THE ELECTIONS.

THE STATES WHICH ELECTED STATE OFFICERS TO-DAY

AND THE CONGRESSIONAL CAN-DIDATES TREY VOTED FOR.

Congressmen (which latter are being as the returns come in,-ED. NEWS.]

CALIFORNIA. A Governor is to be elected in California to-day. The candidates are:
John F. Swift, Republican; WashIngton Bartlett, Democrat; Joel Russeil, Prohibitionist; P. D. Wigginton,

John F. Swift is the only one of the four that has made an active canvass of the State. There is no important ques-tion at issue between the two chief parties (Republican and Democratic). swift's campaign has been mainly confined to an assertion that the affairs of the State would be better administered by the Republican party than by the Democratic one. The election of Rep-resentatives to the Legislature is the most important feature of the cam-paign, as the result will determine whether the next Senator from California will be a Republican or a Demo-crat. Both parties will put forth their utmost strength to secure the prize. Six Congressmen will also be elected. The contest in each district is being made on pure party lines.

Irrigation will be one of the most important questions for the consideration of the next Legislature, but it is not being made an issue of in the elec-tion. All are agreed that a system of irrigation is necessary. The only ques-tion to be decided is the best method of acquiring, or, rather, creating such Prohibition will be fought on its own The "American" ticket, as its name implies, maintains that none but American born citizens shall be privi-leged to administer the affairs of the State. The party in this State has but a limited following:

COLORADO. The following ticket has been put in Congress—G. G. Symes, Rep.; Myron W. Reed, Dem.; Joseph Murray, Pro.

Treasurer—Peter W. Breene, Rep.; Jas. F. Benedict, Dem., William C. Stover, Pro. Secretary of State-James Rice, Rep. lere Mahoney, Dem.; Thomas E. Bluss Auditor-D. P. Kingsley, Rep., Casmiro Barela, Dem.; Warren R. Fowler, Pro. Attorney General-Alvin Marsh, Rep.; E. L. Shirman, Dem., A. W. Breazee, Pro.

The campaign in this state is waged between the Democrat and Republican parties. There is a Prohibition ticket in the field, but it will not have any important influence on the result. On the Republican side the fight is made from a purely party standpoint. The Democrats charge great extravagance on the part of the Republican administration. There is a great deal of dis-satisfaction among the Republicans with their State ticket, and many express a determination to vote with the Democrats, whose ticket is composed of men of very high character. Both parties are in favor of the free coinage of sliver.

The candidates are:

Lieutenant Governor-Robt. S. Robertson, Rep.; John C. Nelson, Dem. Secretary of State-Chas, F. Griffin, Rep. Robt. W. Miers, Dein. Auditor-Bruce Carr, Rep.; Chas. A. Munson, Dem.
Treasurer-Julius A. Lemcke, Rep.; Thos., B. Byrnes, Dem.
Judge of Supreme Court-Byron K. Elbot, Rep.; John R. Coffroth, Dem.
Attorney General-Louis T. Michener, Rep.; Hugh D. McMullen, Dem.
Clerk of Sapreme Court-Wm. T. Noble, Rep.; Martin T. Krueger, Dem.
Superintendent of Public Institution—Harvey M. LaFollette, Rep.; Andrew M. Sweenev, Dem. r-Bruce Carr, Rep.; Chas, A.

The campaign has been confined almost exclusively to State issues, the Republicans making the fight on the institutions, and charges of irregularities in the State Treasury. The Demo-crats have defended themselves against these attacks, and sought to weaken their opponents by giving prominence to what they claimed was a tricky position on the liquor question. In ad-dition to the regular party tickets, the parts of the State, and a similar state-ment applies to the Nationalists. The tickets include offices from Lieutenan Governor to Coroner, and the work of counting will be slow and tedious. The campaign has not developed any-thing approaching the political heat and excitement generally witnessed a Judge of the Supreme Court, a Suduring the struggles in this State.

