Forty-sixth Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 28.—Hamilin, Blaine, Logan and Morrill followed Bayard, all speaking highly of Chandler's personal integrity and the vigor and sincerity of his character.

Chandler first took his seat in the United States Senate in 1857, taking the oath at the same time with Hamilin, Bayard, Broderick, Preston, King, Russ, Curran, Dixon, Wade, Mallory and Jefferson Davis.

The oath was administered by Masson, of Virginia, and however faithful to it some of them afterwards were, Chandler believed and maintained every word of it, but it served its obligations to the end of his life.

Blaine also delivered a warm encouragement. It would not be an occasion to say that Chandler had no faults, but when his enemies would admit he had no meanness, his faults were of a strong nature.

He was at his best in his home life, and there his friends best loved to regard him.

Logan said no words of his could do justice to the worth of the dead senator. He, perhaps, felt too warm an affection for him to allow of a cold estimate of his merit, but it is honest, strong, far-seeing, deep-seeing and broadly patriotic was to be a great senator, Chandler was adopted and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 28.—The House was in committee on the whole on the revision of the rules.

Rule eight relative to duties of members, having been reached, Speaker offered the following amendment:

Whenever a quorum fails to vote on any question and objection is made for that cause, there shall be a call of the House and the yeas and nays shall be taken.

The clerk shall call the roll, and every member shall be answerable to his name or be held before the House under proceedings of the call shall vote on the pending question.

If those voting on a question shall be less than a majority of the House, the Speaker shall declare the quorum constitution and the pending question shall be decided as a majority of those voting shall appear. He submitted the amendment with reference to any hard question, but for the purpose of venting the House from remaining idle day after day at the will of the minority.

Carroll opposed the amendment.
Blackburn advocated it.

Conger declared it wrong and unconstitutional.

Logan submitted an amendment to Tucker's amendment, providing that those voting in the majority shall constitute a majority of those actually present in the House.

Hayes opposed the amendment.
The minority could be done by the majority to fight till the majority of the House could be obtained.

Pending further action the committee rose.

A message was received from the Senate transmitting resolutions adopted by that body relative to the late Senator Chandler. Speeches were then made in praise of the late Senator by Messrs. Newberry, Williams, Hubbard, Brewer, Robinson and others, after which the House adjourned.

EASTERN.

WASHINGTON.

Current Capital Affairs.

WASHINGTON, 28.—A prominent New York politician who has the confidence of Senator Conkling has authority for the statement that the New York Republican Convention will not be called until April, and that the probability is that the delegation to the Chicago convention will be instructed to vote for Senator Conkling for the Presidential nomination.

Col. Samuel Keck, Secretary of the National Republican Committee, left for his home in North Carolina last night. He said that Secretary Sherman will not be able to get the North Carolina delegation to the National Convention. He thinks that Grant is losing ground in New York.

A prominent member of Congress from Pennsylvania, whose judgment is entitled to special consideration, says that the State government, which meets at Harrisburg February 4th, will not instruct the delegates to vote for Grant. They would not be instructed to vote for any particular candidate, he thought.
The only instructions will, in his opinion, be to vote as a unit. This course would be pursued to secure more importance to Pen-sylvania.

Senator Blaine's re-appearance in the Senate chamber to-day was enthusiastically welcomed by his hosts of personal and political friends. He is in excellent health and does not seem to be at all distressed by the boom which is now making itself so strongly manifest in his Presidential interest in Pennsylvania and elsewhere. Regarding the Maine delegation, Senator Blaine said three days hence there will not be a vestige of the fusion legislature left. His family returned to Washington this evening.

Grant, Jr., familiarly known as "Buck," has recently made $100,000 by lucky speculation in the Senate elections committee have virtually closed the Ingalls case. Counsel have two weeks to prepare.

The Senate committee on appropriations have re-opened their discussion in regard to the fortifications appropriation bill, and finally decided to report the bill back to the Senate to-morrow.
