

THE SEMI-WEEKLY NEWS

The Great Country Paper of the West

Issued Mondays and Thursdays and Contains All the Cream of the Daily and Saturday News.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Miss Hanson Convalescent—Miss Hanson is convalescing from an operation at the L. D. S. hospital, and will be out in 10 days.

Will Locate at Elv—Gus Marley, for three years traveling man with Siegel Bros., has resigned to go into business for himself at Elv, Nev.

More Honors for Harris—Capt. Fisher Harris was notified last evening of his election to membership in the National Geographical Society.

Manual Training Display—The Quair school manual training and sewing display will be exhibited this evening, with an appropriate program.

"U" to Be Touched Up—The state university students are proposing to replace the line "U" on the side of the state with one of whitewashed concrete.

New Special Agent—Special Agent Charles F. Reed of the general land office has been assigned to this city, with headquarters in the Federal building.

Dance at Saltair—A dance will be given at Saltair tonight by the Christianese orchestra of 18 members, at the city at 8 o'clock, from Second South Street.

Informal Musical—In place of this evening's choir rehearsal at St. Paul's Episcopal church, there will be an informal musical evening, in honor of Miss Rosa Howard who is shortly leaving for Boston to study art.

Stamps Instead of Cash—The Postal Telegraph company has issued for public convenience stamps to be placed on messages in lieu of cash payment, and for messenger service. These stamps are in book form like postage stamps, each book containing $5 worth.

Motorman Hits a Pole—Motorman C. F. Coleman of car 66, street railway, struck his head against a pole on Tenth East near Fourth South yesterday afternoon, knocking him from the car. He sustained painful scalp wounds, and was dressed at the L. D. S. hospital.

Application For Water—Charles Hamblin of Indianapolis filed an application last evening with the state engineer for 5,000 second feet of water from the Colorado river near the junction of the Grand and the Green, with a view to supplying power and light for operating machinery in this place, along the Colorado, Grand and Green rivers. It is proposed to put in quite a plant there.

I. O. O. F. Anniversary—The eighty-eighth anniversary of the organization of Odd Fellows was celebrated last evening by the local order in the First Methodist church. The auditorium was handsomely decorated with flowers and palms, and a fine orchestra was in attendance. The Holy Ode of the order was sung, J. J. Thomas read the ritualistic service and Grand Secy. P. A. Simpkins made an address.

Lake is Rising—The water in the lake at Saltair pavilion is now up under the pavilion where the bathers used to descend the beach stairs. The water is rising on the average of 4 inches per week. This will continue until the latter part of June, when the water will remain stationary for a time, and then slowly evaporate. The bathing season will be well over with before any particular difference in the depth of the water is noticeable.

Working For a Pardon—The Associated Charities, under Supt. Wood, is dispensing about $200 per week in assisting worthy indigent persons. Supt. Wood is interesting himself in the case of D. W. Tracy of Emery county who has been in prison for a charge of shooting his wife's father. He finds that the majority of Tracy's fellow citizens are convinced that it was a case of self-defense, and that the man has no business behind the bars.

To Investigate Rooming Houses—The Missionary union of the local Evangelical churches met yesterday afternoon at the Third Reformed church. Mrs. C. E. Allen read a paper on "World Wide Christianity," and Prof. Steut, the singing evangelist, favored the meeting with a number of songs. It was announced that Mrs. C. G. Plummer, president of the union, would appoint a committee to look into the condition of the rooming houses where it was asserted immoralities exist.

Smoke Nuisance Sued—The nuisance which requires the installation of smoke consumers on all large boilers in the city will be tested in a case to be tried before Judge Johnson of the city court. A complaint was issued yesterday against Stephen Hays charging him with a violation of the ordinance by maintaining a furnace at 79 Commercial street without a smoke consumer. The complaint was sworn to by Frank Westcott and Hays was answered and given until Monday to plead. He will fight the case and make a test of the ordinance.

John's Saving Bank & Trust Co. Pays 4 per cent on deposits, safety deposit boxes for rent. O. C. REEBE, Cashier.

ELEVATOR ON RAMPAGE.

Narrow Escape for Three Men in a Car At Doody Block.

An elevator in the Doody block went on a rampage yesterday and serious results were narrowly averted. Frank Jones, a boy of 16, was in charge of the car, and when he lost control the car was carrying three men down from the second floor. The car crashed to the ground floor and Jones got frightened and jumped out of the car. The elevator started to travel upward and one of the passengers attempted to throw the lever but did not succeed. The engineer of the building, Chas. Chivier, who was in the basement, saw the predicament and signalled the other elevator, in charge of Joseph E. Baird, to descend and meet the other car. After signaling Chivier rushed to the ground floor and traveled into the ascending car and just as it was within two inches of crushing his legs against the wall, Chivier, who was in the lower car, came down to the basement and rushed to the guard ropes of the other elevator, and an effort to stop the car when the engineer threw on the brake. Jones was discharged.

