

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

A Talk With Artist Fairbanks—Christmas Among the Utah Colony—Meeting of Relief Society.

Special Correspondence.

New York, Dec. 30, 1901.—As the dispatches have no doubt already told you, J. B. Fairbanks, artist of the Brigham Young Academy South American expedition, arrived in New York several days ago on his way to Utah. He left the company some time in October, when they were camped about four hundred miles up the Magdalena river. Mr. Fairbanks, leaving them at that point, traveled on down to Santa Marta, where he remained six weeks painting and sketching—also awaiting orders from President Cluff. From Santa Marta he took the steamer to New York, where he will stay for a month visiting studios and artists. He is most enthusiastic in his belief of the future of that country, and very interestingly related conversations he had with many of the prominent people of the Colombian republic, foremost among them being General Castro, with whom he journeyed down the Magdalena river, the general pointing out the beautiful and fertile tracts of land, saying, "It was free to all who would care to cultivate it." He, with the rest of his people, are desirous of seeing the land utilized and will do all in their power to encourage emigration there. Mr. Fairbanks also relates that any climate may be had: eternal summer or eternal winter, as each is available in that little known land. Water being so plentiful, and the land free, he argues our people will see so many advantages when they are fully explained to them, that emigration will surely be the result of the expedition work. He is certainly an able advance agent, both with pen and brush, for the country and people; his enthusiasm and belief in its future are unbounded.

Christmas has come and gone; it was not the white Christmas so well remembered in childhood, but a warm sunny day, with a strong hint of spring. The cold wave made us a very brief call a week before, so that on that eventful day everybody was out in spring attire. The day was well observed by our colony here; invitations were numerous and a good time was had by all. At the home of Hon. J. W. Young, a large party assembled to partake of his hospitality, Major R. W. Young Mr. Hyram Woolley and son, Seldon Clawson, President Goff and Elder Nebeker as invited guests, together with his family of eight, filled a table of happy jolly people. The Christmas tree was in evidence, also the mistletoe, which was suspended in several places to the great amusement of all. Dancing was indulged in, on a very small scale, the music being furnished by J. Wesley Young and Mrs. Easton, whose repertoire included two pieces, "Money Musk" and the "Spring Waltz," nevertheless the dancing was as spirited as any ever seen at Saltair, with Christensen's best furnishing the strains.

E. R. Davis, a former teacher at the Brigham Young College in Logan, and who has been in Harvard for nearly two years, studying English literature, is spending the holidays with his friend, Elder Horace Nebeker, in Harlem. Mr. Davis is a prominent officer in the Sunday school in Boston.

Mrs. D. C. Dunbar has gone to Maryland to visit relatives, and spend New Year's with members of her father's family; her son Hooper and two daughters accompanied her.

At the Latter-day Saints chapel Sunday memorial services were held in honor of the Prophet Joseph Smith. President McQuarrie first made a brief address, and was followed by Elder R. H. Bradford and Major R. W. Young, each one in turn paying eulogistic tribute to the great Latter-day Prophet.

Miss Elizabeth Lamson and Miss Louise Putnam, both former residents of Salt Lake, called on Miss Grace Young last week. Miss Lamson, who is living with her sister, Mrs. Tracey at Plainfield, N. J., is studying the violin, under Arnold, leader of the "Philharmonic," and Miss Putnam, who is a student at "Smith College," is visiting her friend, Miss Lamson during the holidays.

The Latter-day Saints Relief Society gave a sociable in Hawthorne building Saturday evening, its only object being to promote a better acquaintance between the Utah portion of the conference, and the New York and Brooklyn part, the latter is so rapidly increasing it is necessary to have these social gatherings quite often; they are also doing an immense amount of good. A fine impromptu program was given. President Goff, Mrs. Davis, John Sharp, Selden Clawson, Mary Young, Ruth Wilson, Anne Seymour and daughter, and Ethel Bosley taking part, President McQuarrie acting as master of ceremonies. Each member brought some light refreshment which was thoroughly enjoyed; then President McQuarrie facetiously announced that a little dancing might be indulged in, provided that on the stroke of twelve the princess and Cinderella would lose no time in securing wraps and turning their faces homeward, all of which was strictly observed.

