THE ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETINGS.

It is time that the School Trustees in the several School Districts of this Territory were preparing for the annual meetings to be held, according to law, on the second Monday of July. At least ten days' notice is required to be given by the Trustees, either by advertising at least three times in some newspaper published in the county and having general circulation therein, or by posting notices in three public places in the district. The notice must state the time, place and object of the meeting.

One Trustee has to be elected in each district for the term of three years, and if any present Trustee holds his office by appointment, that position must also be filled by election. The registered voters of the District may vote for the election of School Trustees. But if the intention is to levy a tax for school purposes at the same meeting, the property taxpayers resident in the District are authorized to vote on that question whether they be registered voters or not, but none but registered voters may vote for the election of School Trustees. In our opinion it is better to have separate meetings for the election of trustees and for the levying of a tax for school purposes. But if both are intended, or any further business, at the same meeting, the notice must specify the several objects of the meeting. The annual report of all moneys received and expended by the Trustees during the year, must be submitted at the same meeting held for the election of Trustees. This report must be examined by an auditor appointed by the Trustees who is not one of their number, before it is submitted to the meeting.

Before that meeting the Trustees must cause to be taken a census of the school population, that is, the the children residing in the District between the ages of six and eighteen years. A statistical report, filled out according to a form printed in the school law, must be furnished by the Trustees to the County Superintendent before the tenth day of the ensuing August, or they are liable to prosecution on their bonds for neglect of duty.

If the business of the meeting should include the raising of a tax for school purposes, a copy of the notice of the meeting and of the minutes thereof, must be filed with the County Superintendent within ten days after the meeting, for the inspection of any member or taxpayer of the District.

The question has been raised as to whether the election of School Trustees comes within the provisions of the Edmunds law relating to the conduct of elections in Utah. This question we have invariably answered in the negative, for the reason that the law provides for no election officers at school meetings. The choosing of School Trustees is not such an election as is contemplated in the election laws of the Territory. It is a matter belonging to the people in their several School Districts which are not included in the political divisions of the Territory, such as precincts and counties. The people meet and choose their own Chairman and Secretary and their own manner of conducting the meeting, except that the voting must be by ballot. No ballot box is required or returns to be made as provided for in a political election, and the whole matter is of a different nature. To set the matter at rest, however, the following was this morning submitted to the Commissioners:

OFFICE OF TERRITORIAL SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Salt Lake City, U. T.
June 15th, 1883.

To the Hon. U. S. Commissioners of Utah Territory:

Gentlemen—The matter of the election of School Trustees at the election to be held in July having been submitted to me by many of the County Superintendents of District Schools in the Territory, I desire to call the attention of your honorable body to the school laws of this Territory by which meetings are authorized and required to be held in the several School Districts, on the second Monday of July in each year, for the purpose of electing one School Trustee for each District, and for the transacting of other school business. See Laws of Utah of 1880, p.p. 27-8; 1882, p. 83.

Also to ask your honorable body whether, in your opinion, the said meetings and election come within the meaning of the ninth section of the Edmunds law of March 22, 1882, thereby bringing them within the jurisdiction of the Commissioners?

As notices for these meetings should be posted at an early date, an immediate reply will greatly oblige.

Yours respectfully,
L. JOHN NUTTALL,
Ter. Supt. of Dist. Schools.

To this the Commissioners made the following response:

OFFICE OF THE
UTAH COMMISSION,
Salt Lake City, Utah,
June 15th, 1883.

L. John Nuttall, Territorial Superintendent of District Schools, Salt Lake City, Utah:

Sir:—In reply to your communication of June 15th, 1883, asking "whether the school meetings to be held on the second Monday of July, come within the meaning of the ninth section of the Edmunds law," I am directed by the Commission to say that as there are no election officers under the school law; and inasmuch as a registry list has been prepared under their direction as the basis of said school meetings they are of the opinion that no further action on their part is necessary.

