FRAGMENTS.

Don't forget the peoples' primaries in the various precincts to-night. This morning Godfrey Leonard killed a scorpion on his lot on Prospect Hill.

LEON AND CUSHMAN'S minstrel Comedy Company on the 24th and 25th at the Theatre.

LEBARON HARRINGTON was arrested this morning, charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

FOURTH QUORUM of Seventies meet at the 21st Ward Meeting House, tomorrow evening at 7:30.

The four day excursion to Provo, Payson and Nephi, leaves the Utah Central depot at 7:30 a.m. on the 24th.

Last night's Central Pacific train did not arrive in Ogden until nearly 2 a.m. The cause of the delay is not known.

A MAN was before the Police Justice this morning charged with leaving a team unattended in the street. He was fined a dollar.

OFFICER HILTON's examination for Sheriff Dowd, who he had in arrest will take place on Wednesday at 10 a.m., before Commissioner McKay.

The culvert at the corner of Second South and First East streets, was being cleaned out and repaired this morning. The water had overflowed a good part of the street.

The owner of some homesteaded boots opened the gate to Jennings Brothers slaughter house Saturday night and let twenty head of cattle out. The beefs were recaptured but boots are still at large.

TICKETS for the Verdi Club's performance of "Auntie Whitehead and the Excursion Party," in the 21st Ward, at 8 o'clock to-morrow evening, are on sale at Dwyer's, Pembroke's, Daynes and Conliffe's and Calder's Music Store.

The Utah Central will issue round trip tickets at single fare, on July 23rd and 24th, good for return until the evening of the 25th. This was done on July 4th and proved most agreeable to the public and probably no less so to the railroad company, judging from the number carried.

That spring at the Nelson corner South Temple street is still allowed to discharge its waters into the public thoroughfare, where it is fast converting it into a vast madhouse. Property owners in the locality in question and carriage drivers who choose that street for their afternoon drive are getting impatient over the delay which prevents its being attended to.

LOCAL NEWS.

Returned from Ogden. — Presidents John Taylor, George Q. Cannon, and Joseph F. Smith and the brethren who accompanied them to Ogden, last week, to attend the Weber Stake Conference on Saturday and Sunday, returned to this city last evening.

Brought to the Pen. — Captain Hawley, detective, Saturday evening, brought to this city from Provo, Edward Watterson, charged with stealing cigars and shoes, on the P. & R. Co. Western Railroad. Watterson had a hearing before U. S. Commissioner A. O. Belmont, Jr., at Provo, and pleading guilty was held in $1,000 to answer at the next session of the First District Court. Being unable to procure bail, he was brought to the Penitentiary for safe keeping.

People's Primaries. — The primary meetings of the People's Party, at which delegates will be chosen to attend the County Convention next Saturday, will be held in the several precincts at half-past 7 o'clock to-night. All citizens of the People's Party should attend and assist in the proceedings. This is not an election; remember, but a meeting of citizens to choose delegates to represent them in nominating the party's ticket for the general election of August 4th. Don't slip away under the mistaken impression that your presence will do no good, and your vote be invalid. It is not a question of voting at the election at all. That is another matter entirely. Go to the primaries and do your duty as members of the People's Party, in selecting the men who are to represent you in the nominating convention.

The Crackman's Latent. — The burglar is not content any more with going into houses through private dwelling houses and clearing the pockets of the inmates of any loose cash that may have been left there, nor does he seem to find room for the development of his genius in the simple pilfering of a few watches, shoes or brown vests. He has sought a nobler employment for his ambitious talents, and last night perpetrated the thing by an assault on the meat market of Jennings Brothers on First South Street. This he managed to investigate in a thoroughly businesslike way, probably to his own complete satisfaction, and again left without exciting the attention of anybody or leaving any clue for the police to work on. The definite amount of the loss has not yet been ascertained.

The Daily Burglary. — Burglaries are becoming so frequent, it is probable the local reporter will soon begin to look upon them in the light of a staple, though the prospect is also imminent that the subject will become so hackneyed as to be devoid of interest to any excepting the hero and victim of such exploits. On Sunday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, the house of Mrs. Hill, mother of Samuel Hill, Esq., half a block south of the County Court House, was entered by some one who broke open a trunk and carried away some jewelry. Mrs. Hill was taking her afternoon nap at the time, and was the only person in the house. One of the children had gone to the Post Office, and on returning, discovered what had taken place. The thief entered by the front door, which was slightly ajar, and from all we could learn, succeeded in getting away unseen. Next!