Richard Mansfield as Beauchamp, the "reincarnated Frenchman" as he has been called, is packing the Herald Square theater nightly, notwithstanding he and his play have been adversely criticised by so many. He is an immense favorite here, and no matter what he does New York flock to see him. His support is good, though Lettice Fairfax, his leading woman, sadly needs ginger. It is impossible to imagine Mansfield without a court dress, lace frills and silver lace buckles, together with other feminine adornments, yet one can be a hero even with all that finery and Mansfield proves himself one as Beauchamp.

Sybil Sanderson the California soprano, made her farewell bow Saturday afternoon at the Metropolitan as Juliet to the Romeo of Alvarez. It is a matter of regret that this fine singer and actress will be seen no more in New York this winter; the house was packed and flowers were in abundance.

JANET.

Saw Death Near.
"It often made my heart ache," writes L. C. Overstreet, of Elgin, Tenn., to hear my wife cough until it seemed her weak and sore lungs would collapse. Good doctors said she was so far gone with Consumption that no medicine or earthly help could save her, but a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery and persistent use of this excellent medicine saved her life. It's absolutely guaranteed for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all Throat and Lung diseases. 50c and $1.00 at Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. Trial bottles free.

AMERICAN BOYS TO MEET BRITISH.

R. S. PATTERSON.

R. S. Patterson, an American schoolboy, has just arrived in England where he goes to arrange a big athletic meet between the boys of England and America. The unique contest will take place next July on English territory. The English team will be chosen from Eton, Rugby, Stonyhurst and Seton Hall. The American team will consist of schoolboys from all over the country, to be selected by competition.

Judge Gibson's Joke.

Charles Mallon, clerk of the board of health, was a witness yesterday in the case of the Kansas Loan and Guaranty company against the city, which has been on trial in Judge Gibson's division of the circuit court. Mr. Mallon was called for the purpose of testifying regarding the work that had been done by certain city employees, who, it is claimed, had sold their time to the plaintiff. When he took the witness stand he opened on his lap the big book in which he keeps the time of the employees of the health department. There was a slight delay in the proceedings. During this time Judge Gibson learned over, adjusted his spectacles and eyed the book curiously.

"What book is that, Charley?" he asked.
"It's the timebook of the board of health," Mr. Mallon replied.
Judge Gibson took hold of a corner and glanced down the list of names. He read "Peter McGuffey, Tim Mulcahey, Mike O'Hearn," and a lot of other equally Irish names.

"Is that really the board of health's timebook?" the court finally asked with a quizzical air.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, I had concluded that it was the roster of the Ancient Order of Hibernians,"—Kansas City Journal.

They Do Not Speak.

It was Charley's first game of golf. His patient friend had taken him saddy around the eighteen holes and watched him hack the ball into small bits and cut up the green as though it had been plowed by shrapnel. After the game Charley and his patient friend were talking to a few of the golfers on the club house veranda.

"That was a beautiful shot you made this afternoon, Charley," said the patient friend.

Charley brightened up and flushed happily, while the young women looked at him admiringly. "Which one?" he asked eagerly.

"Why," said the patient friend, "the time you hit the ball."—Chicago Tribune.

A Woman's Awful Feat.

"There is only one chance to save your life and that is through an operation," were the startling words heard by Mrs. I. B. Hunt, of Lime Ridge, Wis., from her doctor after he had vainly tried to cure her of a frightful case of stomach trouble and yellow jaundice. Gall stones had formed and she constantly grew worse. Then she began to use Electric Bitters which wholly cured her. It's a wonderful Stomach, Liver and Kidney remedy. Cures Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Bile, Only 50c. Guaranteed. For sale by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept.
