

RABBI FREUND'S PEACE ADDRESS

Preaches in the Jewish Temple
Before a Large and Attentive Audience.

WORLD IS MAKING PROGRESS.

Speaker Dwells Particularly on Hill's Dictum as to the Desirability of Continued Peace.

Rabbi Freund preached on "Peace" last evening, in the Jewish Temple, before a large congregation. He said in part:

"The great Hebrew prophets did not stand alone in their advocacy of peace. There were others who, basing on their grand teaching, voiced the longing for peace. The sayings of the rabbis comport well with their exalted position of responsibility. We may cite as illustration of this tendency, the saying 'Disciples of the wise increase peace in the world.' Also the well known saying of Hillel: 'Be ye of the disciples of Aaron, love peace, pursue peace and bring mankind right unto the law.' It is certainly a good indication of wisdom to see that peace is rampant in men's lives. Strife and discord are not the accompaniments of well regulated individuals. And the aggregates of individuals have also learnt the true value of the notion of peace. In that all-important struggle which saw the contestants arrayed against each other in the personalities of mighty Rome and death-defying Judea, the attempt to bring peace was not neglected. It was the peace which was the great teacher. Rabban Jackavan of Zakkai who at the risk of his life, opposed the war party and tried to effect peace. His failure to succeed was only caused by the zeal of those who would not be convinced that peace might have meant the perpetuation of their nationality's existence."

HILLEL'S DICTUM.
"The destruction of the second temple is attributable to the lack of wisdom as to the conquering power of an honorable peace at any price." And Hillel's dictum as to the desirability of peace deserves attention. We should all be lovers of peace and thus promote general welfare. In the present, blessing found in next week's scriptural reading in the synagogues is that notable passage: 'May God lift up His countenance upon thee and grant thee peace.' In the portrayal of the priests of some of the nations of antiquity, they seem to have excelled in the art of warfare. In Israel we meet a different state of affairs."

"The price in Israel was not the warrior nor in his business to help foster the feelings of hostility that would generate into warfare. If any special business was to be carried on, it was to foster peace and harmony in all of life's relationships. Israel as a priest people among the nations of the earth should leave the duties of justice and punishment for 'Israel's mission is peace.' Therefore should each individual Jew, as obligated by Israel's election of priesthood, try to hasten the dawn of that brighter day when peace is the justice of our every activity."

"The meetings recently held are a fitting prelude to the coming great conference which is to be held shortly at The Hague. Nations will be the participants to bring nearer the day of the 'parliament of man,' the federation of the world. Potatoes and apples will not dash nations into the horrible throes of warfare. The claims of peace will be promoted and advanced."

WOMEN AS PEACEMAKERS.

"Throughout the length and breadth of our land well meaning women's clubs add their contribution toward the cause to promote peace. When every year a concerted move is made by all of these worthy organizations to raise a laudable sentiment for peace, they help hasten the day of millennium. This sentiment cannot but be helpful in assuring us that the time is not so very distant when peace methods and not warlike efforts will settle differences."

"Memorial day sacred to the memories of the men of both north and south will temporarily open old wounds that the further we remove from the time of the terrible conflict, the better are men learning the lesson of peace. A worthy cause will have been served well if that severe contest of brother against brother helps to make warfare appear hideous in all of its terrible ugliness."

Blotches, pimples, flesh worms, black heads, are unsightly and denote impure blood. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will drive them away, carrying people clear to the top floor of health and happiness. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets—Z. C. M. L. Drug Dept., 112-114 Main Street.

MEAKIN IN BUFFALO.

Well Known Lecturer Becomes "Fraternal Evangelist."

A copy of the Buffalo Examiner of April 12, has been forwarded to the "News" containing a two-thirds portrait of John P. Meakin, well known throughout Utah and the west as a reader and lecturer. In addition to publishing the portrait, the Examiner gives a number of the maxims of Meakin, and some of his poetic lines, with the following account of his entrance into the lecture field in that locality:

"John P. Meakin, known the country over as the 'Fraternal Evangelist,' is one of the biggest soul-men in the United States. He has a host of friends in this city, where he has lectured two or three times. He delivered an address on 'Brotherhood' recently for the Eagles, the equal of which has never been heard in this city. It was a lecture that convinced the audience that the standards of truth and equity within a man or woman will find nobility in the idea of service. Those who heard him were inspired to higher ideals."

"He preaches that people will never secure happiness in this world until they forget self and strive constantly to promote the welfare of others."

"He would have both men and women realize that a self-interest, personal aggrandizement should be discouraged by everybody, especially fraternity people."

"It is too bad there are not many more such men in the world as John P. Meakin. There is a great call for them."

"May Buffalo see much more of this wholesome fraternalist."

From circulars and other advertising matter accompanying the above clipping, it is plain to be seen that Mr. Meakin has entered upon the fraternal reading and lecturing field as a means of livelihood, and that his legions of Utah friends will wish him every success.

PRICE BAKING POWDER, CHICAGO.

PILGRIMAGE OF THE UTAH PIONEERS
SIXTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

TUESDAY, MAY 18, 1847.

