LOCAL BRIEFS.

The examinations for the graduation of pupils of the county schools were begun at Murray today and will last for several days.

Rabbi Reynolds will deliver the third of his series of lectures on "The Literature of the Prophets," at the Jewish synagogue this evening. All are welcome.

J. S. Daveler has been chosen to represent Salt Lake at the National convention of the Typographical union, which will be held in Birmingham, Ala., in August.

Thomas P. Bigney, civil and mining engineer, is one of the aspirants to the office left vacant by the resignation of City Engineer Kelsey. He has not, however, filed his application yet.

The funeral of the late John B. Rogers will be held on Sunday next from the New Grand theater under the auspices of the Elks, and the Utah batteries. The interment will be made in Mt. Olivet.

E. E. Abercrombie, the Boston mine promoter, has left for Boston with the remains of his wife who died at the Knottford hotel on Wednesday. He desired that nothing be said of her death until after he had departed for the East.

The remains of W. D. Palmer, who expired very suddenly on Tuesday last, in the office of Dr. Fosmer, were shipped to Newman, Ga., last night, accompanied by Secretary Charles W. Johnson, of the Houston Real Estate company. A sister of the deceased had come to have the remains sent to her home at the place named.

John L. Peck, of 925 South First West street, died at the Holy Cross hospital last evening after having been operated on for a very aggravated case of appendicitis. Peck was an employee of the Wood Grover company, and was a member of Camp 253, Woodmen of the World. He leaves a wife and children, the youngest being but two weeks old.

At a meeting of twenty-four letter-carriers in the Dooly block last night, the shirtwaist was discussed and fourteen of those present thought they would like to try it, but the other ten were decidedly hostile to the innovation in man's attire. The carriers will wait until a full attendance can be had and then the matter will be brought up again.

The new cars that have been placed on the Salt Lake company's Waterloo line are models of their kind. They have several improvements over any others that are in use here. Instead of a sign being on the sides of the cars, to indicate what line they are on, there is a change in the color of the end, which is changed at the beginning of each trip and indicates where the car is going.

Chief of Police Hilton, and Patrol Driver Marcella Cannon returned last evening from the north, where they purchased a team for the patrol wagon. Officer Cannon reports that they had secured a fine team of boys weighing about 2,500, and he says they will make the best team the department ever had. They were purchased in Clarkston and will be here Sunday night or Monday morning.

This morning a Chinaman named Charlie Sing, who makes a living by selling vegetables, was brutally assaulted by a messenger boy of the Western Union company. The assault occurred on East Temple street, and according to eyewitnesses, it was very ugly. The boy began tormenting the Chinaman by pelting his wagon with missiles, and when asked to stop, he struck Sing several blows in the face, and mounting on top of the wagon, he threw Sing into the air, and then he ran away. Sing is now in town to learn the boy's name and have him arrested.

John Sparks, the prominent stockman of Reno, passed through the city yesterday afternoon on his return from the East. Just before reaching this city he received a telegram from his former business partner, A. J. Harrell, of Nevada, California, announcing the death of his father, Jasper Harrell. The deceased was a native of Georgia, but came to the western country in 1850, and later became such a prominent cattle dealer that he was known by cattlemen from Texas to Canada. He was also an extensive real estate owner in Los Angeles, where he owned the Hotel Nada.

The map of the main line of subways of the Bell telephone wires in the paved district of this city is as follows: From First South, Harrell, of South street to West Temple; on Second South street from State street to First West; on Third South street from State street to West Temple; on West Temple street from Third South street to First West; on Main street from Third South street to Fifth South. The cost of the work, apart from the cable, will be $15,000, and $150,000 will be about the cost of the total subways, mainly laid in the city and all in the paved district of the city.

TO INSPECT THE GUARD.

Lieut. Col. Lund Ordered to Do So at Least Twice Each Year.

Headquarters First Brigade, N. G. U., Salt Lake City, Utah, May 16, 1901. General Orders No. 3—

I. In accordance with the direction of General Orders No. 3, Adjutant General's office, 1901, Lieutenant Colonel H. M. H. Lund, assistant inspector general, First Brigade, N. G. U., is hereby directed to inspect the organizations of the National Guard of Utah at least twice and not to exceed four times a year, at such times as he may designate, and will forward reports to these headquarters of everything of great importance or of such a nature as to require immediate attention, and of all inspections held during the year on or before the first day of December of each year. In setting the dates for inspection, the convenience of the respective organizations should be taken into consideration, and ample time be given to commanders in which to notify their commands. The inspections should be thorough and made to cover as specified in G. O. No. 9, these headquarters series 1901.

The expense and travel involved are necessary for the public service. By order of Brigadier General JOHN C. CANNON, D. H. WELLS JR., Lieut. Col. and Asst. Adj. Gen'l.

MACHINISTS MEET.

No Walk-out in Utah is Anticipated on Monday.

