are about 300 Indians at Washakie. Their children, of whom Brother Chandler has charge in his school, are manifesting considerable aptitude for learning, especially in writing and drawing, in which branches they excel. Their reasoning faculties and articulation are more or less defective. About four-fifths of his school, numbering fifty in all, are accomplished. One informant lived in Wallace City previous to moving on to the Malad, and accepted his present labor as a mission.

The Knights.—A press notice of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight, who will appear at the Opera House next Monday evening runs as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Knight possess of themselves greater strength, greater merit, and more attractiveness than any play which has yet been or is ever likely to be written to display their specialties and characteristics. The fact that Mr. Knight plays German parts does not prevent him from being a very good actor. And herein he differs from all the other exponents of German character in the American theatre-going public is familiar. Mr. Knight's humor is spontaneous, his pathos is genuine, and one of the most accomplished elocutionists on the American stage. "Order" and "disorder" are small numbers of travelers, who Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett stand foremost, there is probably no player who comes before an audience in this country who has been so thoroughly in his part as Mrs. Knight's attractiveness consists solely in her presence, which is gay and winsome, and her wit, which is quick and exuberant. She looks well, she dresses well. She seems to possess a secret which her proteges, Mrs. Florence, long ago discovered—the capacity of appearing before an audience without appearing to act. The great elemental necessity for stage purposes—contrast—is admirably preserved by those two players.

BRIGHTON YOUNG.

A MODEL IN CLAY BY DALLIN.

One of the most interesting artistic sights we have seen in many a day, is a clay model of the late President Brigham Young, just finished by C. E. Dallin, the sculptor, on exhibition at his studio in the Roberts-Kilbeck building, First South Street. The young artist, fired with the hope of some day receiving a commission for the execution of a statue of the illustrious founder of Salt Lake City, went to work some ten or twelve days ago on a clay model, taking as studies several photographs of the President in different positions, and adding to the ideal thus formed what he could learn from other sources, historic and personal. The result is a masterpiece. The statue is but thirty inches in height, but it is to all appearances, in the eyes of the most intimate acquaintances of the late President, a strikingly correct representation, in form, dress, posture and expression, of the countenance. In fact the sculptor has reproduced Brigham Young in the full vigor of his prime, and added another to his list of successes as an artist of rare ability. The subject of the model is represented in a standing position, the body resting firmly upon the right foot, while the left leg is bent slightly at the knee, with the foot resting easily in the rear, as if in the partial act of taking another step forward. The right hand rests upon a cane leaning on the ground, while the left hand hangs at ease. Both are exquisitely modeled, even the veins on the back of the right hand being visible. The head, which is uncovered, and the face are admirable, the hair and beard as natural as in life, and the partly closed eyes, firm-set lips, finely formed nose, half smile in cast, and general expression of countenance so familiar to tens of thousands, are all there to call up the memory of the great original and the scenes made famous by his presence. The whole physique, from the crown of the head to the soles of the feet, encased in shoes the exact counterpart of a pair once worn by him, is that of the man himself, with slight variations purposefully made in artistic effect, which a statue placed on high, a delicate point best known to true artists and highly necessary to their success. The figure is clothed in a full suit of modern apparel, with Prince Albert coat, and a cloak of equal length thrown back from the neck, entirely free from the right arm but half concealing the left in graceful folds. From whatever point the figure is looked at it presents the same standard of excellence, exhibiting the individuality of the original, and a complete summary of his appearance and character. The color of the clay is a light, reddish brown. A number of the relatives of the late President, among them Apostle Brigham Young, have visited the studio and congratulated Mr. Dallin on his success. Mr. Alfred Young was very pronounced in his commendation. As was Mrs. Emily Young Clawson, who said it was a better likeness of her father than his best photograph could suggest. It is a sight worth seeing by all lovers of art, to whom the artist extend a cordial invitation to visit him at his studio.

The Stephens' Concert.—Conference visitors would do well to prolong their stay in the city, until after the grand concert at the Tabernacle next Monday night. The combined melody of four hundred voices is enough in itself to constitute a great attraction, while the grand interior with the light of hundreds of gas jets beaming down upon such an audience as will probably assemble, is a magnificent spectacle even to imagine, and since the Patti event a realization to be remembered only with pleasure and admiration. Besides the great chorus, some of the best soloists in Utah will contribute their valuable aid to make the concert all that could be desired. Mr. Daynes, the Tabernacle organist, gives a prelude; Miss Agnes Olsen renders Norwegian and English songs; Mendelssohn's Schopenhauer and Gretsch's Swiss songs and warbles; Mrs. Anne L. Cowley sings in Welsh and English, and Mr. Stephens himself appears repeatedly. In addition to these, there are numerous other numbers on the programme, which forms a grand musical evening. The concert will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Half the proceeds are for the benefit of the B. Y. Academy. Go by all means, and assist in good cause while getting thrice your money's worth.