A Fine Anthem. — One of the finest musical compositions, by a home author, ever rendered in public, was sung by the Tabernacle Choir yesterday afternoon at the close of the services. It was the new anthem by Joseph J. Daynes, to words by John Nicholson, entitled "The Nations bow to Satan's Thrill," first rendered at Miss Olsen's benefit in the Theatre, a short time since, and for the second time yesterday. It undoubtedly ranks among the best pieces ever attempted by the choir, and possesses merit, unequalled in its line for many years by a home composer. The grand organ enhanced the effect wonderfully, making it seem almost another thing entirely, though it created a marked favorable impression before. Miss Agnes Olsen sang the soprano solo, and Mr. T. C. Crawford the male solo. Both did splendidly, as did the choros, organist and other instrumentalists, all led by Brother J. Beezley.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

REMARKS MADE AT THE TABERNACLE.

Bishop O. F. Whitney was the first speaker. He referred to the Gospel of Christ as the only medium of that salvation which should be the chief object of earthly existence, life in this sphere being designed as a school to prepare us for society and circumstances to be met with in the life to come. This was the belief of the Latter-day Saints and their testimony to the world. A commission had been given them to preach the Gospel, and it was made obligatory upon them to labor for the eternal welfare of their fellow creatures, as well as for their own. The speaker touched upon the restoration of the Gospel, quoting the words of John on Patmos in reference to the angel that was to deliver it at a period briefly preceding the hour of God's judgment. He also quoted Isaiah, Jeremiah and other prophets, in reference to the work of the Lord in latter times, and its character and location as a gathering of scattered Israel into the "tops of the mountains." He took up the prophecy of Daniel, who interpreted the dream of Nebuchadnezzar, King of Babylon, compared it with subsequent history, and showed how literally it had been and was being fulfilled.

The successive empires of Babylon, Medo-Persia, Macedonia and Rome, typified in the body of the mighty image seen in the king's dream, had all been broken in pieces and had passed away; but it was in the days of ten contemporaneous kingdoms, into which the Roman power would be divided, that the God of heaven was to set up a kingdom that should "never be destroyed." Some tried to make it appear that Christ set up that kingdom in the meridian of time, and that modern Christianity was the "little stone" which was breaking in pieces the man-made governments of the earth. The speaker said it seemed to him as if something had broken Christianity into pieces, if one might judge from its divided and disrupted condition. Besides, the view referred to, which was held by many Christian commentators, did not agree with the terms of Daniel's prophecy nor the events of after history. When Christ came to Judea, the Roman empire was in the zenith of its power, and not till A. D. 380 was it divided in twain into the Eastern and Western empires. Theodosius, for instance, some traditions and historians thus made to answer the description symbolized by the iron legs of Nebuchadnezzar's image.

But to-day there were ten kingdoms, so said Bible scholars, which grew out of the Roman power when it went to pieces, and they were typical of the ten of the prophetic image. So that this was the proper time for the God of heaven to set up his kingdom, and this was the testimony of the Latter-day Saints in relation to it. The "little stone" had commenced to roll, and though despised and contemptible in the eyes of the world, it was to roll on like a snowball from the mountain top, and by merest accident, but really by design of Almighty God, it would continue to roll and gather until "it became a great mountain and filled the whole earth." This was thought by some to be treason for the God of heaven and maker of the earth to come and rule over his own realm and people—but it was the kind of treason, and the only kind, the Latter-day Saints believed in. It seemed strange to him that "Christians" should be hostile to this idea. One might suppose the rulers of the earth would be ready to receive the King of kings with open arms, and laying their crowns and scepters at His feet, unite in hailing Him King and Lord of all. But it was treason for the Latter-day Saints to preach this, or to talk about the advent of that kingdom which God said He would set up, that He might come and reign a thousand years over his children upon the earth. The speaker prayed that the Almighty would speed His work, not for the destruction and damnation of men, but for their salvation and the honor and glory of His own great name.

The congregation was next addressed briefly by Elder John Nicholson, who dwelt specially upon that portion of the subject treated by the previous speaker, relating to the restoration of the fulness of the Gospel in the latter days. He showed that the proclamation of the Angel seen by John on Patmos was to the entire population of the earth. This indicated that no class of people, at the time the message was sent, would be in possession of the pure plan of salvation. The speaker showed the evidence in favor of the proposition that all had gone out of the way, by making a clear comparison between the doctrine taught by Christ and His apostles and that promulgated by the various churches claiming to be Christian.

