EVENING NEWS.

Thursday, - - June 30, 1887.

FRAGMENTS.

THE Building Society meeting takes place this evening, at the City Hall.

C. C. SHAW, of Hyrum, Cache County, has been appointed a notary public.

BRIGHTON'S Silver Lake Hotel, Big Cottonwood, is now open to excursionists.

THE Home Dramatic Club will play "Green Lanes of England" on the Fourth, at the Theatre, afternoon and evening.

THE Ogden News announced yesterday that if no purchasers came in response to its offer to sell by to-day, the paper would be suspended.

A HOT air balloon was sent up about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by Hyde & Griffin, and attracted considerable attention as it floated over the eastern part of town.

THE firm of Solomon Brothers & Gold are turning out some excellent goods in the way of boots and shoes. They call attention to the same in a new advertisement to-day.

IN the case of the United States vs. James Smith, unlawful cohabitation, appealed from the First District Court, the Supreme Court yesterday affirmed the decision in the court below.

J. R. JOHNSON, who was sentenced by Judge Boreman to eight months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $200, for assault with a deadly weapon, and has served about one half of his time, has been pardoned by Governor West.

A SPECIAL rate of $1 for the round trip has been made by the D. & R. G. W. to Wasatch. The tickets are made good going on Saturdays and returning on Mondays, and can be obtained at the depot.

HON. JAMES SHARP has withdrawn from the list of speakers for the Fourth, owing to his time being too much occupied. He showed his sympathy with the move by making a substantial donation to assist in meeting the expenses.

Consecrated.

By reference to our dispatches today, it will be seen that Rev. Lawrence Scanlan, of this city, has been consecrated in San Francisco as the Catholic Bishop of this Territory. Mr. Scanlan is a good citizen and an efficient churchman.

Expected Next Wednesday.

A private telegram received in this city this morning from New York states that the steamer Wisconsin had just arrived there with a company of Saints in charge of Elder Quincy B. Nichols They leave New York to-day and are expected to arrive in this city next Wednesday. The whole company will come via the U. P.

Logan Temple Association.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the members of the Logan Temple Association will be held in the east room of the basement of the Logan Tabernacle on Monday, July 11th, 1887, at 2 p. m., to receive the report of the directors, and to transact such other business as may be necessary. A full attendance is requested.

N. C. EDLEFSEN,
Vice-President.

Logan, June 20th, 1887.

Lithotomy.

Yesterday afternoon Thos. Robertson, of Orderville, Kane County, underwent a painful surgical operation. For seven or eight years he has been a great sufferer, and yesterday Dr. F. W. Anderson, assisted by Drs. Hamilton and Hall, performed an operation upon him, removing two stones from the bladder. The lithos each measured two and a half inches in circumference and weighed five-eighths of an ounce. The patient is now progressing favorably.

Theatre on the Fourth.

Up to yesterday it looked as if the Theatre, one of the most popular places of resort on holidays, was to be closed on the coming Fourth, as Jeffreys Lewis, who held the date, wired Manager Clawson that she was not coming. Last evening the Home Dramatic Club decided on taking the date and reviving one of the most notable of their early successes, and probably the chief among their purely sensational achievements, "The Green Lanes of England." A matinee and night performance will be given, commencing at 2:45 and 8:45, somewhat later than usual, owing to the celebration exercises. All the members of the club, those who made the recent success of "Storm Beaten," will be in the cast.

Resolutions of Respect.

In the Territorial Supreme Court yesterday afternoon, Arthur Brown Esq., presented the following, which were ordered spread on the records of the Court:

Whereas, Death has removed from our midst, the Hon. John A. Hunter, late chief justice of the Supreme Court of Utah Territory, and

Whereas, to the high station which he filled and honored for so many years, he by his abilities as a judge and virtues as a man won the esteem and confidence of the bar and people of the Territory, and

Whereas, The bright career which was before him has been suddenly cut off; therefore,

Resolved, That we deeply deplore his death, not only as an individual bereavement, but as a public calamity.

Resolved, That in his decease the law lost one of its brightest ornaments and citizens and his family a devoted husband, dutiful son and loving father.

Resolved, That we recognize that he occupied this position at a time and under circumstances when it was peculiarly difficult, in consequence of the political character of many questions coming before him; that he met such questions with a bravery rare to be found and noble to be observed, and decided the same according to his convictions, whether it met the approval of the public or not, and we commend his course in this regard as eminently judicial.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved wife, daughter and mother of deceased, and the Supreme and District Courts of the Territory be requested to have the same spread upon their journals.