Theatre.—As anticipated, as bygone audience witnessed, last evening, the opening performance of the Leavitt Specialty Combination, and we have only to say that all favorable comments hitherto passed upon these performers are entirely true, to pay them the highest praise they are so richly deserving. They are not only in the line of a "stock" in the entire troupe. All are first class in their respective lines, and some of them, notably the comedienne and the wire-balancer, veritable wonders. It is needless to enumerate where all are so truly excellent. The only thing on the programme that marred it was the closing sketch: "All Fools' Day," which was either inferior to the others, or the audience were tired before coming to it, and it could have been omitted without being missed. Mr. Masou is a double comedian, however. There will doubtless be another full house to-night.

Advertising.—Business of any kind to be brought before the notice of the public must be advertised, this answers the purpose of most business men, especially those who desire a fair competition in business. The more a legitimate firm is made known, the better it answers the purpose of the advertiser. By this means the tailoring firm of Buckle & Son, on Main Street, opposite the Walker House, has achieved a success second to none since their establishment in 1876, and they are a mark of encouragement to those who are trying to make a mark in the business progress of this city. See advt.

Mutual Improvement.—The Conference of the Mutual Improvement Associations was held last evening in the Assembly Hall. Speakers were made by the respective superintendents of Bear Lake, Morgan and San Pete Stakes. The representations were encouraging as manifesting advancement. The meeting was addressed by President Woodruff, Elders Junius F. Wells and E. C. Badger; Presidents George Q. Cannon and Joseph Smith, and Apostle Moses Thatcher. The remarks were full of instruction.

Back Again.—Brother Joseph Bull, Sen. of the office, returned last night from a seven weeks' business trip to the East, having visited several of the leading cities and business centers, and returned with a full portfolio of letters and a full advertisement column in the Deseret News. Welcome home!

The south-bound Conference train, advertised to leave at 5:30 p.m., was delayed by the arrival of a special train north-bound which left at 5 p.m. In addition to the regular trains at 11 and 12 o'clock.

Jezreel on Polygamy.—We publish today an excellent article on polygamy by Jezreel. It is well worthy of careful perusal.

The Memorial.—In today's issue will be found the Memorial to Congress passed by the Territorial Legislature March 12th, 1884. It is a clear embodiment of the views of the people, and should be read with interest by all wishing to ascertain the real status of the Utah question.

The "Orion Era."—Brother Miles P. Romney, of St. John's Arizona, editor of the Orion Era, published at that place, is in the city. While here he will look after the interests of his paper, which should be taken by people interested in the southern country. As that section is attracting general attention he should swell his subscription list considerably before his return. A new edition of the Orion Era, to that end, has been ordered.

A Pretty Picture.—There is a very pretty picture, as showing the combined excellence of the photographer's and the colorist's art, on exhibition at Savage's gallery. The subject is a little five-year-old daughter of Brother H. C. Barrell. The photograph, which is 11 by 14 inches in size, is Ralph Savage's work, and the coloring was done by Miss Kate Wells. It is enclosed in a frame of bronze and gilt, highly embossed, with an inside border of crimson plush. It will be admired by whomever it is seen.

They Were Divorced.—Indianapolis, Ind.—The Sentinel says: A Kentuckian writes of how he passed from misery to happiness. "We'd been together eleven years, and we never were what you may call congenial. I missed my wife, and she missed me. Finally I got to be altogether too long for yours truly, and I just invoked the power of St. Jacob Oil. That's how we and my wife came to be divorced."

BRITANNIA STANDS UNREVALLED.

Those troubled with rheumatism, who have tried other remedies and still find no relief, will certainly obtain relief within three days, and generally within six hours by taking Britannia. This great remedy was discovered by an eminent English physician of great experience, and who has never lost a patient to whom this medicine was administered. Britannia is not a lotion; no external application can permanently cure rheumatism, and the use of the ointment. Britannia is prepared with the greatest skill and a teaspoonful taken in a wineglass of cold water immediately finds its way to the blood, where it corrects the pathological element, removes it immediately by purifying the life-giving fluid, and gradually builds up the entire system. Persons who have of late years a valuable preparation in Utah, tell us that nothing ever did them so much good as Britannia has done. Many references in Salt Lake City and elsewhere can be given. Z. C. M. I. drug department is the agent for Utah. A fresh supply lately arrived. Price, 25 cents per bottle. Special rates to the trade.

Advocates of prohibition need have no fears of "Prickly Ash Bitters," as it is a medicine, and by reason of its cathartic properties cannot be used as a beverage. It is manufactured from the purest materials, and acts directly on the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels. As a blood purifier it has no equal. Is pleasant to the taste, and effective in its action.

Iron Bedsteads.—Something nice and substantial in the way of iron bedsteads, a new thing in Utah perhaps, but quite common in England, has been introduced as a home manufacture by Ephraim J. Beech, late of Birmingham, but now of this city. He is an experienced foundryman and iron worker, has been in this country about seven years, and has entered into the new enterprise with a zeal worthy of substantial recognition.

A news reporter visited his workshop at the Church Country, 18th Ward, yesterday, and saw perhaps a dozen bedsteads in course of construction, one quite finished, painted and elegantly grained with brass, and bronze mountings. They are a substantial manufacture, the entire frame being of cast and wrought iron, with sheet iron slats crossed and forming an excellent spring. His work should be seen and will then be appreciated. He offers his bedstead at the exceedingly moderate price of $15.