PERSONAL.

Bishop Wm. B. Preston is expected back from Logan this evening.

Apostle John W. Taylor returned last evening from Nephi, where he attended the Jubilee Stake Conference, Saturday and Sunday. Apostle Grant, who was also present, returned to-day.

Elder James H. Hart, of Bloomington, Bear Lake County, who returned from New York three weeks ago, is in the city and called in to-day. He expected to go home to-day.

Mrs. E. T. Whitson, from Soda Springs, is in town, her friends will find her at the Spencer House.

Mrs. Hannah T. King has gone on a visit to her son for a few weeks. Her address will be also, Cassia Co., via Kelton, Idaho.

Brother Austin Brown, formerly of Ogden, is down from the Snake River country, and made one call this morning.

President L. Snow came down on the Utah Central this morning.

Jacob Morris returned from the North this morning via the Utah Central.

Our smiling friend Joe Wright of Ogden brought his life size photograph to the city on the 10:30 train this morning.

Hon. Jos. C. Rich and lady have come from Bear Lake to Salt Lake. The change from fresh water to salt was suggested by well wishers. They arrived this morning all well.

Mr. Glass called to-day and introduced Mr. E. M. Spain of the Studebaker Factory, South Bend, Ind., a pleasant gentleman who has spent several days in Salt Lake, and will return to-morrow.

The Twelfth. — The twelfth book of the "Faith-promoting series" has been issued by the Juvenile Instructor office. It is a work of nearly 100 pages and entitled "Lakes in the Vineyard." It contains complete experiences of a number of prominent brethren while engaged in preaching the Gospel in various lands, forming a series of exceedingly interesting narratives, some of which include relations of adventures most of a thrilling, signal manifestations of divine interposition, and exhibitions of the power of God. The little work is a gem in its line, and we commend it to the special perusal of the young, while people of mature years can also read it with profit. It is sold at the moderate price of 25 cents.

TERRITORIAL NEWS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

—The new Methodist church in Heber City, Utah, is completed. —Park City is going to try and raise $1,000 to build a Methodist church.

—The worms have invaded Heber City and are going for the vegetables. —Patrick Egan, who was shot by Murphy a few days ago at Park City, died on Friday last.

—Sammy, Wyoming, 14½ years old, at the appearance of some twenty cases of scarlet fever. —The northern Cheyenne Indians, located on the Tongue and Rosebud rivers, are reported to be starving.

—The Bannock Stake Quarterly Conference has been postponed until the last Saturday and Sunday of September. —A fire occurred at Hober City last Tuesday, the 18th, destroying the house and household effects of Richard Barnes.

—All passenger trains have been taken off the Oregon Short Line Railway, between Granger and Pocatello, for the present. —Bishop Thos. Rasband, of the Heber Stake, is very sick, the result of a runaway accident he met with a short time ago.

—C. C. Goodwin, registration officer for Cache County, had a finger cut off a few days ago by a moving machine. It was sewed on again. —The Blackfoot Indians charge toll for crossing their reservation. Ten cents each for horses and two cents for sheep is the rate.

—It is estimated that Montana has on her ranges 600,000 head of cattle and will ship East 140,000 steers for beef during the present year. —Sheepmen in western Montana are trying to hire men to shear their flocks at the rate of eight cents per head. The shearers want ten cents, and both sides are determined to hold out.

—J. Hensworth, a passenger on the U. P. from California, en route for Canada, died from the effects of alcohol drinking on Tuesday last. An inquest was held on the body in Laramie. —The members of the Utah Commission, who took a trip to Cache Valley a few days since, are going up Blacksmith's Fork Cañon towards Bear Lake and expect to return to this city via Evanston in about a week.

—Danford about met with a serious accident last Tuesday in Providence Cañon, Cache County. A rolling log struck him and knocked him against another with the result that his body was badly crushed. Two fingers of one hand, which was caught between the trees, have been amputated. —Volney King, Esq., writes from Kyoto, Gardfield Co., Utah, under date of the 14th inst., that matters in the Clover Field district of Grass Valley are prosperous. The crops look well and stock are all fat. A steam saw mill is going up in close proximity. One meeting house has been erected and three Sunday Schools have been established in Maricopa Ward, which was only organized a year since.