I am, very respectfully,
ARTHUR L. THOMAS,
Sec'y Utah Territory.

The Trustees, then, may proceed to issue their notices and the people in due time to hold their meetings, and go on with the choosing of Trustees. And we remind all our friends, male and female, who are legally qualified to vote, that it is their duty to attend these meetings in full force, and elect such men as will work for their interests and the cause of education. If we are dilatory and negligent in those that appear to be small things, how shall we succeed in those that are great?

STATEMENT OF ELDER JOHN ALEXANDER.

THE outrage upon Elder John Alexander, which has made one more indelible stain upon the escutcheon of the State of Georgia, has occasioned much comment here and elsewhere. The facts have already appeared in this paper, also some false and ridiculous statements in relation to them sent by telegraph to the papers on the Coast which have been refuted by the parents of the young man who was injured. We now present the personal statement of Elder John Alexander made by him this morning, and have no doubt that it will prove highly interesting, because it comes from his own lips although it contains little that is new to our readers. His escape from death was certainly astonishing and will be considered directly providential by those who are willing to "acknowledge the hand of the Lord in all things:"

On the morning of the 1st of June I left Brother Reed's about three miles from Adairsville, Georgia, for that place. I told him I would go to Adairsville and see if I could make an appointment to preach as we had never held any meetings in that neighborhood. I talked to a few farmers along the road, but the results were not satisfactory, and when about a mile from Adairsville I started to return to Brother Reed's. When about half way between the two places, as I was singing aloud one of our hymns, I was startled by a noise and saw three masked men step out of a thicket and face me (the road here passed through a forest). This was about 11 o'clock in the morning. The men were masked by having what appeared to be some unbleached calico tied round their faces under their eyes, and which hung down on to there breasts. Their hats were pulled down over their foreheads to conceal the upper portions of their faces. One of the men was a slim man, over six feet high, I believe, who seemed the leader, the other two were men of about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches. When about 10 feet from me, the tallest man said, "Are you one of those Mormon Elders from Utah?" I told him I was. He replied "You G—d d—d son of a b— go up there in the brush. I answered, "I don't feel like going up. What do you want me to go for?" On this he blurted out, "You son of a b— go. I won't tell you again." He then drew his pistol and covered me. The other two following his example. I walked into the brush 50 yards the way they pointed. Then I stopped and turned round. The leader told me to go on. I told him I had gone as far as I was going. At this they drew their pistols and presented them at my face, about four feet off. I then turned to start up the hill again, when the leader gave me the first kick which threw me on my hands and knees. I raised myself and struck at him, but he was down hill and I missed him and struck a small tree and fell flat on the ground and rolled on to my side. Just as I fell one of the others, who was above me on the hill, ran three or four steps towards me and jumped on my stomach. Just as I was getting up the third one kicked me on the left side. I then started up the hill, very slowly, because of my great pain. When I had again gone about 150 yards I made the last stop. I turned round and said, "For God's sake, men, you don't mean to kill a young, innocent man. What have I done?" The leader answered, "Well, you son of a b—, you come out here preaching false doctrine, and you know its false, and say that it is." I replied "No, sir; I don't think it's false, I know it is not false, and I can't say that it is." He said, "Well, you're going to die right here, have you anything to say?" I told him, if they meant to kill me, I had something to say. He continued, "Well, what is it?" I asked him, "Will you allow me to offer up a few words of prayer." "Yes," he said, "if you'll be damn quick about it." I held my right hand up and placed my left across my breast and said, "Oh, my God, if it is Thy will that these men should take my life, I am willing to die," and a few more words which I do not recollect. I then dropped my arm and folded it across my breast and looked them straight in the face. As they lowered their pistols, one pointing to my face, another lower, I closed my eyes. The moment my eyes closed the three shots were fired. I recollect hearing the reports, but nothing after. My senses seemed taken away. I felt myself falling, but do not recollect striking the ground. When I came to, the first thing that I remember I was on my hands and knees looking around. Just as soon as I had done this I arose to my feet. I ran, or rather staggered or stumbled down to the road, and started. I did not know which way I was going or where I was going, but I kept on, until I found myself at Brother Reed's fence; and that was the first time I realized where I was. I there fell exhausted, and Brother Reed came, picked me up and carried me into the house. In about half an hour, I think, I came round so that I could talk to him. I believe it was about noon when I reached Bro. Reed's. Bro. Reed and family took the greatest care of me. My travelling companion, Bro. Oreon M. Wilson, of Hyrum, Cache Co., came to me the next evening. On Sunday Brothers Barber and Parish came with a buggy and, about 2 o'clock (they having held a meeting at Bro Reed's in the morning), we started for Bro. Barber's home at Haywood, about 16 miles distant. They left me at Bro. Smith's, in Haywood, until Wednesday, when Bro. Barber took me to Rome, about 15 miles, and on the evening train Brother Parrish started for Chattanooga with me.

