

CHILD IS CLAIMED BY BOILING CREEK

Matthew Desmond, Age Six, Falls
Into Swollen Stream
And Drowns.

MOTHER SEARCHES FOR BODY

Wading Waist Deep in Muddy Water,
She Calls Without Avail for
Her Little Son.

The floods claimed their first victim yesterday afternoon, when little six-year-old Matthew Desmond, the son of Michael Desmond, a carpenter of Clark street, met death by drowning in Mill creek, at Seventh East and Mill streets.

The accident occurred while the little fellow was crossing an improvised bridge, in reality an eight-by-eight timber, over a narrow stream. Presumably made dizzy by the sight of the swirling, rushing waters below him, he missed his narrow footing and tumbled headfirst into the torrid and turbulent children nearby, and went down.

The mother, who was standing on the bank, saw the accident, could not save her son, and, in a vain effort to rescue him, she jumped into the water, and, after several hours' search of the stream from the point of the accident to where the waters empty into the Jordan river, the little body was found under a block away from where he had fallen in.

The boy had been on his way to the store, 1801 south Seventh East, just across the street from the bridge, on an errand for his mother, and in order to reach the store had crossed the bridge, using as a foot bridge, the timber used as a foot bridge.

Last Sunday, on account of the floating debris which was being dammed against the bridge, the latter was removed. By a strange trick of fate, it was the boy's uncle, William Desmond, who placed the timber. It was of such narrow width and with so little protection, that it was not considered safe even for older pedestrians and the children had been warned to avoid it.

CHILDREN TERROR STRICKEN

Several children, among whom were Hilda and Joseph Gundman and Alexander Stevenson, who were playing in the vicinity of the bridge, saw the boy as he fell into the waters, but were so terror-stricken that they were several moments before they gave the alarm by shouting and running. The alarm by a street, and the latter hurriedly appeared and began a hurried search along the banks in the hope that the lad might have been caught in the brush and was still alive. The police were also notified, and the patrol wagon with Sgt. Beckstead and Patrolman Betts hastened to the scene. The force was unable to find the boy, and several other officers provided with drag-hooks. The father was one of the party who found the body towards 7 o'clock in the evening.

A pitiful incident of the tragedy was the grief of the mother. When children ran crying to the home, the little Matthew had fallen into the creek the mother became frenzied with grief. For hours she waded about in the water, waist-deep, searching in the brush and calling piteously for her boy who could not answer. Towards evening kind-hearted neighbors who had trudged behind her in the waters, finally prevailed upon her to return to her home.

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

This is the variety of rheumatism that usually attacks the larger joints, knees, hips and shoulders. It is aggravated by cold and damp weather, and for this reason a man afflicted with it can often foretell changes in the weather. Chamberlain's Liniment applied freely and with vigorous rubbing relieves the pain and makes sleep and rest possible. It will also effect a cure, but will not prevent the recurrence of the disease. For sale by all druggists.

STORM SINKS THE VISTA.

Pleasure Boat on Great Salt Lake Goes Down in the Gale.

The pleasure craft, Vista which for two seasons past has plied the waters of Salt Lake as an excursion steamer, was sunk during the heavy storm which prevailed Monday night. The lake was lashed to fury and the waves were rolling high, and the boat, which was anchored to the piling at the end of the pier, was thrown against the wooden poles with such force as to crush its side in under which the vessel soon sank. There was no one on board when the boat went under. The Vista was shipped to Salt Lake in sections from Green River, Utah, two years ago. It is a stern-wheeler, and was originally built to ply on the Green and Grand rivers in southeastern Utah, but the traffic did not pay and the vessel was brought to Salt Lake as a pleasure boat on the waters of Salt Lake. The vessel lies in about six feet of water and will be raised in a short time.

MATTHEWS SENT TO COUNTY JAIL

He Was in Contempt of Court When Failing to Answer Questions at Trial.

FORMER WIFE COMPLAINANT.

