

FRAGMENTS.

CONGRESS has adjourned.

The mercury stood at 89 deg. in the shade to-day.

SHERIFF ALLISON was in from Summit County to-day.

ROSE THORN, for drunkenness, was fined $25 in the Police Court this morning.

A large number of witnesses are still in attendance upon the grand jury.

POSTMASTER DOUGALL, of Springfield, was among the excursionists from the south to-day.

The Eighth Quorum of Seventies will meet at the usual time and place to-morrow (Friday) evening. A general attendance is solicited.

YESTERDAY afternoon, in the Third District Court, the suit of George M. Scott et al. vs. Joseph Baker et al. was dismissed, attachment and levy released, and bail exonerated.

THE excursion over the Utah Central Railway to this city, brought about 600 passengers from Sanpete, Juab and Utah counties. Most of them went out to the Lake to-day.

THE grand jury came into the Third District Court yesterday afternoon and reported having found nine indictments under United States laws. Bail was fixed on each, in amounts varying from $1,000 to $2,000.

THE young boy who was arrested yesterday on a charge of petty larceny, for stealing some edibles from Mr. Lambourne's place, was set at liberty after a few hours' confinement in the city jail and a fatherly lecture from Justice Pyper.

FOR the information of all who expect to participate in the excursion to Lake Park to-morrow, the committee of arrangements wish to state that there will be no departure this evening and that the last train will leave the Park at 8:30 p.m.

CLARENCE P. DEANER, publisher of the Hancock (Iowa) Herald, and special correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, arrived in this city last evening, and stopped over for a day to view the sights. He is en route to the G. A. R. encampment in San Francisco, but was delayed in starting, by reason of his being a witness at the trial of the anarchists in Chicago.

LOCAL NEWS.

Fined.—Yesterday John Powell and Thomas Condie, two of the parties who engaged in a fight at Lake Point several weeks since, were arrested and taken to Tooele County for trial. They were arraigned before a justice of the peace and entered a plea of guilty. A fine of $25 was imposed in each case.

THE Summit County Election.—Returns from all but three precincts of Summit County have been received. Placing the figures in these precincts at the same as last year, the result is: People's Party, 1,087; "Liberals," 581. The candidate for coroner on the People's ticket ran behind the other officers, but is elected by about 150 majority.

Injunction Denied.—The hearing of the application for an injunction made by the Western Union Telegraph Company to restrain the Salt Lake Power, Light and Heating Company from erecting their wires on certain streets in the city, was continued in the Third District Court to-day. After listening to the arguments of both sides, Judge Zane issued an order denying the injunction, without prejudice.

Badly Hurt.—A serious accident occurred just before noon to-day. Hyram Newton, Jr., aged 10 years, was driving a load of hay toward his home, in the Tenth Ward. The team became frightened from some cause and ran away. The boy jumped from the load, with the load of hay falling on him. Unfortunately he alighted in front of the wagon, and both wheels passed over his body, inflicting serious injury, the extent of which the surgeon called to attend him was unable as yet to determine. The poor lad was taken to his home, where he now lies in a precarious condition.

Will Practice at Provo.—This morning we received a friendly call from Mr. B. W. Briggs, Jr., who recently graduated successfully in a course of law studies, at Ann Arbor, Michigan. Having adopted the legal profession, he, associated with Mr. Samuel R. Thurman, a justly popular attorney of Provo, will open rooms in the bank building in this city, to wish Mr. Briggs abundant success, believing him both capable and deserving. Should the two gentlemen make a consolidation in a firm capacity, as Thurman & Briggs, they will make a strong professional team.

The Sheepmen Moving.—This afternoon we met with Mr. Edwin Booth, of Nephi, a gentleman considerably interested in the sheep industry. We learn from him that the sheepmen of the southern part of the Territory have concluded to organize a sheepmen's association. Its leading object will be to dispose entirely with middlemen in the disposal of wool. It is to operate on an equal basis, so far as prices are concerned, with the most extensive ones. This is a step in the right direction, as every movement that gives the producer the fullest possible benefit of his own products is commendable. For the attainment of the object referred to a convention of sheep men is called to be held on the 9th of September next, in the Juab County Court House at Nephi. A call for the gathering will be found in another column.

He Appeared Quite Healthy.—A man named Shafer, a mine owner, called at the News office to-day to tell of the honesty of a young man. He had gone to Z. C. M. I. and made some purchases. He thoughtfully left his purse, containing several thousand dollars, on the counter. He went about town for several hours when he discovered his purse was missing. He could not recall where he had left it, but returned to Z. C. M. I. in hopes of finding it. He approached the young clerk who had waited on him. This young man handed him his lost treasure intact. Of course he was overwhelmed with gratitude, which he expressed to the attaché of the News office, to whom he was relating the incident.

"Well," said the A. of the N. O., "did you reward the young man?" "Certainly I did. I gave him four bits. He refused to take it, but I forced him to."

We asked the A. of the N. O. if the owner of the purse looked healthy. "Quite robust," said he. "Very remarkable that appearance should be so deceptive," we muttered, "seeing that the unfortunate man is evidently afflicted with enlargement of the prostate."

SUICIDE OF C. S. WHITNEY.

DURING A FIT OF TEMPORARY INSANITY—THE CAUSE STILL UNDISCOVERED IN MYSTERY.

The coroner's inquest over the remains of Charles S. Whitney, whose terrible fate was recorded in these pages, failed to give any additional light as to the reasons why the unfortunate young man should take his own life. The jurors chosen were C. S. Burton, Oscar Hardy and H. M. Wells. Dr. Harrison, Miss Genevieve Whitney, Mrs. Mary Whitney, Mrs. B. P. Musser, Mrs. Lulu S. Horrocks, Mr. B. Young and Mr. Rampton were examined as witnesses.