The meeting called by the International Association of Machinists brought out about twenty local iron workers at the G. A. R. hall last night. At the close of the secret session the men when approached stated that they had nothing to give out regarding the business which was transacted. From the all attendance and the lack of interest shown after the meeting had adjourned it was apparent that there will be no strike on Monday. The men absolutely refuse to discuss the matter in any shape or form. Those in charge of the railroad shops, together with the employers of labor in the machine shops in this city today stated they do not anticipate any walk-out on Monday. The men generally are satisfied with existing circumstances and are not in favor of taking a vacation without pay and the remote chance of not going back to work again, consequently it is safe to assert that there will be no strike in Utah next week.

At a meeting of twenty-four letter-carriers in the Dooly block last night, the shirtwaist was discussed and fourteen of those present thought they would like to try it, but the other ten were decidedly hostile to the innovation in man's attire. PARK WILL CASE IS INTERESTING.

Contest of Mrs. Hilton is Being Fought Hard

THE DOCTOR WAS ANNOYED

When Told That It Was Likely That Miss Armitage Would Live—Controversy Over the Deeds.

At the adjournment of the equity division of the Third district court yesterday evening a continuance of the Park will contest case was taken till 10 o'clock Monday morning.

The "News" report yesterday closed with the commencement of the reading of the deposition of Mrs. Hannah C. Wells, at the conclusion of which a twenty minutes' recess was taken. The defense then began the introduction of testimony and before adjournment eight of its witnesses had been examined.

During the reading of portions of Mrs. Wells' deposition it was with difficulty that many of the listeners checked a disposition to laugh. For instance, when the deposition dealt with the conversation between Dr. Park and the deponent the recovery of Anne Armitage after her sealing to Dr. Park on her supposed death bed.

"I thought he was annoyed when I told him that I thought she would recover," reads the deposition, "and I remarked that Dr. Park was not very proud of his bride." Another statement of the deponent was to the effect that her husband, Dr. Park, had told her that he had delivered to him the certificate of the deponent's marriage to stand in the event of Miss Armitage's death, and would repudiate it if she lived. With the conclusion of the reading of the deposition plaintiff rested her prima facie case.

After a twenty minutes' recess the defense called to the witness stand Judge S. W. Stewart, the executor under Dr. Park's will, who testified that he discovered among Dr. Park's papers the certificate of the sealing and the Church separation. He had not shown these papers to anyone or spoken of their existence till after Mrs. Hilton had commenced her suit for a widow's share in the estate left by Dr. Park. On motion of Judge Powers this testimony was stricken out as being immaterial.

Dr. J. T. Kingsbury testified that he had known Dr. Park for twenty-seven years, and that he had delivered to him the certificate of the sealing and the Church separation. He had not shown these papers to anyone or spoken of their existence till after Mrs. Hilton had commenced her suit for a widow's share in the estate left by Dr. Park. On motion of Judge Powers this testimony was stricken out as being immaterial.

George F. Gibbs said that he had introduced the plaintiff to Dr. Park as they were leaving England in 1892 on their way to Utah. He was in charge of the business of the emigration office of the "Mormon" Church at that time.

Mrs. Eleanor Brown testified that she was a passenger on the boat which brought Dr. Park and his wife, Miss Armitage, to Salt Lake City. She had never noticed any particular attentions paid by the doctor to plaintiff, Mrs. Eliza Trowbridge remembered going for Dr. Park on the day of the celestial marriage, and bringing him to Miss Armitage's bedside. She said that Miss Armitage in talking to her of the ceremony afterwards had stated that she was only sealed and free to marry if she wished.

A lawyer called then and offered evidence in an abstract of Dr. Park's conveyances of property since 1888, in which deeds the grantor claimed to be a single man. Other instruments were produced to show that Annie F. A. Hilton acknowledged herself as William's wife. Judge Powers objected to the introduction of these deeds as declaratory, on the ground that Dr. Park's declaration that he was unmarried was not conclusive testimony. The point at issue was whether or not there had been a marriage. A sealing for eternity, he said, could not be recognized by the law. The admissibility of the deeds into the evidence will be argued and passed on on Monday morning.

THEY HAVE A JOLLY TIME.

University First Year Normal Class Give a Trolley Party.

The first year normal class of the University, which is known as the "Orphan," class, because its stout refusal to have a god father, contrary to all precedent, went spinning over the city last evening in four of the city railway company's open cars. There were about 250 "orphans," and over a dozen of their friends, and there wasn't a weak lunged individual in the party.

The noise they made with their tin horns must have been similar to that made by the Israelites when they assaulted the walls of Jericho when they assaulted the walls of their rams' horns. The party was under the chaperonage of Mrs. J. T. Kingsbury. Mrs. Richard R. Lyman, Miss Maud May Babcock, Mrs. Harvey Holmes, Mrs. Jeannette S. Ferguson, Mrs. W. W. Riter and Mrs. Georgina M. Wilkinson. Others who accompanied the students were: Prof. W. M. Stewart, Prof. D. R. Allen and Instructors L. E. Young and Harvey Holmes.

The cars were brilliantly illuminated on the outside and were draped with the glass colors. These gay decorations, together with the songs, cheers, college yell, tin horns and merry laughter, made it one of the jolliest trolley parties ever pulled off in this vicinity.