At 5 o'clock that morning the thermometer stood at 37 degrees. The morning was calm and clear. A short distance below Cedar Bluffs, the pioneers in the forenoon crossed a rapid stream, about 20 feet deep, which they called Rattlesnake creek. It was thus named from the following incident: President Young, as he rode up to the bank of the creek, discovered that his horse stepped within a foot of a very large rattlesnake. He turned his horse away without harming it. Soon afterwards another of the men came up on foot and stepped within three feet of the same snake. It immediately coiled up and sprang at him and would have struck him had he not jumped to one side. He then took his rifle and shot the reptile dead.

FEEDING FOR HEALTH.

Directions by a Food Expert.

A complete change in food makes a complete change in the body. Therefore if you are ailing in any way, the surest road back to health is to change your diet. Try the following breakfast for ten days and you will find it helpful. Two soft boiled eggs (if you have a weak stomach, boil the eggs as follows: put two eggs into a pint tin cup of boiling water, cover and set off the stove. Take out in one minute; the whites will be the consistency of cream and partly digested. Don't change the directions in any particular); some fruit, cooked or raw, as apples, peaches, a slice of toast, a little butter, four heaping teaspoonsful of Grape-Nuts with some cream, a cup of properly boiled Postum Food Coffee.

The Grape-Nuts breakfast food is fully and scientifically cooked at the factory, and both that and the Postum have the distaste (that which digests the starchy part) developed in the normal unacidulated food, and the coffee, therefore, are predigested and assist, in a natural way, to digest the balance of the food. Lunch at noon the same.

For dinner in the evening use meat and one or two vegetables. Leave out the fatty deserts. Never over-eat. Better a little less than too much.

If you can use health as a means to gain success in business or in a profession it is well worth the time and attention required to arrange your diet to accomplish the result. Read "The Road to Wellville," in page. There's a Reason."

CARELESS CONCERT TAKES A WIDE RANGE

The idea of tendering the well known musician, Prof. Geo. Careless, a testimonial in the tabernacle, which had its origin in the "Careless Night" in the Eighteenth ward some weeks ago, has taken a wide range, and the thousands of friends and admirers of the professor and his music, will be gratified to learn that preparations are now on foot to make the event a memorable one.

As soon as it became known that a committee of the professor's old friends and pupils had taken the matter in hand, offers began to pour in from others interested, and the result was a meeting held during the past week, at which all the details were gone over. The enthusiasm over the project was not confined to any one class of the community. Working hand in hand with Prof. Stephens, Manager, Fyner, John D. Spencer, H. G. Whitney, and H. S. Ensign, the committee originally nominated by Heber J. Grant, are such workers as Prof. Wetzel, superintendent of music in the school, Prof. Peabody, organist, St. Mark's, Carl Scheid, director of the choir, Arthur Shepherd, Prof. McClellan, Willard Wells, leader of the Orpheum orchestra, Prof. Anton Pederson, and John Held, leader of Held's

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—It was like inhaling a breath from green pastures last night to tit through the rendition of "The Duel," by Otis Skinner and his company. The play is almost a classic of its sort—the school that one rarely sees on the stage nowadays, where the story involves mental, moral and philosophical conflicts, rather than physical ones. It is reminiscent of that old favorite, "Daniel Rochet." The translation from the French is put into high class English, and in the hands of such artists as Mr. Skinner and his fellow players, all the beauties of the dialogue and the story were fully brought out. Mr. Skinner has made wonderful advancement since thirty odd years ago, the earliest impressions he left here when he played the part of the young brother in "Francesca da Rimini," with Lawrence Barrett, Louis James and Marie Valenbright, the training he received from the scholarly Barrett has always remained in evidence, and is seen today in the legitimate manner in which he depicts his roles. The romantic school to which Mr. Skinner belongs—very reminiscent at times of James O'Neill in "Monte Cristo"—that he thought by some modernists to be stilted, but it is hard to think how any other style of delivery would fit a part like that of the Abbe Daniel, so well portrayed by Mr. Skinner last evening. The interesting story—that of a struggle between two brothers, one a devout priest, the other an atheist physician, as to which shall win the mastery over a weak woman, was admirably conceived and finely executed. The strong dialogue between the brothers at the end of the second act was thunderous, and indeed, but for Mr. Skinner and Mr. Hitchcock having several recalls, Mr. Hitchcock played the doctor with care and good taste generally, though with occasional exaggeration of style. Our old friend Holland, the famous detective of "Jim the Penman," and "Captain Raffles," had his native talents somewhat smothered in the part of the bishop, but he did show the favor bestowed on the other principals. The final performance will be given this evening.

Orpheum—The farewell for the Leighton players occurs tomorrow evening and a big movement of business men is on foot to make the occasion one that will truly express the regard which the town feels for the company. The bill will be "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Albert Tibbs, the west side youth of 13 years, who was missing from his home since 11 a. m. on Monday, was yesterday located at Roy, Weber county, and will be brought home today.

The boy was not drowned, neither was he carried away, as at first supposed; he simply ran away. Another lad prevailed upon him to leave the parents' roof and set out in the world for himself, and he readily consented. Going to the town named, the two secured employment in the fields of a nurseryman. The latter recognized in the person of young Tibbs the much sought for youth, and the anxious parents were at once notified of the good news, much to the relief of the entire family.