The Institute.

This forenoon easy experiments in science by Professor J. T. Kingsbury consisted of numerous instructive experiments on water and air.

An educational reading entitled "Christianity and Popular Education," was given by C. M. Sorensen. This article treated principally upon the necessity of industrial training in connection with our common school course.

The committee on Scholar's Term Reports, gave it as their opinion that a report should be made out at the end of every term and presented for the parents' inspection. A form of report was submitted to the consideration of the teachers, which was unanimously adopted.

Meeting adjourned until 2 p. m.

C. M. SORENSEN, Sec.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

The Body Organizes and Begins Work.

For the sixth time since the settlement of Utah Territory, a convention of delegates to frame a State Constitution met and organized to-day.

The Legislative Chamber in the City Hall in this city had been provided for the occasion, and desks and tables prepared for the members. Over the stand for the presiding officers of the Convention was neatly festooned the national flag. Above this was a white star fringed with gold, and decorated with the stars and stripes. On the white ground of the star was the inscription, in red and blue letters,

"UTAH A STATE."

On either side of the stand hung a large map of Utah.

At 12 o'clock, noon, there was a large attendance of delegates from the various counties in the Territory. The assemblage was called to order at the appointed time by Col. John R. Winder, chairman of the Territorial Central Committee of the People's Party, who nominated Judge Warren N. Dusenberry, of Utah County, as temporary chairman.

Judge Dusenberry received the unanimous vote of the delegates, and took the chair.

On motion of Hon. James Sharp, C. C. Richards, Esq., of Weber County, was elected temporary secretary.

Hon. J. T. Hammond moved that the chairman appoint a committee of five on credentials. The motion was carried, and Judge Dusenberry named, as the

COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS:

Hons. James T. Hammond, of Cache County; Junius F. Wells, of Salt Lake County; Samuel R. Thurman, of Utah County; J. P. Christiansen, of Sanpete County, and W. H. Seegmiller, of Sevier County.

The committee on credentials retired to consider the business before them, and a recess of fifteen minutes was taken.

At 12:40 p. m. the convention resumed its session, and chairman Hammond, of the committee on credentials, made the following report, showing who were present and entitled to seats as

DELEGATES:

The report of the committee was accepted.

The roll was called, all being present except F. R. Clayton, of Beaver, W. A. C. Bryan, of Juab, and R. C. Lund, of Washington.

Hon. E. A. Smith moved that the convention proceed to a permanent organization by the election of a President, two Vice-Presidents, Secretary, assistant Secretary, Messenger and Sergeant-at-Arms. The motion was carried.

Hon. F. S. Richards nominated

HON. JOHN T. CAINE AS PRESIDENT of the convention. Mr. Caine was unanimously elected.

Hon. W. H. Seegmiller nominated Hon. E. G. Woolley, of Washington County, as First Vice President. Mr. Woolley was elected.

Hon. Joseph Howells nominated Hon. J. T. Hammond as second Vice President. Mr. Hammond was elected.

H. M. Wells, Esq., was nominated by Hon. E. A. Smith for secretary, and elected.

On the nomination of Junius F. Wells, Esq., Robert W. Sloan was elected assistant secretary.

On the nomination of Hon. Wm. Creer, Thomas Harris, Esq., was chosen sergeant-at-arms.

Hon. John T. Caine, having been notified of his election, here entered the room, and was received with applause. He spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

I thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me. I appreciate this token of your confidence, and with your forbearance and assistance I hope to be able to discharge the duties of this responsible position to your satisfaction.

We have met here to-day as the representatives of the people of Utah, to frame a constitution embodying their views of government, and to take such steps as may appear necessary to obtain the admission of Utah into the Union as a

FREE AND SOVEREIGN STATE.

Our authority to act in these most important matters comes from the people. Under the institutions of this republic, the people are the source of all political power. This principle of popular sovereignty is fundamental to the system of government under which we live. It is the very essence of true republicanism, the vital breath of pure democracy. In the United States the men who occupy the position of rulers are but the servants of the sovereign people. They govern in that capacity and therefore the people are really self-governed. The national authorities express the will of the whole nation. Local authorities voice the views of the people of their locality.