KENTUCKY. In this State candidates for Congress and members of the State Board of Equalization will be voted for. The Congressional fight in the Third District is attracting more attention at present than any other. Two Democrats are in the field. Neither will withdraw, and the result is that Dr. Godfrey Hunter, a Republican, is likely to be elected over John S. Rhea and John E. Halsell, the present incumbent. The district is Democratic, and great pressure was brought to force one or both of the Democrats out of the race. In all the other districts the indications point to the election of Demo-cratic Congressional candidates.

The State tickets put in nomination

In Minnesota three State tickets have been placed in the field—Republican, Democratic and Prohibitionist. The Republican platform demands high license, recognition of the rights of labor, no convict labor, competition Henry Long, Pro.

license, recognition of the rights of labor, no convict labor competition, reduction of the tariff and the exection of a soldiers' home. The Democratic platform tavors low license. The question of low or high license has been the principal point at issue between the two parties. The Prohibitionists have shown more determination and activity that ever before in this State, having State, County and Legislative tickets in the field, backed by quite a respectable campaign fund. The Democratic party is also better organized and more hopeful than ever before. During President Cleveland's administration there have been about 440 postmasters and other Federal ent i Mayor of Minneapolis, winning many adherents. For Supreme Court Judges the Democrats made no nominations declaring that the indicisry nations, declaring that the judiciary should be non-partisan, a view endorsed by the Republicans by the non-ination of the present incumbents. In J. P. Walker, Dem. joint conference the Farmers' Alliance and the Knights of Labor decided not to nominate a State ticket, though the alliance has county tickets and legisla-alliance has county tickets and legislative candidates in many counties. As between the two leading parties, the farmers and laboring men are about equally divided. The platform of the alliance demands laws to prevent the watering of railroad lands now exempt, an Congressmen (which latter are being Congressmen (which latter are being chosen in all the States) are being held. It will be convenient to refer to as the returns come in —En News 1 child labor, the same wages for the same work to both sexes, the abolition of convict labor and the establishment of a State Labor Bureau.

Differing issues are prominent in the Congressional districts. In the first the Republicans have dwelt uponJudge Wilson's record as the attorney or certain railroads, and made a strong tariff reduction campaign. Lovely's Fro. election is probable, notwithstanding the unusual prominence and popularity of his opponent. In the Second District the Democrats and the Farmers' Allance unite upon A. C. Bulis. Lind will doubtless receive the usual Republican majority in this district— 10,000. In the Third District there is a robability of the election of the Democratic pominee, Judge McDonaid. In 1884 Ignatius Donnelly reduced the Republican majority to 1,600. In the Fourth District the result is very un-certain on account of the great unpopularity of the Democratic nominee, Edward Rice, present mayor of St. Paul. Capital is made of Giffillan's aleged antagonism to the demands of the labor element while in Congress. In the Fifth the Democrats made no nomination, and Nelson will get his usual majority—12,000.

The Legislature, which meets Jan. 4.

1887, will elect a successor to the present United States Senator, S. J. Mc-Millan, his term having expired. The candidates for the position are: Ex-Governor Cush. K. Dayis, Senator McMillan (who seeks re-election), W. D. Washburn, R. B. Langdon, William Windom and Gordon E. Cole. Of 150 members of the Legislature likely to members of the Legislature likely to be elected, 87 have been instructed and pledged to vote for Davis.

MISSOURI. perintendent of Public Instruction, a Railroad Commissioner and county officers. The Legislature to be elected will choose a Senator to succeed Francis M. Cockrell, whose term expires March 4, 1887. The only question at issue aside from the Senatorial succession is that of the submission to the people of an amendment to the State constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors The Democratic party took strong grounds against the submission at its state Convention, while the Republican party's platform calls on the Legislature to submit the question of "a change in the organic law of the State" to a vote of the people, when such sub-mission shall be petitioned for by "a respectable number of voters." In many legislative districts the Probibitionists have placed candidates in the field. In others the candidates of but the Republican and Democratic parties are piedged to vote for submis-sion. the Republican and Demogratic parties are piedged to vote for submission. In St. Louis a labor ticket is in the field for the Legislature. There is some little opposition to the re-election of Senator Cockrell, but it is not sufficiently pronounced to bring the Senatorial contest into prominence.

