A Bad Character.—On Saturday the notorious "Bill" Bean was committed to jail in default of paying a fine of $100 for stealing seven pairs of blankets from Mr. Peterson, of the Great Western Hotel. When arrested Bean had on his person a murderous looking weapon, consisting of a quantity of shot sewed up in buckskin, weighing several pounds.

Seventies' Conference.—A Seventies' Conference was held at South Cottonwood yesterday, President Joseph Young presiding. In the morning the speakers were Elders Feramorz Little and L. F. Neslen, and in the afternoon Elders C. H. Wilcken, W. A. McMaster, A. P. Rockwood, and President Joseph Young. A good spirit prevailed, the teachings were of a practical character, relating to correct family government, and the general everyday duties of life, magnifying the Priesthood, and the culture of the young. The meetings were largely attended.

A Rash Step Soon Repented of.—Were it not that a regretable circumstance, occurring in the family of one of our most respected citizens, Hon. B. Young, Jr., has been, for the past few days, a general topic of conversation, and as a natural consequence much that is untrue and exaggerated has been circulated concerning it, we should refrain from alluding to the subject, as we believe that private affairs should not unnecessarily be made public property. We choose merely to give, however, a narration of the facts, that erroneous statements may be corrected.

Miss Allie S. Young, an intelligent and interesting young lady, daughter of Hon. B. Young, jr., and a young man, named Charles R. Hopkins, some time since formed an attachment for each other, but, for reasons sufficiently potent to them, the parents of the young lady were opposed to his paying his addresses to her, and forbid him calling at the house. The two young people, however, disregarded the parental wish, and maintained correspondence with each other, culminating in an arrangement for a clandestine marriage, which was carried into effect a week ago to-night, Rev. Josiah Welch, of the Presbyterian Church, performing the ceremony.

On hearing that his daughter was married, Mr. Young endeavored to discover whether his information was correct, and for this purpose visited the house where Mr. Hopkins resided. Here the information he had received in the matter was confirmed, when, addressing his daughter, he said, "Well, Allie, you may need a friend sometime, and if you should, you can call upon your father," or words to that effect, when he bid her a kind good night and left.

It was not long before the young lady began to realize that the step she had taken was a most rash and unwise one, and she returned to the house of her parents on Friday afternoon, asking that she might be allowed to remain. Mr. Hopkins called there in the evening, when he was informed that the party he sought for did not wish to go with him. The young man circulated a false report that his wife had been kidnapped, causing a number of his friends, with about as much discretion and judgment as he himself displayed, to prowl around Mr. Young's premises in the night, for the avowed purpose of rescuing the lady, while others rode around on horseback to prevent her being carried out of town. One of the parties handing around showed what he was made of by striking a couple of small boys with a club, for which he was subsequently knocked down by a blow from a lad who happened to be near by.

Mr. Hopkins employed an attorney, who sued out a writ of habeas corpus for President B. Young and Hon. B. Young, Jr., but for what reason a writ was obtained for the first named gentleman, has never appeared.

The deputy U. S. marshals in whose hands the writs were placed, was unable to serve them on Friday night, but on Saturday morning, as soon as Hon. B. Young, Jr., became acquainted with the fact that a writ was out for him, he repaired to the office of the Marshal, and accepted service; and subsequently he, the young lady's mother, the lady herself, and attorney Williams appeared before Judge Emerson. Mr. Gilchrist, attorney for Mr. Hopkins, desired a continuance till 3 o'clock, for which Mr. Williams objected, stating that the defendant was in court and desired to be heard, and that the lady was also there and ready to make oath that she was not restrained against her wishes.

The matter was adjourned till 1 p. m., at which hour Mr. Gilchrist appeared and stated that his client, Mr. Hopkins, had instructed him to withdraw the petition, and there the matter ended, for the present, at least.

The fact that parties are found so contemptible as to applaud the action of the young couple in the premises is somewhat of an anomaly in human affairs. Such creatures have even gone so far as to strongly advise others to follow their example, and invade the home circle of private families. Such sentiments can never be based upon a desire for the public or private weal of the people at large, but from a sordid and debased desire to establish misery instead of happiness, discord and disunion instead of harmony and peace. Such unions as the one clandestinely entered into as above narrated are not likely to result in good, because they are not founded on a correct principle, and if the foundation be insecure how can the superstructure be desirable? We hope that this incident will deter other young ladies of the community from falling into a similar error, and lead them to prefer being guided by the mature judgment of people of experience, who have their welfare at heart, rather than by their own imperfect and mishap imbellable impulses.

Theatre. — Herrman, the great prestidigitateur, commences a series of four nights' performances at the theatre to-morrow evening, assisted by Mlle. Addie.

Quiet.—So far as we know the election has passed off peaceably to-day.

A Fire.

BRIGHAM CITY, Feb. 9, 1876.

Editor Deseret News:

About 4 p.m. yesterday, a house on the north part of town, belonging to President Snow, which was built and owned formerly by W. C. Thomas, was discovered to have caught fire, and a great number of people were seen in the streets, running in said direction. Soon all the furniture and effects of the house were moved into the streets. The fire was in the upper story of the building, and was caused by a square block of timber that was placed across the adobies. The inner edge of the block touched the stovepipe, and the outer edge the cornice of the building. The situation was awkward, as it was not possible in the first place to reach the fire with water. The boys piled snow on and round the cornices, while Bro. M. L. Ensign took position on a long ladder, and plying with sharp tools soon succeeded in making a large opening in the strong cornice, when it was discovered that the fire had a strong hold, and if it had not been checked while in a limited compass, the building would have been doomed. Had it been a frame building it could not have been saved anyhow. The damage done is inconsiderable.