If we had assembled by virtue of some legislative enactment, our authority would have come indirectly, instead of coming, as now, directly from the people. There are some official acts which, to be lawful, must be done under legislative authority. Our proceedings are not necessarily of that nature. There is no established rule or legal requirement that renders legislative action necessary to a popular convention.

THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE

to peaceably assemble and petition the government for redress of grievances is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. It would be a popular right if never expressed in a written instrument. It is natural and inherent. It belongs to the people in the Territories as much as those in the States, no matter what extreme views many be taken of the political feebleness of the territorial system. The grievances of the people of this Territory are chiefly involved in their lack of participation in the affairs of the government under which they exist, and statehood will afford them the only real and permanent relief. Their right to take the measures that have brought us together as their delegates is one that cannot be successfully disputed. Our authority then to perform the delicate and onerous task entrusted is ample, and we may proceed with the fullest confidence.

THE CONSTITUTION

which we are here to fashion, for the people to adopt, should be broad and liberal and conservative of the rights of all who shall be affected by its provisions. This is not a convention representing merely one class or section; it has no religious bearing or proclivities; this is a political body entrusted with political powers to bring about political issues. The rights and privileges of minorities must be held as sacred as those of majorities and treated in that spirit. What Utah wants is a government of the people in which no individual shall be deprived of any right or denied any privilege, that can be justly claimed under republican institutions.

Heretofore there have been obstacles that have prevented the recognition of Utah's claims for free government. These obstacles freely and frankly if we expect success. If we can honorably meet the demands of the country so as to bring this part of the body politic into that harmony with the rest of the nation which it is claimed has not previously existed, and place Utah on the highway to a prosperous and happy union with the glorious sisterhood of free and sovereign States, we shall perform a noble work and gain the approbation of the wise and just of the present and succeeding generations.

I am proud to be associated with men of such intelligence, ability and recognized worth as those whom I see before me to-day, and I trust our association will be both pleasurable to ourselves and profitable to the people whose interests we represent as a labor of love. I am with you heart and soul in this earnest effort to lift up to the plane she was destined to occupy, and hope and believe that our work will be crowned with complete success.

Let us be diligent, careful, untiring and devoted to this cause, and our reward will be in the shouts of "Victory!" which will greet the enrollment of Utah on the records of the nation, and her star shining on the flag of our country gleaming with the loyalty and devotion to this glorious republic of a freed, grateful and happy people.

Mr. Caine was frequently interrupted with applause.

Heber. S. Cutler, Esq., was nominated as Messenger of the Convention, by Hon. James Sharp, and was elected.

Hon. E. A. Smith moved that Justice George D. Pyper administer the oath to the delegates and officers of the convention.

Hon. J. T. Hammond did not see the necessity of administering the oath; he thought such a proceeding would be improper.

Judge Smith said previous conventions had had the oath administered to the members.

Hon. S. R. Thurman—Previous conventions have always failed. I move we dispense with it.

Hon. Wm. Creer—We have elected no chaplain. Would it not be as well to pray instead of swear?

Hon. W. W. Riter could see no objection to administering the oath, and to do so might be construed unfavorably to the movement. The oath could be conscientiously taken by all the delegates, and it should be done.

Hon. A. Hatch thought each delegate should take an oath that he was an American citizen and held the elective franchise.

The motion was then put before the Convention and carried.

Hon. Franklin D. Richards was called upon and offered the opening prayer.

An oath was then read to be taken by the officers and members of the Convention. It included all the provisions of the Edmunds-Tucker test oath.

Hon. John E. Booth objected to the oath except as to that part requiring obedience to the Constitution and laws of the United States and laws of the Territory and that the members would perform their duties faithfully. He thought the remainder of the oath was an insult which the members of the convention should not impose upon themselves, and moved that all else but what he had suggested be stricken out.

Hon. S. R. Thurman said he had taken the oath to qualify him as an elector, but was not hunting around to take such an

OBJECTIONABLE TEST OATH.

Hon. F. S. Richards said the oath should be formulated to meet the conditions that might exist or arise in the proceedings of the convention, and he thought that the one presented did not do this.

Hon. James Sharp argued that it was not beneath his dignity to take the oath. He wished to start right and proceed carefully, that no discredit be thrown on the labors of the Convention.

Hon. F. S. Richards moved that the motion be laid on the table till the next session.

Hon. D. H. Peery opposed deferring the taking of the oath, and wanted it done right away.