MARCOTT BACK IN GAY PLUMAGE.

Brought Back to Salt Lake by Sheriff Naylor After a Hard Fight

BEFORE JUSTICE KROEGER.

Placed Under $2,500, in Default of Which He Went Back to Jail—Los Angeles Abduction Story.

In plumage that was in strange contradiction with his surroundings, A. W. Clapp, alias Marcott, the man brought back by Sheriff Naylor yesterday from Los Angeles, was taken before Justice Kroeger, where he was arraigned until Monday. He was next at 10 o'clock, and where he was placed under $2,500 bonds, in default of which he was remanded to the custody of the county jailer.

As was remembered, Marcott was apprehended at Los Angeles on the charge of defrauding various Salt Lake banks by means of bogus advertising contracts. Sheriff Naylor went to Los Angeles for him and experienced considerable difficulty there through a persistent effort on the part of Marcott's friends to obtain his release on habeas corpus proceedings. Concerning these efforts the Los Angeles Express of Monday last says:

"One of the boldest attempts to railroad a prisoner out of this county was barely nipped in the bud this morning. All arrangements had been made to rush A. W. Clapp, charged with forgery, out of the county, but through the efforts of Sheriff Naylor, who would have boarded a train with his prisoner and almost before the lawyers here could have realized what had happened Mr. Clapp would have been in Utah."

The hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings had gone over from last Friday until today. Promptly at 10 o'clock Clapp and his sister and the two young ladies who are so interested in the case appeared in court with their lawyers, Earl Rogers and Luther Brown. It was explained to the court that proceedings against the defendant were also to be heard in Justice Morgan's court and Judge Smith excused the party until a few moments later.

"Mr. Elton," said Brown, "I have a carriage waiting for us. We'll meet you, Mr. Brown, at the justice's room in a few minutes."

While passing the original Talyho stable, Clapp remarked: "Well, Clapp and I are going in here. I have a carriage waiting for us. We'll meet you, Mr. Brown, at the justice's room in a few minutes."

"What's the meaning of this, Mr. Benedict?" said Mr. Brown. "Is it customary for you constables to take your prisoners around the corner in surreys drawn by such teams as this?" Brown then turned to the stableman and ordered the fastest team in the barn prepared, to be ready for instant use as soon as possible. The men left to work in a few moments.

"I don't want to be fooled by any such play as that. He stepped into the stable with the two men, and as he did so he noticed a fine surveyor hunched up and ready for instant service. The horses looked like the best in the stable."

"What's the meaning of this, Mr. Benedict?" said Mr. Brown. "Is it customary for you constables to take your prisoners around the corner in surreys drawn by such teams as this?" Brown then turned to the stableman and ordered the fastest team in the barn prepared, to be ready for instant use as soon as possible. The men left to work in a few moments.

While the hitching up process was going on Brown telephoned for the chief of police and Mr. Elton arrived on the scene in a few moments. "Mr. Elton," said Brown, "you are all making yourselves liable to contempt of court by this proceeding."

"I am acting under the advice and by the authority of my superior," said Benedict, "and I am not to be trifled with. Then I repeat, Mr. Elton, that this is a very grave matter," remarked Brown. Moving to the head of the horses hitched to the surrey, he continued:

"The prisoner here is due to appear before Justice Morgan at 10 o'clock. It is perfectly evident to me that there is some trick hatching in all this by the sheriff of Utah is intending to make the surrey go to Salt Lake City. Now I demand that Mr. Benedict proceed with the prisoner immediately before Justice Morgan in order that the habeas corpus proceedings and the proceedings against Clapp be put to rest. Justice may be continued."

"I am sure I know nothing about any intentions on the part of anybody of flouting this man unlawfully out of the county," said the chief of police. "Nor do I see that a carriage such as this, or any rig at all, is needed to take the man around to Justice Morgan's court. Proceed with your prisoner, Benedict, and give up the carriage ride."

Sheriff Naylor had been lying in wait down on the corner of Second and Broadway. He was informed by the parties interested in the mysterious whoring of the surrey, and came up to the justice court in time to hear Luther Brown move that the case be continued until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The teams were left standing in the stable yard, for instead of for nearly an hour, and were then unhitched.

In the meantime habeas corpus proceedings in the case were resumed before Judge Smith in department one of the superior court. Earl Rogers, the defendant's attorney, contended that there was insufficient evidence before the governor when the latter acted upon the case and issued the extradition papers. But after looking over the evidence offered and reading through the affidavits, etc., Judge Smith declared that there was too much proof before the court that everything had been complied with regularly according to the laws of California and Utah, justify him in denying the validity of the extradition documents, and the prisoner was accordingly remanded to the custody of Sheriff Naylor, who will leave with Clapp on the 5 o'clock train.

Children who are weak, fretful or troublesome should be given a few doses of WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE. They will then become strong, healthy and active, have rosy cheeks, bright eyes, will be happy and laughing all the day long. Price, 25 cents. Z. C. M. I.
