OBITUARY.

ELDER JOSEPH LAWSON.

OGDEN, Utah, Jan. 25, 1896.—Elder Joseph Lawson was the son of Edward Lawson and Margaret Cottier Lawson. He was born at Douglas, Isle of Man, December 9, 1824. His father was a miller and wheelwright in grain, flour, etc., and was the proprietor of a large corn exchange. He did an extensive business on the Island and elsewhere. Joseph received his education in his native town, and was for a number of years his father's right-hand man. He kept the books and conducted the entire business of the establishment, and then retired his father of much care and responsibility.

After the fullness of the Gospel as preached by the Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints had invaded the Isle of Joseph there found him as a tireless and earnest student of Mormonism. He was ultimately convinced that it was true and on February 27, 1844, was baptized by John Mansfield.

On December 9, 1845, he was united in marriage to Miss Eleanor Garnett. She was the daughter of Hugh Garnett and Catherine Christian Garnett. She was born at Douglas, Isle of Man, on November, 1825. In 1846 she was baptized at Liverpool by Joseph Hall.

Soon after their marriage they emigrated to the United States and settled in New Orleans, La. During one of the terrible scourges that visited that city Mrs. Lawson was prostrated, and on July 27, 1853, she succumbed to the yellow fever. She had scarcely reached the prime of life, being not 30 years of age when she died. There were no children of the marriage.

After the death of his wife Brother Lawson returned to England and from there he went to the Isle of Man, in which country he remained for a little over one year doing what he could to convince his friends and neighbors that the fulness of the Gospel had been restored from earth by an angel sent from heaven for this purpose. On May 2, 1854, he was ordained an Elder at Douglas, under the hands of J. W. Coward and Jacob Crosse. He had previously been ordained a Priest, Oct. 3, 1847. He labored in a local capacity in the ministry till 1855. On March 31st of that year he embarked on board the large sailship Juverna, bound for Philadelphia with over 400 Mormons on board. From Philadelphia he went forward by railroad and steamer to Saint-ville Ottawa, his outfitting point for that year's Mormon overland emigration. It was toward about here in the west of Atchison, Kansas. He traveled the "Creeks," May 7, and remained there until June 7, when he commenced his overland journey to Utah. There were fifty-three wagons in the company, under the immediate command of Captain John Hinley. He reached Salt Lake City, near sundown, September 4th, and on the 6th of same month he took to himself for a wife Ruth M. Greenwood, the ceremony being performed by Bishop Abraham Hoagland.

On Nov. 2nd, he with his wife came to Ogden, which place since the time they have made their permanent home. He was engaged in agricultural pursuits principally, also in opening up canyon roads, building canals and other water courses for irrigation and mill purposes. He held stock in and assisted to dig out the Ogden canal.

On June 28, 1857, he was ordained a Seventy and joined the Fifty-third quorum, which he faithfully sought to fill. He labored as a home missionary in the Weber Stake for several years, preaching the Gospel in the various settlements as well as in Ogden city. At a general conference held at Salt Lake City, April 7, 1860, he was called to go on a mission to Great Britain. On the 17th of the same month he was set apart by President John Taylor and others, and on the 28th he started on his mission. He traveled on foot, being "being without purse or scrip" and suffering many hardships and often making the cold ground his bed at night. He reached Chicago, Ill., on June 21st, where, for lack of funds, he slept out of doors four nights. From Chicago he went to New York arriving there August 8th, still without money. Here he was compelled to sleep out nine nights. He walked in and around New York for some considerable time in order to earn means to enable him to further prosecute his journey to his destination.

