

SPAIN WILL HAVE INTERNAL PEACE

Fall of Maura and Conservative Cabinet Produces Feeling Of Relief.

MINISTRY IS ANTI-CLERICAL.

King Regrets He Had No Opportunity to Extend Clemency to Professor Ferrer.

Madrid, Oct. 22.—The fall of Premier Maura and the conservative cabinet has produced a feeling of relief and encouraged the hope that a period of internal tranquility has been ushered in. It is now an open secret that Maura's refusal to give King Alfonso an opportunity to pardon Ferrer is regretted by his majesty.

Most of the Republican senators and deputies express themselves as satisfied with the latest turn of events, particularly as they believe it marks the end of clerical influence with the government. One of these said today:

"The new cabinet contains elements equally anti-clerical and anti-anti-clerical as necessary to Spain."

However, radical members of the cortes the Deputy Soriano, who is also editor of El Pais, a Republican organ, demands the passage of anti-clerical laws similar to those of France.

NEW MINISTRY.

The new ministry is as follows:

President and Minister of the Interior—Don Manuel de Irujo.

Minister of Foreign Affairs—Perex Gualtero.

Minister of Finance—Senor Alvarez.

Minister of War—Lieut. Gen. de Lugo.

Minister of Marine—Rear Admiral Gago.

Minister of Public Works—Senor Gago.

Minister of Justice—Martinez del Campo.

When the president of the chamber of deputies announced the cabinet's resignation it was received with such an uproar that he was forced to adjourn the sitting.

Assignment was made today of the appointment of the new cabinet. A group of Madrid and Senor Aguirre as mayor.

DEATH OF SCHLATTER.

Denver to be Called Upon to Identify the Dead Healer.

Hastings, Neb., Oct. 22.—Denver will be called upon to identify Francis Schlatter, who died here Thursday morning as the divine healer, who 15 years ago made that city the mecca of the blind and the lame. A flash light of his healing power, the divine healer, was taken in the local morgue and sent to Denver. A careful examination of the dead man's effects seems to bear out the statements Schlatter made before his death. To Dr. Weir, city physician, Schlatter protested that he was the original divine healer. Apparently he expected to die, as he told the physician that in case he should not recover to notify David McNaughton, Chicago, a dear friend. A telegram has been sent to Mr. McNaughton.

J. Walker, a grocer, who was in Denver at the time Schlatter was making his cures, has viewed the body and said it is the same man.

Joseph Fisher, the postmaster, who with his daughter, went to Denver to see the healer, declares this to be the body of the man who cured thousands in Denver.

SAN FRANCISCO'S CARNIVAL CROWDS REST

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—San Francisco and her carnival crowds rested today after yesterday's strenuous celebration, and few outdoor attractions outside of athletic contests marked the day's program. The chief spectacular event of the day was a decorated automobile parade participated in by over a thousand machines.

At the principal feature of the day, not on the original program, was the firing of salutes in honor of the birthday of the German emperor by the warships in the harbor.

BISHOP SETH WARD'S BODY ARRIVED TODAY

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—The body of Bishop Seth Ward of the M. E. church, South, who died at Kobe, Japan, on Sept. 20, arrived on the ship Yamato today. The bishop had been in Japan only a month on his regular tour of inspection of the Methodist missions of the orient when he died in his death. Memorial services were held in English and Chinese in the Kobe Methodist church on Sept. 22.

Bishop Ward spent a large part of his life in the South, where he was highly respected for his piety and his work. He was 70 years old at the time of his death. He had been in Japan for some time and was in good health for some time before he died.

The body will be sent to the late bishop's home in Houston, Texas.

MCARDEN'S END NEAR.

New York, Oct. 22.—Senator Patrick J. McCarden's fight for life is becoming more desperate. This morning he was in a critical condition, and it was announced at the Brooklyn hospital where he was operated on for appendicitis a week ago, that the patient's condition was being given up. It is expected that he will die within a few days.

Dr. Hughes said:

"There is the slightest ray of hope. The patient is still conscious and is now trying to sleep. We are unable to sustain the heart action."

JOHN M. KNIGHT'S WORKSHOP.
Home of Industry Crowned With Success.

MARTIN E. MULVEY'S DRAM SHOP.
Headquarters of Geo. Sheets and His "Stole Pigeons."

