The Apostles were blessed with the spirit of instruction, and administered the word of God freely to the people.

During our gathering the following conferences were held in addition to the Stake Conference: The Relief Societies, the High Priest's and the Primary Associations. The Young Men's and Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Associations conjointly held their Conference, and, in connection with the Stake Conference, occupied the Sunday morning session.

On Sunday evening Apostles Lyman and Teasdale were listened to with profound attention by an audience of the Young Men's and Young Ladies' Improvement Association, and others in the Lyceum, which was filled to its utmost capacity.

And on Monday evening, the 15th inst., the social season for St. George was inaugurated by the giving of a social party under the auspices of the Presidency and High Council of the Stake, at which the Apostles and visiting brethren as well as the other guests freely partook of the spirit of innocent recreation.

Mr. Gee. H. Brimhall, County Superintendent of District Schools of Utah County, with a delegation of teachers from that county, met in association with the teachers of this county.

On being introduced to the association by the chair, Supt. Brimhall, after a few introductory remarks, proceeded to speak on "The Organization and Classification" of District Schools.

Mr. Brimhall showed himself to be thoroughly master of his subject, and, to be fully appreciated and understood, it would have to be heard as delivered by the Utah County Superintendent. Among a multitude of other ideas, the gentleman presented the following: The principles of self-government. The teacher should throw the responsibility of the government of the school as much as possible on the pupils. The child is a miniature man, and by making him carry a portion of the responsibility, it will greatly assist in the government of the school.

Was in favor, as much as possible, of having the school governed by the school; and of allowing the pupils to elect out of their number, various officers, such as a secretary, monitor, inspectors of desks, books, records, etc., reporters, and committees on decoration, to decorate the school-room, on cabinet, etc. By this means the pupils were led to look upon the school-room as theirs, as a pleasant place of meeting and not as a prison-house.

Select reading — Miss Emma Finch. The selection read by this lady contained many words of wisdom, and conveyed many sound thoughts.

Lecture by Prof. T. B. Lewis — Subject — The Guitvation of Individuality and Self Reliance by Pupils."

The remarks of Prof. Lewis, like those of Supt. Brimmall, would have to be heard to be thoroughly appreciated. "What is not used is lost, so the child who does not use his mind's eye, his istelligence, is eventually dwarfed, and his mind becomes darkened. Know-ledge and skill are only secondary objects; the power to think is the leading objec pupil, and the subject taught will need no cut and dried methods. No teacher no cut and dried methods. No teacher can teach sixty or seventy-five pupils, on any one method and bring out the individuality of the pupils. The pupil must learn to feed himself, not to think that he depends entirely upon others. Never allow a pupil to fail in the accomplishment of any object, when it lies in the power of the teacher to prevent it; for constant failure will certainly destroy the pupils' self-reliance. God has planted in the breast of every human being a germ that is destined to grow, and the teacher is there in the school-room to remove the barriers from this germ and allow it to grow and it will grow.

The Association, at this point, was enlivened with a song by Miss Thornley.

Mr. Brinton, the critic, stated that he
