

RANCH WORK AT CANYON CREST

Something of the Advantages of The Mountain Farm for Boys.

WHAT IT IS EXPECTED TO DO.

Task of Raising Twenty Thousand Dollars to Make It Permanently Self-Supporting.

That the more aspiring and public-spirited element of the community shall have cause to point with pride and self-satisfaction to its boy's farm, becomes abundantly evident whenever the plans and activity of the promoters of the Canyon Crest ranch enterprise are visited and reviewed.

To begin with, they have the advantage of heart-and-soul-expanding enter-

NURSES RECEIVE THEIR DIPLOMAS

Beautiful Ceremonies at the L. D. S. Hospital Last Evening.

SENSIBLE ADDRESSES GIVEN

By Prof. Paul and Dr. Richards—Supt Wells Presided and Bishop Burton Presented Certificates.

The large parlor of the Nurses' Home of the Latter-day Saints' hospital was crowded last night by friends and patrons of the institution to witness the graduation exercises of the first class to receive diplomas for proficiency in professional nursing. The company comprised a number of physicians who were present chiefly from scientific interest. Beautiful decorations and an course, essential; but of the cures that will be effected by your own personality, by your very presence in the sick-room, by the sunshine, not of the orb of day, necessary as that is, but by that sunshine which is in your souls, which speaks from your eyes, which rises in sweet words to your lips, and sings from your heart, to comfort and bless those for whom you may henceforth care to.

THE BEST SUNSHINE.

The fragrant flowers, the beauteous blossoms, which you delicately place in the vase within the view of your patient, will indeed win his mind from all his ills, and will give your hygiene measures a better chance to operate, but the flowers that are breathing their perfume from the depths of your own soul—the impulses that he has hidden, in spite of their frenzied involutionary manifestation, in your own very heart beats, as it were in hearts where pure thoughts seem to have their birth—these are the flowers, these the perfumes, that will have the greatest influence over the weary sufferer whose stricken body and stricken heart are in your keeping. Like the flowers of May in bloom will be your eyes if they are lighted in fitting sympathy for your patient and like the sunshine in the room will be your presence.

THE NURSE WHO SMILES.

The girl who laughs is the most popular girl in society. The nurse who smiles is the best nurse. The physician who believes is the best physician. The patient who trusts is the best patient. Love your patients and they will love you and will get better for your sake as well as for their own. On the other hand, if you should frown logo to light the way through the darkness of death to the eternal world by sunshine that radiates from your own soul, what shall be the sweetness of joy which not alone your patients, but you yourselves shall often feel, as under your administrations the wearied body and the tired heart are cheered and lured back from the shadow of death into the warm sunlight of life—the happiness of wholesome living! What must be the satisfaction that will often thrill your hearts as you behold the pale cheeks grow rosy again and restore the languid eyes regain their lustre, while the drooping form grows upright and the life energies again go leaping through strong veins, heart-beats making the sweet and regular music of health. Oh, remembered forever shall you be by those whom it may be your happy, holy privilege thus to serve and thus to save. And the healed sufferers shall often look up in one and the same glances to you and to heaven in the same thankfulness for recovery of God's great gift of life and health restored through your agency.

MEN LOVE NURSES.

Is it any wonder that convalescent men so frequently desire to marry their nurses?—those who have watched them through the fire of the fever, and have tended them, red them, coaxed them back to life and health as only their own mothers would have done had they been there? Is it any wonder that a man so called back from that pale land, should feel to say with Temzeny: "Ask me no more, thy fate and mine are sealed." And thine happiness is he who wins a bride to whom he owes, as it were, his own life.

And now may peace be with you, and the joys of the strenuous and useful life which you have chosen sustain you. May the Great Physician direct your labors from this time henceforth and forevermore; so that in the midst of pain and the inevitable discomforts of the sick chamber sometimes in the square and destitution of poverty, in the midst of which you may be called to minister, you will forget all this in the greatness, the loveliness, and the worth of the service you are rendering, in the lines of Mrs. Ogden:

"Drop not, though shame, sin and anguish are round thee;
Bravely fling off the cold chafe that hath bound thee;
Look to thy pure heaven smiling be, beyond thee;
Rest not content in the darkness—a
Work for some good, be it ever so lowly;
Cherish, some flower, be it ever so lowly;
Labor! All labor is noble and holy;
Let thy great deeds be thy prayer to thy God!"

DR. RICHARDS SPEAKS.

The quartet then sang, "Love's Old Sweet Song," and Dr. Joseph Richards, the medical superintendent explained the courses that had been taken by the class. He advised the nurses to take care of their own health, and showed that this was really their first duty. He spoke then of the manner in which the very reputation of the hospital work was intrusted to them, and closed by urging faithfulness to duty as the highest qualification of a nurse.

DIPLOMAS CONFERRED.

The class then arose, and Bishop Robert T. Burton with appropriate words, presented to each nurse her certificate of graduation. The quartet sang, "Sally in Our Alley," and the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Orin P. Miller.

Following the congratulations, the bouquets, the handshakings, and the farewells, the junior nurses led the guests and the graduating class into the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served.