WITHIN the walls of these two establishments thrive the men who are pitted against each other as candidates for the Fifth municipal ward for the long term in the city council. The deadly parallel condemn one and praise the other. While John M. Knight, the blacksmith and carriage maker, gives his customers value received, Martin E. Mulvey, the saloonman and gambler, robs his customers of their manhood and self-respect, cheats wives and families out of a living.

Between these two men, the voters of the Fifth municipal ward will choose a representative to serve them in the council on election day. John M. Knight is the fusion candidate of the Citizens, Democrats and Republicans, and Martin E. Mulvey is the stalwart leader of the "Americans."

While the life of John M. Knight has been one of industry and hard labor, crowned with success, Martin E. Mulvey has accomplished nothing good in his business, but has left behind him a nice days' temperance lesson for the world. From his youth, Knight has worked hard in hand with his father and brothers. He has watched with interest and pride their business grow with honest effort. In the beginning, it was a shack where the Grand theater now stands. This was in 1876. The blacksmith shop at that time was fitted up with a few tools, most of them homemade. Now this business represents an investment of $75,000, an asset to the city and the means of employment of honest labor.

On the other hand, Martin Mulvey's business has prospered, too, but prospered at the expense and privation of others. When Mulvey first came here he took the gambler's chance and has followed the same ever since.

Four years he has been a saloonman. He has owned a dozen different saloons in Salt Lake at one time or another. He now has the Occidental saloon and wholesale liquor house, and an interest in the Finch, Rogers & Mulvey company, which owns a saloon and restaurant in east Second South street.

The contrast between these two establishments is shown inside of their establishments. Knight stood over his forge yesterday afternoon with his sleeves rolled up directing a gang of men who were building a large truck for one of the transfer companies in Salt Lake. He had plans before him and was building a wagon—a specimen of skilled labor. The men whom he employs are also skilled in their line of work and seemed contented with their lot in life.

His shop was filled with work and his customers came back to him again and again. In this shop yesterday there was the merry ring of the anvil, the buzz of the saws and the cadence of hammers as steel against steel. The shop was alive with the bustle of life and industry which has been and always will be the salvation of this country.

Before the bar in Mulvey's saloon stood his victims and they came from all walks in life. The "grog" shop is not a respecter of persons and anybody who has the price can purchase his "booze." His saloon also represents the investment of thousands of dollars in oak fixtures and French mirrors, and "booze," but that is all. Like every other saloon it is a den of vice and he caters to those who lead the "Bohemian" life and drag others into it.

Mulvey sits in his office, smoking good cigars and plotting with politicians to get the vote—the saloon vote which can be bought. About him are his lieutenants who lead the "gay" life for what there is in it. There is no fascination in it for them when some "sucker" cannot be skinned. These men have no legitimate business. They are the "rounders" who live off the temptations of the working classes, which are held out to them.

Mulvey's gambling ventures began years ago. His most famous gambling joint was in Pat H. Lannan's old residence on West Temple street. He operated there for two or three years. Then he owned an interest in gambling houses on Commercial street for several years. A few years ago Mulvey was engaged in promoting prize fights and was at the head of the sporting fraternity of the city. A fake fight was pulled off under his management and he failed to make good on his gaudy any further ventures in this line.

The next role he assumed was at the instance of Mayor John S. Bransford, promoter of the West Side stockade. Mulvey was delegated to put the deal through, arrange the details and enlist the capital. Mulvey carried out his part of the deal successfully but the nefarious corporation was crushed and the stockade closed up by the work of the sheriff and his deputies.

When Mayor Bransford announced his candidacy for re-election, Mulvey was induced to run on the councilman ticket. He has been in the council before as a Democrat. When he was a candidate then, The Tribune attacked him viciously. Now he is held up as a paragon of purity by the same paper on the "American" ticket. In the campaign of 1903, here are a few of the things that the "American" organ said about Mulvey:

going ahead systematically to stuff the ballot boxes with a wad of ballots that never should have been permitted to be registered.

SALT LAKE TRIBUNE, OCTOBER 30, 1903—EDITORIAL:

Martin E. Mulvey is relying for election upon the vote which is distinctly classed as the vote of the underworld; the votes of thieves, prostitutes, and the lawless classes generally. Without the support of that class his chances for election would not be worth the spending of a nickel upon. Yet there is no lack of dirty coin in his campaign. He has been a member of the council before, and he did the city no good. His candidacy now bodes no good to the city.

