

JAS. H. TUCKER.

corroborated Engineer Kinney's statement as to the injector being out of order; the engineer sent him to notify the foreman, and when he came back the train had been moved; he had just got on the engine when the accident was reported.

The jury were not satisfied on the question as to whether or not there had been criminal negligence on the part of the company. They retired for discussion, and finally found as their verdict that the deceased died from the effects of being crushed between two cars on train No. 22, which were moved by some cause unknown to the jurors.

LATTER-DAY SAINTS' COLLEGE.

According to announcements previously made, the fourth academic year of the Latter-day Saints' College (formerly the Salt Lake Stake Academy), will commence on Monday next, August 5th, at 9 a. m. As heretofore the college will be conducted for the present academic year in the Social Hall, which has been considerably improved in its accommodations since the last adjournment. Extra windows have been inserted which will greatly add to the lighting and ventilating of the building. A working laboratory for students has been erected on the grounds, and is fitted in a convenient manner for practical labor in experimental science. The equipment of apparatus and material for class demonstration, which was already very extensive, has been added to, and, in fact, every effort possible of the officers of this worthy institution has been made to secure the greatest results. The crowded condition of the college last year and the necessity of refusing admittance after the first few weeks are doubtless fresh in the minds of the patrons; and it will be to the advantage of all intending students to make early application for places.

The tuition charges in the Latter-day Saint's College are forty per cent lower than in any institution of corresponding grade in the Territory, being as follows:

	5	10	15	20
	Wks.	wks.	wks.	wks.
Intermediate Dep't.	$2.50	$4.50	$6.50	$8.00
Academic Dep't.	3.50	6.50	9.50	12.00

This great reduction in fees has been made with the pure motive of placing the advantages of the college within the reach of as many as the rooms will hold whether rich or poor; certainly there could have been no desire to swell the attendance, which was already fuller than the capacity of the building would warrant.

The faculty is composed of staunch Latter-day Saint teachers; those who have proved their unselfish devotion to the cause; and every step taken in the scholastic courses here offered is a movement toward perfection in the Kingdom of God; for the spirit of our holy religion is made to underlie all the instruction. Our hearty "God speed" is with the college. It has been established for the benefit of the youth of Israel, and happy are they who can embrace its advantages.

Tickets for the term can be procured of the Treasurer at the Social Hall at noon, Monday, Aug. 5th.

"LIBERAL" RULE IN OGDEN.

Last evening's session of the Ogden City Council was marked by two or three interesting features, to which we beg to call the attention of the public in general and the taxpayers and workmen in particular.

They pertain to the domain of finance, a subject which has had its share of discussion and which in view of the increased taxes, with a fair prospect of heavy and various local taxes, is not likely to be soon forgotten.

City Attorney Heywood came in with a little bill for clerical assistance in drawing up the Bothwell water contract, and the amount to pay it was promptly appropriated. Mr. Heywood, it will be remembered, is the gentleman who draws $1800 a year for doing the work which has heretofore been done for $500. But he, we have been told, would not make any claim for extra compensation for extra services, being himself altogether an extra man. A careful scrutiny, however, of his brilliant services since his elevation to this post of honor and emolument does not show anything of importance until we come to this very Bothwell water contract, simultaneously with which, as stated, appears an item of extra expense.

The present surveyor enjoys a salary of $1800 per year, while his predecessor performed the work at a merely nominal salary. Now comes forward the new and favored official to receive an extra reward of $10 for the use of his valuable instruments. Comparing the price of the man at $1800 with that of the instruments at $120, it will be generally agreed that the latter are much the better instruments, for without instruments the engineer would be a costly luxury at almost any price.

At the same session which witnessed these two extra grants, it was decided that some of the city departments reduce expenses by discharging workmen. We understand that the watermaster and street supervisor are two in whose departments this retrenchment will be made. If salaries go on increasing it will only be a short time until there will be no money for laboring men at all. Relieved of employment, and burdened with taxes, their outlook cannot be a very hopeful one.—Ogden Standard.

THE QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Has not the old Junction building on Twenty-fourth Street been occupied as a bagnio for the past eight years, and was it not owned by Thomas D. Dee and N. Tanner, Jr., during all the time they served as Police Justice and City Attorney of this municipality, and has not this den of vice been broken up only since the liberal party got control here?—Ogden Union.

As to His Honor Thomas D. Dee

or N. Tanner, Jr., having anything to do with the alleged bagnio on Twenty-fourth Street, this vile insinuation so far as it relates to Mr. Tanner is contradicted by him in last evening's issue of the Union, and the editor of that paper now admits that it was in error relative to his Honor Thomas D. Dee. He now says that the building was owned and rented by another Thomas Dee, and a member of the Liberal party.

In answer to the other inquiry of the Union, "Is not C. C. Richards the County Prosecuting Attorney of this County, and can he give any reason for his failure to prosecute the acts of immorality of which he professes to have knowledge?" we are authorized to say that shortly after these dens and dives were started Mr. George S. Peters, United States District Attorney, while conversing with Mr. Rolapp, Assistant County Attorney, learned that Sheriff Belnap was hunting up cases on these people, and that prosecutions would be immediately commenced against them. Mr. Peters thereupon requested Mr. Rolapp not to commence proceedings, but to leave the matter entirely to him and the grand jury, remarking as his reason for the request that he desired to show the Mormon people that the laws of Congress, of the Territory, prohibiting gambling, licentiousness and other immorality would be enforced by the District Court as rigidly as the law against polygamy and unlawful cohabitation. Upon this request and with this understanding the matter was left with Mr. Peters and the grand jury. The charge of Judge Henderson to the jury and the failure of that body to find any other indictments than the one against Mr. Madden for keeping a gambling house are so fresh in the memory of our readers that we deem it unnecessary to review them at this time.—Ogden Standard.

THE Shah of Persia, the King of Greece, General Boulanger, and Russell Harrison, all in London together, ought to be satisfactory even to the metropolis of the universe.

THE latest thing in the way of trusts is a "hotel trust." Just on what basis such an institution can be founded, how it can be operated and what the harvest is expected to be, are not foreshadowed. We suspect it is simply a falling in with the tendency of the age—to bind together everything as a trust which can be trusted, and a good many things that cannot.

It is to be hoped the latest "Jack the Ripper" caught in London is the genuine fiend. There have been several whose desire for notoriety of that character brands them plainly as lunatics, placed under arrest, and the continuance of the awful butcheries of Whitechapel go on within the sound of the policemen's tread. It is as wonderful as it is horrible.