The Congressional delegation now stands twelve Democrats and two Republicans. Of the Democrats but two, Dawson, of the Fourteenth District, and Hale, of the Second, tailed of a renomination, and Mr. Hale is running independent against Mansur, the regular Democratic nominee. TEXAS. The campaign in Texas, as far as relates to the political issues, has been spiritiess and without feature. The sluggishness and absence of living State issues is attributable to the certainty of the election of the entire Democratic State ticket by the usual overwhelming majority. The Republication is attributed in the barn, where an eld muzzle-loading shotgun laid, without attracting attention. But he had hardly accomplished half the distance when one of the men, who had stolen up behind him, seized him and threw him down. A DEVOTED NEGRO. HE RECEIVES THE BALL INTENDED FOR HIS MASTER IN HIS OWN HEART. There was aboard the train bound east last Sunday a coffin containing the body of Medley Hughes, a young col

John Clifford, a young man owning a The following tickets have been put ranch and a few cattle, situated upon a nomination: the Salmon River, Idaho, while in Boise City last March, chanced to come across an old negro couple who were formerly owned by his father in Tenessee. Happening to be in search of a cook, and the old couple learning that fact, he was induced to engage their son, Medley Hughes, or "Med," as he was called, for the position. The young man was about 20 years of age, and a more obedient and faithful worker, Mr. Clifford says he has never Everything went slong smoothly un-til the night of Saturday, (cctober 9, when about 10 o'clock Mr. Clifford, who was sleeping in the catin, about flity yards from the barn where the horses, were kept, was suddenly awakened by what seemed to be a stifled cry, and proceeded from the vicinity of the stable. Upon hearing no other sounds after listening intently for a few minutes, he convinced himself that he was mistaken and retired But he had hardly settled down in his bunk when he heard a pounding against the door of the stable. Dressing himself immediately, and taking his six-shooter and lantern, he hurried to the barn. On opening the door he found "Med" securely bound and gagged, lying near the door. After refleving him of his fetters, the boy told his tale, which in substance was as follows:

as follows:
"Med" was awakened by one of the horses kicking the side of the stall. On looking in the direction of the noise, he saw three men in the act of untying the two Clydesdale mares which were near the doer. He tried to get to the end of the barn, where an eld muzzle-loading shotenn laid with the tried to get to the loading shotenn laid with the tried to get to the conditions that the same laid with the state of the land in the laid with the state of the land in the land with the state of the land in the la

Democratic ticket. The Republicans have practically made no campaiga on behalf of their ticket, while the Prohibitionists have made considerable noise through the press and held numerous mass meetings, yet their canvass scarcely extended beyond a dozen of the 230 counties of the State. The chief interest of the campaign centers on the election of the legislative ticket. The next Legislature will elect a successor to United States Senator Samuel Beil ter of the stable, but he finally worked United States Senator Samuel Bell Maxey. There are four prominent and avowed Democratic candidates in the field for the Senatorial toga, besides a half dozen possible tandidates and dark horses. General Maxey is desirous of succeeding himself; Judge Alexander W. Terrell, of Austin, has made an able and thorough canvass of the State on a strong anti monopolisto be only two of them there. Resolved to capture them any way, they covered them with their guns and ordered them to threw up their hands. The order was promptly com-plied with, and the men secured Where the other man was was now the question, so they were about to rethe question, so they were about to remove his companions and wait for him to return, when "Mad," who was standing close to the employer, saw a man standing behind a tree about five feet from him, sudde nly level a revolver at Mr. Clifford. With a shout "Med" jumped between him and his intended victim, only to receive the hall intended for all paster in his own oall intended for his master in his own heart. The man then started to run, but was dropped by a shot from Bos-well. The grief of Clifford was un-controllable when upon the confes-sion of the dying horse thief he was teld how "Med" was killed. "Med" ad always fairly worshipped his employer and it was made more evident by his self sacrifice. The boy never spoke a word after being shot. The body was on the way to his parents