We call upon all fair and decent-minded citizens of the Fifth municipal ward to come forward in indignant protest against the pretensions of this man, and bury him so deep under their ballots on Tuesday next that—politically—he will never be heard of again.

SALT LAKE TRIBUNE, OCTOBER 31, 1903—EDITORIAL:

The war on Mulvey should be kept going, and going hard, until the night of election day.  It is a candidacy which all the decent people of the Fifth municipal ward should repudiate with loathing and scorn.

SALT LAKE TRIBUNE, OCTOBER 30, 1903—Page 1.

Martin E. Mulvey, a sample of pure democracy, saloon man and typical representative of Democrats, asks support of women. Wants mothers, wives and daughters to vote for him. Presents himself as a paragon of the purity that prevails in the Democratic party.

Two years ago Mr. Mulvey was practically hooted off the floor of the Democratic city convention.  Time has brought a change. The party has come to Mr. Mulvey's standard.

Martin E. Mulvey is a prize fight promoter.  Martin E. Mulvey as one of the largest saloon keepers in Salt Lake, was expected to wield an influence for the Democratic ticket among the saloon element.  Martin E. Mulvey is the recognized head of the gambling and sporting fraternity of the city.  Martin E. Mulvey's political influence heretofore has been confined to the neighborhood of Commercial street, Victoria alley and Plum alley.  Martin E. Mulvey put in one of the best day's work he ever did last Tuesday in the Fifty-seventh district, securing the registration of the women of the street, gamblers, rounders and denizens of the tough district. His influence in this class is something superb, growing out of long association and intimate knowledge.  Martin E. Mulvey and his trusted lieutenants are

ORDERS FOR DE LARA'S RELEASE

Department of Commerce and Labor Has Telegraphed Authority to Los Angeles.

Washington, Oct. 22.—The department of commerce and labor today telegraphed to Los Angeles, Cal., authority for the release of Gutierrez De Lara, who was arrested as an anarchist and an alien, who entered this country without inspection. The department's authority for releasing him is on condition of De Lara furnishing $3,000 bonds.

IF FOUND GUILTY.

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.—It is expected that Gutierrez De Lara will be released before the day is over, pending his trial next week on the charges preferred against him. Should the secretary of the department of commerce and labor find him guilty on the evidence adduced at the coming hearing, he will be deported unless an appeal is taken to President Taft.

The De Lara Defense league is very active in behalf of the Mexican and it is expected that a hard fight will be made to disprove the charges of anarchy and of being illegally in this country.

SIX PLEAD GUILTY TO ACCEPTING BRIBES

Youngstown, O., Oct. 22.—Six of the 15 county officers, contractors and a salesman indicted by the special grand jury for accepting and giving bribes have pleaded guilty to the charges against them. John Hamel, former county commissioner, James Price, Samuel Brunstetter and Worth Newcomer, former good roads commissioners, waived their trials and pleaded guilty to accepting bribes. O. C. Starr, a salesman of Columbus, O., also waived trial and pleaded guilty to bribing the good roads commissioners.

Former County Commissioner Warren H. Kahl stood trial, but after listening to the testimony of the state, stopped further proceedings by pleading guilty.

"AMERICAN" WOMEN DENOUNCE MAYOR

J. S. Bransford and Martin Mulvey Scored at Meeting of Political Club.

Because of the association of Mayor John H. Bransford and Martin E. Mulvey with the notorious Boies London, the members of the Woman's "American" club have become divided. In a meeting of the club recently, Mayor Bransford was denounced for his methods and Martin E. Mulvey was scored for the part he took in carrying out the deal for the establishment of the "stockade."

For more than a week several "American" politicians have been attempting to reconcile the boiling members but so far nothing has been accomplished. There was a number of these women who have announced that they intend to vote against Bransford. Several "pink teas" will be given between now and election day to quiet the turmoil which has been caused by one faction of the club.

The first meeting was given last night at the home of Mrs. Gideon Snyder. Invitations were sent out to the members who had denounced Mulvey and Bransford. They were not present, however, at the meeting last night.

REPORT ON NEW YORK'S DEBT LIMIT SUSTAINED

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—The report of Gen. Benj. F. Tracy, as referee, before the state of New York city on June 30, 1908, at $106,204,714 was practically sustained by the court of appeals today, except in two minor particulars.