The testimony given showed that for some time past the deceased had been afflicted with a severe attack of melancholy, which at times caused the most excruciating pains in the head. For several days he had been far from well, but yesterday morning went to his work as usual at Henry Diawood's furniture store. He came home at noon, ate a very light meal and returned to the store. He went away from there shortly after, leaving a little boy in charge—something very unusual. He returned home, during which time he met with Mr. B. Young, who is about to leave on a mission to New Zealand, and expressed a wish that he was going along. He then went down town and came back home, holding his head as if in great agony. He went up stairs, and a few moments after a pistol shot was heard. Miss Genevieve Whitney and a companion hurried up stairs, where a horrible sight met their gaze. There lay the deceased, in his own blood, in the throes of death. The pistol—which was the property of Miss Genevieve Whitney, with which the deed had been committed, lay beside him, and the ball had passed through his head, entering above the right ear, ranging upward and coming out on the opposite side of the head, and sticking in the ceiling, from where it fell onto the bed.

An alarm was soon given and Mrs. Mary Whitney called in Dr. Harrison, who chanced to be passing.

Nothing had been said by the deceased indicating any intention to destroy his life. He had been paying attention to Mrs. Lulu S. Horrocks, Mrs. Musser's daughter, and was to have called on her last evening. He had also made an engagement to go out teaching with James M. Barlow. Mrs. Horrocks stated that there had been no unpleasantness between them to cause the commission of such an act; in fact their relations had been most amicable.

While engaged at Diawood's store the actions of the deceased seemed to indicate that his brain was affected. His memory was very poor at times, and his actions were very strange. Still there was no idea that anything serious would be the result. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death from a wound inflicted by a pistol in his own hands, and from all the circumstances, it appears that at the time his reason had given way, and he was suffering from temporary aberration.

The fearful intelligence was sent to his mother at Nephi, Utah, and his brother, Bishop Whitney, who was up in the cabin. Bishop Whitney arrived home about midnight last night, and Sister Whitney may possibly reach the city this evening. The burial will not take place until her arrival.

ANOTHER SUICIDE.

HENRY PINNER DELIBERATELY BLOWS OUT HIS BRAIN.

Following closely upon the awful occurrence of last evening—the death of C. S. Whitney—came the self-slaughter, this morning, of Henry Pinner, a Jew, who has been the representative in this city of the firm of Kohnsberg, Falk & Meyer, tobacco merchants, of San Francisco. When last seen by his friends this morning, Mr. Pinner seemed in good health and spirits. About half-past 10, however, he was seen by an employee of Bamberger & Co. to come from the back of the Post-office and go southward over a fence into a yard near by. A moment after a pistol shot was heard in the direction he had taken, and parties who rushed to the spot were horrified to see him lying on the ground in a pool of blood. The revolver—a .38 calibre—lay beside him, having been torn from his hand by his friends this morning. Blood was oozing out of the mouth and nose, and two ugly wounds in the head—one on each side. The ball had entered just above the right ear, and ranging backward, came out on the other side of the head. The body was taken up and carried into Mr. Greenwald's, where the deceased had his office.

Just after the shooting Mr. Greenwald discovered an envelope addressed to himself, on his table. Enclosed was a note, in which the man who was engaged to be married to the deceased and a note to Mr. Greenwald, giving reasons for the rash act, and showing that it was premeditated. It was dated August 6th, and was as follows:

Friend Jake:

When you find this letter I shall be gone. I am in a terrible condition. I have tried to avoid it, but there is no chance left for me in life, and I'll have to do it. For the nothing but disgrace would be left for me, and I can't await that. I am going away, leaving you, my fellow, in the lurch for the money I owe you. I am sorry for it, but I must do it. I am a sheepman, and I find my watch, scarf pin and so forth. Keep them. Write to my cousin Albert Abel, Denver, Col., and tell him how I died. Also for him to inform my mother that I died suddenly after a few days' illness, so as to keep the knowledge from her that her son died a suicide.

My brain is all mixed up, and I am even now racking my brain trying to find a way out of my misfortune, but there is none. Good bye.

HENRY.

The portion of the note which is omitted refers to some private affairs and as to how the shocking intelligence was received by the family. The deceased's betrothed, an estimable Jewish lady, who formerly resided in this city, was 34 or 35 years of age, and had a fair education. He was at one time deputy sheriff at Denver, Colorado, and was editor of a German paper there. His religious beliefs were taken charge of by his friends here, and placed in the hands of Sexton Jos. E. Taylor for interment.

Perry's Literary Journal.—The number of this popular home magazine for August is out. The contents are up to the usual excellent standard, and embrace, as leading articles, No. 4 of Apostle Moses Thatcher's paper on the "Persecutions of the Early Christians," "Sleep of the Six Handreds," a poem, with illustration, by J. Ward, "The Knights of Labor," with portrait of Master Workman Powderly, "The Loves of the Presidents," I, and "The Experiment at Darragh's." It has the usual departments of popular miscellany and summary of current events. The Journal has a field of its own, and should be read extensively by our people. Jos. Hyrum Perry & Co. are the publishers.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury yesterday (Friday) were several members of the police force.

A SHATTERED IDOL.

Much has been said about Sir Charles Dilke, the English Liberal, and only in the patched or fragmentary way characteristic of press dispatches. His history is an interesting one, and more particularly from the deplorable fact that the cause of his death was a political one.

He was born in 1844, and died in 1896. He was a member of the House of Commons for many years, and was a prominent figure in the Liberal party. He was a man of great ability and energy, and was a devoted follower of the Liberal cause. He was a man of great popularity, and was loved by his constituents. He was a man of great courage and conviction, and was a true leader of his people.
