NTERESTING developments came up here as the result of the San Francisco earthquake. It is thought it into its head to assist the commission by cemoving this immense obsta-cle from the path of the canal. It is thought that the Sau Fancisco carti-quake, was responsible for the land-slide. Covernment engineers and sci-entists have been at work here taking observations of the phenomena and al-thought they have as yet made an offithough they have as yet made no offical Seport it is thought that the result of hour-investigations will make interesting reading. They say that as near as they can figure, the landslide, which was only a part of possible conditions, left here the morning of the cartiquaks, was directly caused by the San Francisco disaster,—Panama Lefter to the Hartford Courant, by a trembling of the earth which was distinctly felt.

Little work was done that day, every one who could get away traveling to the scene of the landslide to view its effect. A whole section of the moontain, weighing thousands of tons (tonially beyond my ability to estimate), had parted company with the rest of the peak and gone careening down a long slope. The neculiar part of it is that the section which has fallen away was directly in the path of the count.

Women in the Mint.

The adjusting of the coin is the most dimes car interesting part of the whole process. This requires a delicateness of touch which is more highly developed in woman than in man, and on account of her superior qualification in this respect this department is in her charge.

Here the coin is first "selected"—that is, pieces which show the slightest imperfection or roughness are thrown out; those which pass successfully through the skilled flugers are sent to the long tables where another set of women weigh each one on delicate scales. If a coin is too heavy a portion is filed off; if too light it is thrown out to be remelted. Some of these women have become so expert as to handle a thousand pieces a day.