She Was Awarded Furniture, but Divorced Husband Sold It, Hence The Present Trouble.

Albert G. Matthews, who was divorced in the district court a short time ago, was fined $5 for contempt of court yesterday afternoon by Judge Whitaker when he refused to answer questions in the hearing of the suit against him which was filed by his wife, Mrs. Janet Matthews, to recover $425 worth of furniture which had been awarded to her. Matthews was unable to pay the fine and was escorted to the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Fred O. Butler. On the way to the jail Matthews declared that he would get even with the court.

Mrs. Matthews secured a divorce last January on the ground of cruelty. She was awarded the household furniture, but Matthews, who had it in his possession, refused to give it up. He disposed of the furniture shortly after the decree, it is alleged, and then Mrs. Matthews instituted suit to recover the value of the furniture.

CONSPIRACY AND FRAUD.

Frank Knox to Answer Suit Filed by J. B. Weimer.

Frank Knox, president of the National Bank of the Republic, is charged with conspiracy and fraud in a suit filed yesterday by James B. Weimer in the Third district court. Weimer asks for $2,500 with interest from June 22, 1907.

According to the complaint Weimer says that he borrowed $5,000 from the bank through Knox to be repaid on June 22, 1907. As security he pledged $5,000 worth of stock in the Weimer Copper company, consisting of 20,000 shares, gave a mortgage on property in the southern part of the city and his note bearing interest at one per cent.

Weimer charges that on last November, Knox sold the stock to the bank for $5 without giving him any notice of the sale or making any demand for the redemption of the stock. The bank then converted the stock to its own use. Weimer says that he repaid the money last April and demanded his stock but was refused though the bank agreed to cancel the real estate security.

SEEK WRIT OF MANDATE.

University Seeks to Compel Land Board to Transfer Fund.

The University of Utah asked for a writ of mandate against the state land board yesterday in an affidavit filed in the supreme court to compel it to advance the first $12,000 of the $250,000 for the erection of an administration building which was authorized by the last legislature. An alternative writ was issued and the members of the land board were ordered to appear at 10 o'clock Monday morning June 21 to show cause why the writ should not be issued and made permanent.

The application was made to test the constitutionality of the law. The money was refused by the land board.

VERDICT IN BANK CASE.

In a decision handed down by Judge Armstrong yesterday afternoon, Joseph Nelson, formerly cashier of the Utah National bank, will be compelled to pay the note of $13,250 which he gave as a share to cover the shortage after the robbery of the Utah National bank of $106,200. The judgment was rendered in favor of the bank.

KIMBALL'S SUIT CALLED.

The suit brought by M. Kimball against the Colorado Mining company and the Success Mining company, Jesse Knight, W. Lester Mangum and Jacob Evans, as officers of the two companies and Ernest Williams, secretary of the Success Mining company, whose disappearance caused a muddle in the affairs of the company, was called for trial yesterday in Judge Morse's court. Kimball was a stockholder under the old Success Mining company which was taken over by the Colorado company. He declares that under the agreement by which the old Success company was taken over he is entitled to 1,969 shares of stock in the Colorado Mining company. He is suing for this amount. The case will probably take several days to complete it.

McHENRY CHARGES NEGLIGENCE.

James M. McHenry, who conducts the Murray Livery stable, brought suit in the Third district court yesterday against Phelix McDonald for $30,000 for personal injuries which he sustained by being shot in the leg accidentally. It is alleged in the complaint that McDonald drove into McHenry's livery stable and put his team up there on July 17, 1908. McDonald, as he stepped out of his carriage, handed McHenry a parcel which fell on the pavement and a revolver which was in the package exploded and the bullet entered McHenry's leg. His leg was afterward amputated and McHenry charges McDonald with negligence because he did not tell him there was a loaded revolver in the package.

HONOR FOR CYRUS DALLIN.

Sculptor's Masterpiece Wins Him Gold Medal in the Salon.

