Desperadoes Plead Not Guilty to Murder and Horse Stealing.

GATE HOUSE CLEANED UP SOME.

A. D. Bruce Another "Tough Kid" and Suspected Accomplice Says He Is Also Innocent.

A surging scene of animation was that which presented itself on the sidewalk and stairway leading to Commissioner Mosmer's office at noon today. The cause of the excitement was the arraignment of the prisoner outlaws, Coughlin and George, on charges of murder and horse-stealing, which was scheduled to take place at 12:01.

At that hour the youthful renegades arrived accompanied by Sheriff Hardy and other officers. The complaints charging murder as sworn to, set forth that on the 26th day of July, 1895, in the county of Summit, Territory of Utah, Patrick Coughlin and Frederick George did wilfully, maliciously, deliberately, premeditatedly and with malice aforethought, and with the specific intent to take life, shoot upon the bodies of Thomas A. Stagg and N. E. Dawes, thereby inflicting mortal wounds of which the said Thomas Stagg and N. E. Dawes did subsequently die.

After the reading of the complaint the defendants, by their counsel Judge Powers, entered pleas of not guilty, and they were held on the charge of murder, without bail. Complaints were also entered against them on the charge of horse stealing, and on pleading not guilty, their bonds were placed at $500 each, and they were ordered to appear before the commissioner in the Federal court-room at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for preliminary hearing.

The prisoners spent a goodly portion of the forenoon in consultation with Judge Powers who visited them in their quarters in the county jail. When the judge got a glimpse of how clients the first article he gave them was the necessity of making an improvement in their personal appearance for they were still unkempt, smoky and dirty.

When, however, they stepped from the county jail to the carriage in which they rode to the sheriff's office they had been, by a prison tonsorial artist, deprived of their long hair and ruddy beards which together with a thorough scrubbing made a complete transformation in their looks. The change was so great that those who saw them yesterday would scarcely have recognized them as the desperadoes who were captured by Tooele county's double posse of efficient officers in the mountains of South Willow canyon.

A great crowd of morbidly curious men and women gathered in front of the Eagle block, to which the commissioner's office is located, at 10 a. m. with the expectation that the outlaws would be arraigned at that time. As a matter of fact the preparations and conduct of the gathering was most like and those who had business to transact in the building found it difficult to enter or depart. When it was announced that there was to be no arraignment during the forenoon, the crowd reluctantly and motherigly dispersed. A goodly portion of it, however, was back again at the time of arraignment.

Coughlin expects monetary assistance from relatives and friends in Park City, while George has sent for his brother Will at Big Cottonwood, to whom he looks for aid in bail.

The young criminals have a long list of transgressions to answer for. They are four cases of horse stealing, two of attempted murder and two of arrest murder, and the prosecution avers that proof in each instance is conclusive.

A. D. Bruce, the young chap who has been living in the Twenty-first ward with his brother and grandmother, who two weeks ago was arrested on suspicion, and who has been languishing in the county jail since that time, was also arraigned before Commissioner Mosmers on a charge of horse stealing. He plead not guilty and Attorney H. A. Smith was appointed to defend him.

Neither Coughlin or George had a word to say to any one but their attorneys, Powers, Straup and Lipman whom they have employed to defend them. Their counsel are of the opinion they can do all the talking that is necessary. Certain it is they will not be so indiscreet as Coughlin, who continues to maintain the air of a criminal of many years' experience. The case, tomorrow, will be looked after by Attorneys Straup and Lipman, as Judge Powers will leave for Brigham in the morning to join his family.

EXCURSIONISTS MOVING.

A Heavy List From Box Elder—Union Pacific Connects With Saltair—Other Coming Trips.

Saltair Beach had a happy crowd of people today in the excursion which brought between 600 and 700 people down from Box Elder county. The city was made over the Union Pacific to Ogden, and there, for the first time, the excursionist's train was transferred to the Salt Lake and Los Angeles track, and carried the excursionists to Saltair without change of cars.

The transfer was not expected to be satisfactory to people who had come to Ogden, and the Union Pacific was allowed them the privilege from going on to here. The next party likely to make this trip is the Summit Stake excursion on the 23rd, at which time it is all along the line from Park City through Sanpete and Sevier counties will participate. The excursion is for the benefit of the Stake new meeting house to be erected in Park City.

FOR SELLING CONDEMNED ICE.

Food Inspector McAllister and Assistant Hunt Wild shooting at Night, Near the Jordan.

In the police court this morning Henry James was charged with selling condemned ice without a permit. Food Inspector McAllister made the complaint and the defendant was found guilty and fined $10 for selling condemned ice and $5 for not having the necessary permit. Mr. McAllister with an assistant food inspector went to the house where the ice is stored and spent the night in the woods waiting for the ice vender to come. About midnight the two watchers came in great haste to the house of Eli Pollard, asked the occupants to send for a gun, stating that they had been shot at. Intoxicated by some unknown person on the other side of the river. Mr. Pollard suggests that they had forgotten that the dispensaries were behind the county jail bars and had dreamed that they too were about to become victims of the outlaws. This, however, was denied.

Mr. McAllister is determined to stop the sale of the foul ice when if he has to take such drastic measures as he did in this case.

Lorin Ching fetched $20 for keeping a gambling house.

Susan Talledge, the habitual drunkard, was sentenced to twenty-five days in the city jail. She is now back within the old friend Sallie Davis, who was given the same sentence yesterday. The two have spent twenty-five days out of the last forty in jail with the sentence of twenty-five days more to serve.

The case against James Morley for abusive language, continued from July 30, was resumed today. It will be remembered that the defendant was charged with swearing in German. Several witnesses were examined for the defense and they testified that to the best of their knowledge the defendant did not speak German. The prosecution wished to produce evidence in rebuttal but the court stated that, admitting the fact that the defendant could speak German, he would discharge him.

John Doe and John Doe Jr. forfeited $5 each for violating the ringing ordinance.

Dick Jones, the bar tender who robbed the gambling house of $10 last night, was fined $50.

Jack Griffin forfeited $5 for drunkenness and Mike Smith was given until tomorrow to get out of town.

A complaint was sworn out by Mr. Winslow, the Union clerk, against P. M. Hann, for false pretenses. Hann, it is claimed, has been living high lately and seemed to possess any amount of money. He has been living at the Cullen hotel and it has just been found out that he has no money to pay his board bills, etc.

Captured at Pat Moran's.

As Frank Tennel, Walt Clawson and George Ioft were driving home from a party last night about 12 o'clock, when on the corner of First Street and State they observed a man standing at the rear of Pat Moran's residence. The boys very promptly jumped out of the buggy and started to interview the stranger, who decided to remain where he was, as he had the option of a brick wall or to break through the boys. As the young men were armed with a small pistol and a long fork, the trespasser remained very meekly trying to explain matters until Clawson returned with Officer Lund, who promptly gave the restless lodgings at hotel de Pratt for the night.