On September 26th he took passage on the steamship Palmyra, bound for Liverpool, England, where he arrived October 8th, and reported at the headquarters of the British mission. He labored in the ministry in Liverpool until the 25th, when he was appointed to preach the Gospel on the Isle of Man. There he continued doing missionary work until November 27th, when he received another appointment to labor in the Norwich district, under the direction of Elder Abel Evans. Again, on December 31st of the same year, he was sent to travel and preach in the Peterborough conference under the presidency of Elder William White. In the latter field his ministry was continued until June 10th, 1858, at which date he was appointed to preside over the Norwich conference. In addition to the above named places Elder Lawson did a great deal of effective missionary work in Worcestershire, Herefordshire, and many other towns and villages in England, and wherever he went he made a host of kind friends. During the above named periods he labored incessantly, notwithstanding he had become much reduced physically. In the fall of the year 1859, he was honorably released from his mission to return home. On Sept. 22nd, he took passage on board the steamship Manhattan, with 200 Latter-day Saints, bound for New York. He was appointed to preside over the company. They arrived at that point Oct. 7th, and then proceeded at once by railroad for Utah. He arrived at Ogden city Oct. 25th, where he rested after his long and toilsome journey.

On December 20th he was ordained a High Priest by President Louis Vasquenin and was secretary of the High Priests' quorum of the Weber Stake for about seven years.

On May 25, 1869, Elder Lawson received another letter of appointment to fill a mission to Great Britain. This time he was accompanied by his wife. They arrived in New York about the 1st of June, and on the 4th sailed from that portion the steamship Wisconsin, and on the 13th landed in Liverpool. From there he was again sent to the Isle of Man, but in consequence of severe physical debility, he was unable to travel, so he labored in Liverpool and New York, acting as the branch president in the latter city. While there he also was engaged in searching for the genealogies of his ancestors, in which he was successful. This mission was a very brief one, owing to his sickness. On August 23rd, 1869, he, with his wife, boarded the steamship Wisconsin and sailed from Liverpool for New York, arriving here September 10th. On their return trip and while about four miles from Lanesboro, they had a narrow escape from drowning. The boat struck several passengers were severely injured, but Elder Lawson and wife escaped unharmed. On September 23rd they arrived at Ogden again in safety.

For seven years previous to his death Joseph Lawson was confined to his house with palsy. He was completely paralyzed and unable to help himself in any manner. In his old affliction his faithful wife nursed him until his death affectionately.

He passed peacefully away early on New Year's morning, 1896, and was interred in the Ogden cemetery. He was a man in whom reverence for the deity was strongly developed. He was a diligent worker, and had the most implicit faith in his Father, truth and mercy of God. He was himself a test and upright man, believed honesty to be the best policy and was honest to a fault. He was true to his God, to his country and to his home. He was devotedly attached to his family and was dearly beloved by them. He died in the full faith that he would rise again on the morning of the first resurrection. He left a wife, one daughter and nineteen grand children.

BROKE THE TOBACCO TRUST.

Tobacco Manufacturers Losing Ten Millions a Year.

Great Excitement in St. Louis. No Possibility of Preventing Still Greater Loss in '96.

ST. LOUIS.—(Special.)—Col. Wm. Kinsella, Chief Western Manager of the American Tobacco Company, has been a man of colossal ideas all his life, and for years has amused as many as twenty eligible daily. After seeing a few issues of New York papers, he decided to go there and see what was doing. He arrived in the city on the 1st of January, 1895, and on the 2nd of January, 1895, he was in the office of Mr. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company. Mr. Duke is a man of few words, and he is wonderfully impressed in Kinsella. He says in answering a great many questions and comments, and many propositions, Mr. Duke simply said: "Keep on coming here occasionally." Kinsella kept on coming here occasionally. People are just waking up to the fact that the combine as known is very important.

An interview with Mr. H. L. Kramer, the originator of No-To-Bac, develops the fact that within three years it has reached the enormous sale of almost sixty millions of boxes, which, if placed end to end, would reach around the world four times. Over one million dollars in cash has been paid out for No-To-Bac and not a single complaint has been received. At the present time No-To-Bac sells in Missouri, Mississippi, and as Mr. Kramer says, "it is always the worst cases that we get a report from and we never have records of cures after every known remedy has failed, as No-To-Bac has many instances and testimonials to the public should be warned against taking snuff, and it will cure in a few days. No-To-Bac is the original tobacco habit cure, and is sold under an absolute guarantee to cure the tobacco habit, to your own druggist.

A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it one week I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a pleasant remedy.
