

MC CARTHY KNOCKS OUT OTTO SIELOFF

Fierce Determined Contest Lasted Nine Rounds and Forty Seconds.

FIGHT FANS WELL PLEASED.

Both Boxers Were in Excellent Condition and Each Made the Required Weight, 144 Pounds.

"Say, did you see the McCarthy-Sieloff contest last night?"

The fight fans assembled at the ringside pronounced it a fast and determined contest. After nine rounds and forty seconds a fierce milling, Jerry McCarthy knocked out Otto Sieloff, the fighting Dutchman, of Chicago, and wiped out the defeat he met at the hands of Sieloff last winter.

While the contest was absolutely devoted of fancy sparring, there was hardly a second's rest for either man. It was a real jab and uppercut all the time.

Both men were in splendid physical condition and Jerry was the stronger of the two. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, they weighed in, and neither man raised the beam at 144 pounds.

Willard Brown was chosen referee of the fight, but Tommy Brown, Sietoff's trainer, spring a surprise just before the men were to go on, by demanding that three judges be selected for the contest. The judges, chosen were: Perry Quensen, James Connelly and H. A.
Brats of Ogden. This suggestion caused a little stir, and it was stated that he would resign the position. He resigned a moment later and consented to be a referee.

Right in the beginning of the first round, it was a slap, bang, hammer and a few more, Sietoff was a light left to face. Jerry bored in unmercifully and swung repeatedly on the Dutchman's head and body. Sietoff was on his feet in the third round it looked as if McCarthy might score a knockout. Sietoff missed a dozen swifter for the jaw, but Jerry succeeded in planting a right and left and Jerry exchanged right and left punches, both landing, and then Jerry swung a terrific blow on Sietoff's neck, knocking him to the floor where he remained for the count. Always game, always ready, Otto came up for more and got it. Four times he was sent to the mat from McCarthy's onslaught and the game saved Sietoff.

In the fourth Sietoff made a wonderful rally, showing his courage and condition. He came up strong and fast and took the aggressive. He planted a hard right in Jerry's neck and had the boxer boy almost at his mercy. Around the ring he forced McCarthy, who was plainly in distress, and when the going got rough a pleasant sound to Jerry and his seconds.

But from that round on McCarthy rallied, and later forced the fighting.
Sietoff was compelled to hang on to save himself. Sietoff tried to get the uppercut with left jabs to Jerry's sore nose, but the latter grinned at the blows and rushed in for a close fight. McCarthy and eight blows became tired from the terrible pace that was set, and Sietoff knocked in every mix-up or exchange of blows.

The ninth round was the beginning of the end. Five times Jerry knocked Sietoff to the floor, and each time Otto took the count, but gamely came up to the scratch. He tried to rally, but he could do no more. McCarthy appeared to get stronger, but, seeing that he had the better of the fight, he did not want to fight any longer and could not land the finishing blow.

Such came a knock somewhat refreshed for the tenth round. Jerry was the stronger, however, and the moment he got to the center of the ring, he rushed at Sietoff for the purpose of ending the match. After some light hounding, he planted another hard right on Sietoff's head and the Chicago boy went down for the count. As he arose to his feet, Mc-Carthy shot in with a left and a right, full on the jaw. Otto fell to the canvas on his face and was counted out. This knockout was clean and thorough, and clearly showed McCarthy to be the master. This much was admitted by Sietoff when the two met in the dressing room after the fight. With tears streaming down his face, McCarthy said to Sietoff:

"Otto, you are a fast, game fellow. I am glad that I was able to say that I am glad I whipped you as a kid, but I am glad because of the friendly and understanding fight that has been made on me here. You understand what it is, I promised my friends that I given a chance I would redeem myself, and I have done it."

Sietoff said: "That is all right, Jerry.
You defeated me fairly and I have no excuse to offer. They told me you could beat me, but I want to say to you right here that you are all right, that you are one of the finest and best men I have ever met. No one can ever tell me again that you can't fight."

McCarthy said that his trainer, Frank S. Lewis, was entitled to great credit for his (Jerry's) splendid condition. The contest was given under the management of the Shamrock Athletic club.

BIG MEET ON SATURDAY.

U. of T. Boys Will Then Compete for Honors With Colorado Springs.

Much interest centers in the big intercollegiate track and field meet which is to take place on the university campus on Saturday. The Colorado Springs team and the Varsity team of the University of Utah are the champions of Utah.

That the contest will be a close one and determined in each and every event, goes without saying, and the Utah boys feel that they are entitled to the honors. Word has reached here that Colorado Springs will send on a strong team to compete with the Varsity team. The varsity team is a good one, and the varsity team is a good one.

The visitors announce their entries

Moneyback.

Temple City next Wednesday, between members of the City of Salt Lake City, and the Cache County-Marchant. The letter received by Mayor Morris is as follows:

"In behalf of the people of Logan, I wish to extend to yourself and the members of the Council of Salt Lake City, an invitation to be present at the contingent of the Cache County-Marchant. The letter received by Mayor Morris is as follows:

"That day promises to be the greatest in the history of the county and we would like very much to have you in attendance."

"A special train will leave Salt Lake early on the morning of June 1.
Very respectfully yours, (Signed) E. W. ROBINSON, Mayor."

MC FARLAND GOES EAST.

Hardy Downling to Remain Here—Other Cyclists on Their Way.

Floyd McFarland, who arrived here with Hardy Downling from Australia a few days ago, left yesterday for the east, where he will race this season. Hardy Downling will remain here for the Salt Lake Palace races.

Other riders are now on their way to Salt Lake, among them being Johnnie Chapman, C. L. Hollister and G. E.
Adams. The riders say they will be in the shape for the race on Decoration day, and the management of the saucer expects to entertain a large crowd.

Exchange Still Closed.

The Salt Lake Turt Exchange, at the rear of the Kenyon hotel, was shut down as the result of the recent order of the Federal Reserve bank, and there is no indication as to when it will be reopened. It is opened at all. However, the members are expressing themselves hopefully.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

An extremely pretty home wedding of yesterday was that of Miss Catherine Culmer and Mr. Frank Roberts, the event taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. A.
Culmer. The rooms were charmingly decorated, the parlor in white and green, the library in pink, and the dining room in yellow and an orchestra stationed on the stair landing rendered appropriate music during the ceremony and throughout the reception, which followed. Dean Eddie officiated, and the bride's sister, Miss Florence Culmer, was bridesmaid, while the groom was attended by Harry Roberts.
The young couple left on the 12 o'clock train for an eastern trip, after which they will return here to reside. Both have many warm friends who will extend best wishes for their future.

The dinner given by Hugh Satterlee last night at the University club was a delightful affair. The large dining room was used and was effectively decorated with sweet peas and plumosa, and all guests being present. After dinner an informal evening was enjoyed with mu-