Of the three shots one went through the front of my hat, (a low crowned black and white straw). As I was a little up the hill, and the hat was slightly tilted back, the ball went in at the front and almost immediately came out of the crown, giving the appearance of glancing upwards. This was the shot fired by the leader, who I noticed had his pistol pointed at my head.

My coat was rather open, and the bullet passed through it on the left side, just grazing the side of my watch chain. The third ball did not touch me.

When the three men shot, they were standing in a row about 12 steps from me.

I have no idea who any of the mobbers were, though the neighbors suspect certain parties.

BEAVER.—This afternoon we received a call from Hon. W. Fotheringham and Judge Cox, from Beaver. We learn from them that the prospects for crops are excellent, and there is also a good show for fruit in that locality.

Hanged.

DETROIT, 15. — A man named Warner, believed to be the person who outraged and stabbed little Nettie Lyons at Cheboygan on Tuesday night last, was taken from jail at that place last night by a mob of 500 and hung. The girl identified him as her assailant; but he maintained his innocence; after being let down: no confession was extorted from him.

Fraud and Corruption.

WASHINGTON, 15.—The commission appointed to investigate the allegations of fraud against Supervising Architect Hill, resumed its sitting this a.m. The commission decided to resume the examination of Stinemetz in connection with the charges of fraud and corruption in the construction of the Philadelphia Post Office. The witness said he had concluded his calculations and was prepared to show the difference between the price paid by government contractors for dressing stone for the entire building, and the actual cost of the work based upon liberal estimate for labor. A total amount paid by the Government to contractors was $818,700, the cost to the contractors allowing the liberal estimate of at least 30 per cent. for profit was $443,700, leaving $375,000 unnecessarily paid by the Government. The basement and a portion of the second story having been begun under a 15 per cent. contract and completed under a modified contract, these portions could not be included in his calculation, but thought the estimated difference in the two prices would add about $100,000 to the previous totals.

This concluded Stinemetz' testimony, and the question arose whether the commission and defense would admit that the same excess relatively existed in the cost of other public buildings erected under Hill, or whether the prosecution would be required to repeat their proof with expert testimony as to each. Alexander, of the commission, suggested that as the same principle would extend to all the buildings, it would seem to devolve upon the prosecution to connect Hill with the fraud charged in this alleged extravagance in the erection of the Philadelphia building. Coleman replied it might be as bad on principle to steal $50,000 as $2,000,000, but the defense might say in one building we admit extravagance, but you have not connected Hill with any fraud. The prosecution were able and proposed to prove the same extravagance, mismanagement or fraud were shown in connection with all the buildings, and that the contracts continued to be made after the supervising architect had been repeatedly warned and advised of their unfairness to the Government. A long discussion ensued flavored with several sharp passages between counsel; the point, however, was not decided, and the commission adjourned until to-morrow, when Stinemetz will be cross-examined.