Hon. W. W. Riter thought the usually prescribed oath, provided as a pre-requisite for the exercise of citizenship in Utah Territory, should be taken by the members. The nation expected something to be done to place the people more in harmony with the nation, and that work may as well be commenced right now.

After some further discussion the motion of Mr. Booth to strike out part of the oath was lost.

THE OATH,

as originally presented was amended to conform to the registration oath adopted by the Utah Commission, and was taked by the officers and members of the Convention.

In was moved by Hon. John E. Booth that the constitution adopted by a Constitutional Convention April 27th, 1882, and ratified by the people May 22, 1882, be taken as a basis on which to work at present. Carried.

Hon. James Sharp presented a resolution for the appointment of the various committees of the Convention, which was adopted.

The Convention then adjourned till 10 a.m to-morrow.

The "Contributor."

The current number of this magazine contains an installment of the history of Nauvoo by B. H. Roberts, in which are quoted some striking passages from the writings of Joseph the Seer. This history of the beautiful city built by the Saints on the "Father of Waters" is deeply interesting, and is written with considerable care and literary ability. J. M. Tanner continues to treat the "Eastern Question," and T. W. Brookbank follows with another installment of "Biblical Cosmogony." "Chinese Classics," by Apostle Moses Thatcher, is a very interesting paper, of which the first part is given. It treats to some extent upon the philosophy of government, and seeks to bring forth those principles upon which the longevity of governments rests.

The biographical sketch of Heber C. Kimball, read by its author, Bishop O. F. Whitney, at the recent re-union of the Kimball family, is given in this number of the Contributor and is one of the finest papers that have ever appeared in its pages. The number is a good one, and is embellished with an excellent engraving of the Hancock County Court House, Carthage Jail and the Hamilton House, prominent buildings of Carthage in the Prophet Joseph's time.

Notes from Ireland.

By letter from Elder William Wood, bearing date of June 13th, 1887, we learn that he is now laboring as a missionary in the Emerald Isle. He was at that date located temporarily in the town of Lurgan, which he describes as a pleasant little place, situated 20 miles from Belfast, near a beautiful fresh water lake. His health was good and he evidently enjoys his labors in the present effort to open up a new field. He states that there is one great advantage in his recent transfer from England to Ireland and that is that the atmosphere is much clearer, and not being saturated so thoroughly with smoke and fog, and all things considered, he thinks he shall enjoy his labors in Ireland even better than while in England. He states that several meetings have been broken up by mobs, both at Lurgan and Belfast, where he previously labored, but no one was injured and he thinks this will lead eventually to good results, as many are thereby attracted to the meetings, and good seed is being sown. He finds the people in this part of Ireland easily excited, but having a strong predilection for fair play, and like those whom he traveled among in the Southern States of America, they are eminently hospitable and kind to strangers.

Literary Notes.

The July St. Louis Magazine is a very interesting summer number. It is handsomely illustrated and unusually bright. Eleanor Putnam has a boating story; Edgar Alfred Stevens and Everett W. Hastings have summer stories; C. Lauron Hooper discusses "Educated Labor:" Maude Meredith, Alexander N. De Menil, and Birch Arnold treat of literary questions; Mrs. E. V. Wilson, Nelly LaRue Brown and others have poems; there are the "Home and Society," "Light Moods," and other departments. Altogether an excellent number. Published by the New St. Louis Magazine Co., St. Louis, Mo.

A well-known Boston kindergartner has made, and Babyland prints, a series of nursery jingle tales with running accompaniments of pictures and finger-play which mothers and babies go over together with equal delight. There are two sets of pictures, one for the eyes and one for the hands. The latter show how fingers can represent rabbits, pigs, mice, birds, flowers and clouds in the sky. There are also puzzles so easy that baby can almost read them, and rhymes that sing themselves in her ear as she goes to sleep, and pleasant tales to come again in her dreams. Published by D. Lothrop Company, Boston; five cents for a sample copy.

"The Story of Metlakahtla," a history of a wonderfully successful mission among certain tribes of Canadian Indians, treated at some length in the NEWS yesterday, is published by Saxon & Co., 39 Chambers St., New York.