Democratic Ratification. — The meeting of Democrats in the Federal Court Room, Saturday evening, for the purpose of ratifying the nomination of Cleveland and Hendricks, was well marked for its numbers or enthusiasm. W. C. Hall presided and S. W. Darke acted as Secretary.

Ben Sheeks presented a resolution to the effect that "we endorse the nominations made at Chicago," and afterwards being called on, addressing the assembly. He proclaimed himself a Democrat, eulogized Governor Cleveland and spoke against the policy of the Republican party.

J. L. Hawkins followed much in the same strain, and referred to the first act of Congress in relation to the actual settlers on the public lands, as being the work of a Democratic administration. At this point George R. Maxwell, a Republican, arose and interrupted the speaker, but was promptly "shut down on" and Mr. Hawkins proceeded. He advocated the "separation of Church and State" in Utah, the "religion of religion to its proper sphere," etc., and arraigned the Republicans for "promising to settle" a certain local issue and not doing it, and having thus shown where he stood on the "Mormon" question, went on with political matters till he closed.

Robert A. Wadhill was the next speaker, and he was followed by S. A. Kenner in a pithy speech, and he by H. D. Johnson (who was also interrupted by Maxwell and Mr. Chamberlain) and Mr. Hendricks were given and the meeting came to a close.

That Pistol Shot. — The bullet from Officer Holdaway's pistol, accidentally discharged by dropping on the slide, walked near this office, Saturday afternoon, sped in a south-easterly direction and passing through the window of a bedroom in General Wells' house, spent its force and fell upon the floor, where it was picked up shortly afterwards by a member of the family. Mrs. Susan Wells was sitting in an adjoining room at the time, and heard the report but not the crash of the pistol ball through the glass and casement. One of General Wells' daughters on entering the room a little later, saw what had been done, but thought it was by a base ball, or some such projectile, as the aperture in the window was so large. The finding of the bullet, however, made the matter clear. The ash was raised, so that the ball, after piercing the shutter, passed through two panes of glass, tore along the casing inside and striking a door on the other side of the apartment, fell to the floor. It is needless to say it was fortunate no one happened to be in the way of the lethal messenger. This is obvious at a glance.

The Old Folks. — The tickets for the veterans to-morrow are nearly all gone and care for their accommodation have been engaged to the number of thirty. Contributions of all kinds, including such important items as good things for the inner man, have been rolling into the committee's hands and have kept them busy.

Most of the yards have arranged to convey their people to the depot in vehicles. It should also be seen to that the vehicles are on hand to take the tired excursionists to their homes on the return of the train in the evening. At such a time the street cars will be inadequate to the demands made upon them, and besides the street cars don't run past everybody's door.

Three brass bands from Utah County will be in attendance to enliven the scene with appropriate strains. The train leaves this city at 7:45 a.m., and returns at 7 p.m. It will be a special and gaily decorated. God bless the old folks!

Woman's Work. — Sisters E. R. Snow Smith, E. C. Clawson and Louie Park visited Sugar House Ward on Tuesday, and met with the Primary Association of that place in its annual meeting. The day following Sisters Clawson and Lydia Ann Wells were at West Jordan for a similar purpose, and yesterday attended a quarterly meeting of the Primary in the Fourth Ward.

Fatal Fire.

A fire caused by the attempt of a little girl named Knott to light a fire with coal, broke out in Ogden Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock. A loud explosion was the first indication of the trouble, and a moment later the girl, aged about eight years rushed into the street, her clothes all ablaze. A gentleman who held the shocking sight, threw a blanket over her and thought he had extinguished the flames. It transpired, however, that this was not the case. She was frightfully burned and died yesterday from her injuries. The damage to the house and furniture was slight, owing to the prompt response of the firemen.

The Primary Association of the 4th Ward had a pleasant re-union in the schoolhouse last Friday night. It was a very enjoyable affair.

Lost Faith in Physicians. There are innumerable instances where cures have been effected by Scott's Emulsion, or Blood and Liver Syrup, for all diseases of the blood, when they had been given over by their physicians. It is one of the best medicines in the world, and as it is prepared with the greatest care, as a specific for certain diseases, it is no wonder it should be more effectual than hastily tried and carelessly prepared prescriptions. Take this medicine, and you are saving from impure blood. It is endorsed by leading professional men.

SCOTT'S EMULSION. A valuable Blood Purifier. Dr. T. H. Newland, Jr., St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used it in disease of the urinary organs, such as gravel, and the result has been a very good result, and I think it a very valuable remedy in those diseases."