And Frank R. Christensen chatted with the members of the club. Their purpose was to pour oil upon the troubled waters, but it is admitted that nothing was accomplished.

The manner in which Bransford and Mulvey arranged the deal with this notorious woman proved revealing to a good many of the members of the club. It was carried too far, they claim, and involved the city in the deal as well as the officials. When the compact between Bransford and the woman promoter was first made known, these same members resented it and declared themselves against such an outrageous institution. They were in the minority, however, and were unable to pass a resolution to this effect. But that time the sentiment has been smothered in the club. When the fight was started against Bransford on account of this deal, they joined in and gave their support to it.

Every effort so far to check the fight against Bransford in the club has proved futile. It is deemed by these women that they will fight Bransford to the end.

JEFFRIES READY TO FIGHT JOHNSON

Has Trained Vigorously Abroad And Is in the Very Pink Of Condition.

GERMANS THOUGHT HIM CRAZY

Likely Pugilists and Their Managers Will Meet Next Week and Sign Articles.

New York, Oct. 22.—James J. Jeffries has come back from his European trip ready and fit, it is believed, to fight Jack Johnson for the heavy weight championship of the world. In the environs of Carlsbad, Bohemia, the one-time bullfighter is asserted to have trained vigorously for the Johnson mill, without giving the slightest hint to his friends in America of what he was doing. When Jeffries walked down the gang plank of the steamer Lusitania, which arrived today, he looked as if he was in fighting trim. His solid bulk of frame was without superfluous flesh and his complexion was clear. Sam Berger, his sparring partner, and a host of admirers at the dock appeared surprised at the physical condition of the retired champion.

"Now I'm ready to fight Johnson tomorrow," said the big fellow, "and the sooner the articles are signed the better. I'll live up to the Berger agreement, but as to details they can take care of themselves."

"What about Johnson?" was asked.

Jeffries's brown eyes snapped as he replied:

"I care not about Johnson. That nigger has made more noise and done less than any man I know."

HOW HE TRAINED.

Jeffries told how he had brought himself into fighting condition, but he was a little reticent about his weight.

"I weighed under 220 pounds at Carlsbad," began Jeffries, slowly, "and the last time I jumped on the scales—it was in France—I tipped the beam at 223 pounds, but you can't get me on the scales now for $20."

"How did I get into shape," he said, "it seems the newspaper men always have me with a lot of fat on the body. I don't have much when I went away and I haven't any now."

And to emphasize the point Jeffries seized a substantial part of his vest in his hand to show how small his waist line had grown.

"Now at Carlsbad I did 10 miles on the road every morning," continued the former champion, "and in the afternoon I put in my time in the gymnasium. The Germans thought I was crazy when they saw me running along the highways."

"I did some more work in France and trained at a place just out of Paris. I had to look at the address on a card every time I went out there to work. The French are crazy over fighting and I saw some bouts there. I also took in some of the exhibitions at the National Sporting club at London, but their advertised heavyweight contests are nothing more than middleweight affairs."

"I have done no boxing while abroad."

TO UNDERGO OPERATION.

Jeffries said he would undergo an operation on his nose in a few days while in this city.

"I would have had it done in Carlsbad, but they told me there that the doctors here could do it just as well and again the price of the charge was something fearful. My nose was broken and it interferes with my breathing."

Jeffries said he had talked to no one while abroad about his fight with Johnson and denied he had said that he wanted a purse of $150,000 for the mill.

Mrs. Jeffries accompanied her husband on the trip and spent some time at her home in Saxe-Meiningen.

Jeffries probably will meet Jack Johnson and his manager in this city early next week, when the final articles for the fight will be signed.

Last August in Chicago Sam Berger for Jeffries, signed a preliminary agreement with Johnson for a contest of anywhere from 25 to 100 rounds before the club offering the largest purse which was to be divided on any terms made by Jeffries. The agreement provided that the fight should take place within six months after the signing of articles.

The retired champion said he had heard in Paris that Sam Mulvey in his contest with Joe Jeannotte in that city had really won the fight and that it had been fixed for Jeannotte to win. Jeffries added that Mulvey was only a right handed fighter and would have little chance with Johnson.

"You want a left hand to fight Johnson," added Jeffries as he walked away to join an admiring crowd of friends on the pier.