DEMOCRATS HEAR PRAISE FOR JEFFERSON

His the Only Name of Living Heroes Mentioned at Jefferson Dinner.

"PRINCIPLES BEFORE PIE."

Martineau Declares It is More Sweet to Vote One's Conventions in Defeat Than to Hold Office.

Declaring that the glorious principles of Democracy are more sweet to their soul than would be the honor of dividing all the political pie in the land, 200 devoted followers of Thomas Jefferson spoke words of praise in his honor at the Commercial club last night, by an orchestra and a solo by Will G. Bywater, added to the evening's entertainment. The speeches were mostly short, and mingled local politics with national issues, and praise for the great patriot whose party takes as its standard bearer. Only one name was heard for the presidential nomination, and this was William F. Bryan, never a candidate, to whom brought forth abundant applause.

MARTINEAU TOASTMASTER. L. R. Martineau, Democratic state chairman, was introduced as toastmaster by Mrs. H. J. Hayward, president of the women's Democratic club. He called attention to the large gathering with the comment that it was a refutation of the charge that there were not enough Democrats left to celebrate. "It may be," he declared, "that it will be our lot to walk the lonely road of defeat indefinitely, yet he is a reckless prophet who would attempt to foretell the future of political events. But if we are able to elect but one public officer in Utah in a hundred years, we would still have the imperishable principles of Democracy left, and in the words of Calhoun, 'I would rather be right than be president.' Our ranks have been thinned, but I see signs in the east when the name of the matchless Bryan is mentioned with one universal echo of approval, that convince me that the time is but brief when the Democratic party, nationally as well as locally, will simply be lifted into power. Let the word go out from here tonight that we Democrats in Utah are free, that we have a political conscience as well as an individual conscience and hold them equally dear to us, and we will put up a ticket at every important election and allow the staunch old Democrats to cast a vote for Democratic principles, though they know full well that it is a defeat."

Before introducing Stephen L. Richards as the next speaker, Chairman Martineau read a telegram from Mrs. Anna W. Powers, who is ill with pneumonia, but sent greetings to the Democracy and assured them that the true Democrat of Utah was the true friend of Richards.

EULOGY BY RICHARDS. Stephen L. Richards, a young attorney of Salt Lake, commenced his eulogy of the life of Thomas Jefferson by expressing a query as to whether he would be allowed to live the religion of Democracy if he should come to Utah, for his Democracy was a religion to him.

"I say to the young men of Utah, of whom I am one," declared Mr. Richards in closing, "that we have more to hope for and more to live for in the future than in the past. Let the distinction be put in 'of receiving less votes than any party in the territory that had ever placed a ticket in the field.' Mr. Richards, named a number of old time leaders, and then said that there were scores of others he might name who would not have him for a leader, but that he had ever been a Democrat. In concluding he spoke of the national hope for Democracy. 'We have come an epoch in our history,' he declared, 'and there will be an end of Democracy's dark and gloomy night, even now the day is beginning to dawn. The next campaign will be fought on the issues of the reform, the maintenance of the power and privilege of the trusts and the inviolability of the sovereign rights of the states. Upon these issues, no incumbent, every true Democrat can stand and when such has been the case in these United States since Thomas Jefferson was elected president of the United States there has never been any question as to what the result would be.'"

"Whatever may be our conclusion as to local politics, let us keep alive the spirit of Jeffersonian Democracy, and in 1908 let the voice of Utah be heard in the national Democratic convention in the nomination of William Jennings Bryan, the greatest American citizen today among the ranks of the people."

Frank K. Nebeker of Logan spoke of Jefferson as the expansionist, the trustee of the Constitution, the defender of the rights of the citizens and subjects in the land, so that the president of the United States might have added to his title 'emperor of the Philippines.' C. S. Varian of Salt Lake spoke of the proper relation of the nation to the state, defending the doctrine of state rights against the policy of a centralized national government. He regretted the breaking down of the barrier between state and national sovereignty, and regretted the use of military force to suppress a rebellion in a territory other than carrying out the will of the people.

Thomas N. Taylor of Provo on "Why a Democrat," declared that on second thought the people need salvation from the price raisers, for the party that "does things" is now putting the price on where it is hard to tell when it will "do us some more."

John Derr spoke as a friend of William F. Bryan, whom he had known in the prison camps in Nebraska. On the local situation he charged that a Democrat employed at his mine in Eucla had preached Democracy up to the right before election, and that had been caught working among his co-republicans for the Republican party, depriving it of the will of the people. He should vote a Republican ticket.

Capt. Fisher Harris spoke of the man who is "merely rich" as a useless member of society, for from him come the rich, the light hearted W. H. King and R. W. Sloan were unable to respond to toasts for which they were selected.