(Special to the "News.") Boston, June 10.—Cyrus E. Dallin, the Boston sculptor, a native of Salt Lake City, has received the high honor of a gold medal in the Paris salon for a remarkable Indian statue of massive proportions "The Appeal to the Great Spirit." This statue, which is considered by Mr. Dallin to be his masterpiece, was first shown at the exhibition of American sculpture held in Baltimore, April, 1908, which was given under the auspices of the Municipal Art society of New York. In the salon it was placed in an excellent position and attracted much attention, and received many tributes from French art critics. This award to Mr. Dallin was unique in that it was the only one given in the salon this year to an American sculptor.

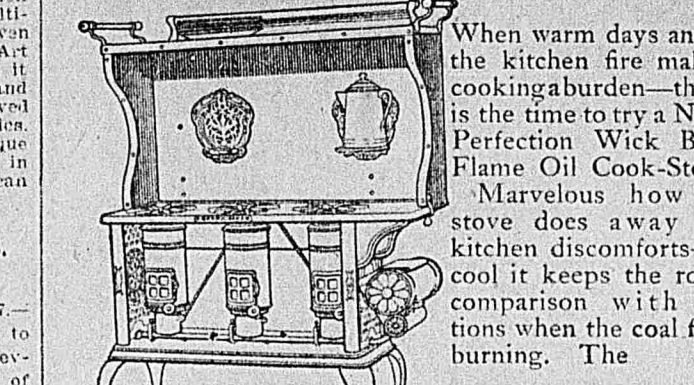

WESTERN MARKET LETTER.

(Special Correspondence.)

Kansas City Stock Yards, June 7.—Cattle receipts last week amounted to 43,000 head here, heaviest week in several months, much to the surprise of nearly all the dealers, who have been predicting a period of very light supplies in June. A good many grass cattle from the south were included last week, which class declined 25 cents, while fed grades held more nearly steady, losing 10 to 15 cents for the week, and closing with a show of strength the last two days of the week. The supply today is again liberal for the season, 13,000 head, market steady to 10c higher on fed cattle, but weak to 10c lower on slippery grass stuff. Top last week was $7, paid for yearlings, and also for heavy steers. A shipment of the Harris steers, from Sterling, Colorado, sold at $6.60 here today, weighing 1,377 pounds, and a consignment from T. A. Mostyn, Delta, Colorado, sold at $6.25. Top natives today brought $6.30, and Colorado fed in Kansas $6.70. Choice Colorado feeders sold at $5.25 and $5.50, late last week, and high bred stockers up to $5.50. Conditions today indicate that higher prices may be expected for fed stuff balance of this month, but the position of grass cattle is not so safe, depending on volume of receipts, and quality of offerings.

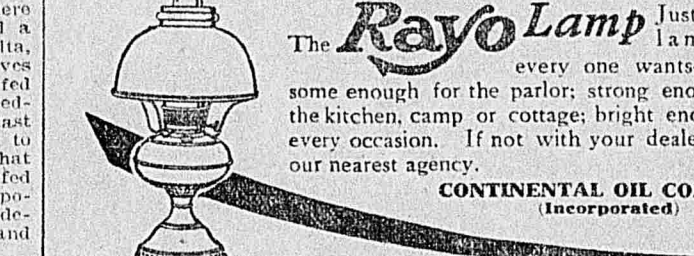

Sheep and lambs declined 25 to 50 cents last week, although receipts were only moderate. Run is 7,000 today, market firm, but nothing choice included in the receipts. Three doublets of Arizona spring lambs sold at $8.40 today, and Texas muttons today at $6, is not quite the full strength of the market in either class. Some choice Hamilton wethers from Texas sold at $6.40 late last week and the last good Arizona wethers offered here sold at $6.50. A train from California here last week included kid goats to killers at $4.65, thin goats to the country at $3.75, clipped wethers $6.50, and spring lambs at $5.75. The situation in the mutton trade is not very stable, account of extremely high prices, and this is reflected in some broad fluctuations in prices for live animals.