There will be three very interesting and beautifully illustrated articles in the July number of The Cosmopolitan, the first number that is to appear in New York. The first is by Louise Chandler Moulton, entitled "A Lazy Tour in Spain." It gives charming glimpses of Spanish life and scenery; it describes a thrilling bull fight witnessed by the author; there is also a lively and piquant picture of the Spanish court as it appeared at this entertainment. Charles C. Welman has a beautifully illustrated article on "Monte Carlo: Its Games and Gamesters." He spent many weeks at the well-known place and had unsurpassed opportunities for making himself familiar with all its attractive as well as unattractive phases. His description of the games is lucid and his account of the people that he saw at the tables bright and interesting. Mr. F. G. Carpenter's illustrated article on Royal Signatures will be read with much interest.

The Safety Valve is a new publication, a copy of which is just received. It is a monthly magazine "for the steam user and engineer," to whom it will prove of interest and value. It is published at 79 John Street, New York.

The number of Cassell's National Library for June is "The Diary of Samuel Pepys, 1664-5." Its quaint language has a pleasing charm.

CEDAR CITY.

Improvements and Industries in a Southern Town.

A correspondent at Cedar City writes as follows over the signature of "Your Subscriber" and under date of June 27th:

Our City Fathers have lately finished a praiseworthy labor by enlarging our cemetery and surrounding it on three sides by a good rock wall laid up in lime mortar. This wall is 18 inches thick at the bottom, 12 inches thick at the top, and 4 feet high with a good coping of 9 inches on the top. The fourth side is fenced with lumber pickets so that should the cemetery need to be enlarged, the fence can be easily removed. It is the intention to beautify it by planting in it a variety of trees, shrubs and roses and some of the beautiful evergreens of the headwaters of the Rio Virgin.

are not easily transplanted, and it can only be safely done in the following manner: Dig a trench one foot deep around the tree, pack the ball of earth firmly around it so as not to disturb the roots. For a tree say three feet high, the ball of earth should be 18 inches in diameter and other sizes in proportion. Fencing the cemetery and beautifying it has been needed here for a long time, and now that it is accomplished, all who have been engaged in the labor feel pleased.

Our settlement is improving in a temporal point of view, and is growing notwithstanding the dull times and the scarcity of money. Several good brick dwellings have been erected the past season, and our new Tabernacle is so far advanced that we hold meetings in it, but much remains to be done to complete it. When this building is finished, it will be a credit to our town. Our cattle and horses are on the increase and nearly one-third of our families have moved to the mountains southeast of our city, for the purpose of dairying. Large quantities of are produced and find a market at the Washington and Beaver woollen factories, where home-made clothing is obtained in exchange. This industry is a great blessing to our people here.

Our co-operative sheep herd is increasing; it numbers now 9,349 head of good sheep, with an increase this year of 3,291 lambs and about 57,000 pounds of wool. Besides this large herd we have also two small herds that are doing well. Should all the wool produced by these herds be manufactured here into cloth, it would give employment to many of our young people, and furnish us with an abundance of clothing. We have also an ample supply of mutton which is very desirable.

Our Co-operative Mercantile Institution is doing

not only with our citizens, but many from our neighboring settlements find it to their interest to come here to trade.

This institution has a tannery in good running order, which supplies a shoe shop and also a harness shop, all of which are doing well.

Our flour mill, which turns out a good quality of flour, is also a great benefit to the place, and is managed well by the mercantile institution, which has also a steam sawmill on the mountain, which will supply the settlement with lumber.

ALL HE COULD SEE.—Miss Shapeleigh — Oh, Mr. Candor, I'm so glad to see you! What do you think of my new gown?

Mr. Candor (much embarrassed)—The—ah—the rose is beautiful.

In making this announcement, the Lake Park Resort Company respectfully assure the public that its preparatory efforts of last year to give it the first conveniences for Bathing in Great Salt Lake worthy of patronage ever offered, have for this season been GREATLY ENLARGED AND IMPROVED upon, and that the general attractions of the Resort will continue to be added to in whatever manner careful efforts in ascertaining the requirements of a discriminating public may suggest.

The exceedingly liberal patronage bestowed upon the Resort in the unfinished state of its appointments last season clearly indicated the popular demand for and appreciation of better accommodations than had ever before been given for Lake Bathing, and this season finished appointments and delightful accessories will be so profusely offered as will maintain for this resort the leading position at once accorded it by the public from its original opening.

The MUSIC for this season will be of the highest degree of excellence and under the directorships of Professors Krouse, of this city, and Koenigsberg of Denver. The full Band of Musicians has been selected with the closest discrimination. Concerts in the Grand Pavilion. The patronage of the public is respectfully invited.
